

MEXICAN SITUATION GRAVER THAN EVER

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan Hold Conference and Discuss Latest Developments

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Development of a few hours today in the relations between the United States and Mexico emphasized a gravity of affairs more ominous than at any time since President Wilson's administration began. Absolute silence was the order in official quarters.

The release of the Ward liner Morro Castle after peremptory demands by the United States terminated a delicate situation. Orders were in preparation to the commanders of the American warships lying off Vera Cruz to insist on her release.

A statement was in preparation today by Secretary Bryan and Counselor John Bassett Moore which Secretary Bryan brought to the White House for the president's approval. No intimation of its contents was revealed but it is believed that before many hours has passed a notice by the United States that it will not brook European interference in Mexico by the warships despatched to Mexican waters by the

CONVICT TESTIFIES AT EATON TRIAL

Dr. Brown Says That He Prescribed Arsenic for Admiral Eaton on the Officer's Request

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 24.—Further testimony from naval officers as to Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton's habits and conduct while in active service was looked for today in the trial of Jennie May Eaton, charged with poisoning her husband. The court room was crowded with spectators, who showed more than usual interest because of Attorney Geogan's statement that Mrs. Eaton would be called to the stand in her own defense. It could not be determined whether she would be reached on the list of witnesses today.

Peter S. McNally of Boston, a well known swimmer, testified to the habits and characteristics of Admiral Eaton while in command of the Massachusetts training ship. The then Capt. Eaton was intoxicated at times, apparently with liquor; at other times he was befuddled, laughed freely, talked incoherently, was unsteady on his feet, talked to himself and stared vacantly; yet there was no odor of liquor, testified Mr. McNally.

Loved Her Husband
"Mrs. Eaton told me that she would not allow anyone to harm a hair of the admiral's head," Judge Kelley said. Mrs. Eaton had told him many times that she loved her husband, although she did not always speak of him in affectionate terms. The admiral once said to Judge Kelley: "I have a remarkable wife, who has been of great help to me, but she has one obsession, her daughter Julie."

According to Judge Kelley, Admiral Eaton's estate is about $700 in debt. Acted As Mrs. Eaton's Friend
Judge Kelley on cross-examination said, he acted as Mrs. Eaton's friend rather than counsel. More than two years ago he had attempted to have her examined as to her sanity.

The court had ruled as inadmissible

a portion of a document called a declaration of trust, which Judge Kelley said was the result of his advice to Mrs. Eaton that "some paper" be drawn up. On March 10 Mrs. Eaton made an assignment to Judge Kelley for the benefit of her children.

Judge Kelley said that he had spent $3,552 out of the proceeds from the Naval Mutual Aid association for the expenses of the family since that time. On redirect examination the judge testified that Admiral Eaton had asked him to care for Mrs. Eaton after the admiral's death. He had no knowledge that the admiral used drugs.

Out of Jail to Testify
Dr. Jacob Brown, formerly a Boston physician but now serving a jail sentence for illegal practices, testified that in 1910 he prescribed a preparation containing arsenic for Admiral Eaton on the officer's request for a medicine that would rectify a physical impairment.

The prescription called for 400 pills each containing 1-100 of a grain of arsenic.

Later the admiral brought some of the pills to Dr. Brown, saying that a child had died from eating one of them.

Another time the admiral showed the witness some capsules which, he said, contained arsenic and which he used to kill dogs.

District Attorney Barker's cross examination of Dr. Brown was extended and was directed in part to showing that the witness could not give similar details regarding other patients. Dr. Brown complained that the prosecutor was using him unfairly and claimed that he was protecting other patients in refusing to go into details. He admitted he did not disclose his evidence until within a few weeks.

On redirect examination, he said Admiral Eaton was often intoxicated when he called on him.

BIDS FOR BAND STAND ON SOUTH COMMON

Opened Today, But Lowest Estimate Was Larger Than Amount Appropriated

Bids for the construction of the cement band stand and wading pool on the South common were opened this morning in the office of the commissioner of public buildings in the presence of Commissioner Henry F. Carr of the park board, but inasmuch as the lowest bid amounted to more than was appropriated for the job, the matter of awarding the contract was postponed to a later date.

This evening a special meeting of the members of the park board will be held at city hall for the purpose of selecting a spot on the common where the said band stand will be erected.

and the possibility of transferring money from one fund to another, in order to have the work done on the common will be discussed. But the municipal council will be called upon to make the necessary transfer. The sum of $2000 was appropriated for the construction of the said band stand, but the smallest bid this morning was $2147, providing the stand is erected on wooden columns, and $1100 more, if constructed on cement columns, and therefore Messrs. Cummings and Carr, who are in charge of awarding the contract, are in a dilemma and that will occasion a delay. The

LIQUIDATION NOT WANTED

By Local Stockholders of the New England Investment Co.—Man Mortgaged House to Buy Stock

A meeting of the Lowell stockholders of the New England Investment Co. was held in this city last night, the meeting having been called by Edmund Paradis of 23 Lee street for the purpose of getting together all the Lowell people who have shares in this company, which is about to liquidate.

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. Paradis and was presided over by Maxime Lepine. There were over 100 stockholders present and the main topic of discussion was the liquidation of the company, in which about $50,000 of Lowell's money is invested. All those present expressed themselves as being opposed to the liquidation of the company, for it is believed the organization can be placed on a safe footing.

In a short time the meeting represented only about half of the local stockholders, it was decided to hold another meeting Sunday evening in the rooms of the Citizens-Americans club in Dutton street, where all stockholders are expected to be present. The meeting will be called at 7:30 o'clock and the question of appointing two men to represent the Lowell stockholders at the liquidation, which will be held in Providence, R. I., on Oct. 28, will be discussed. It is believed the Sunday night meeting will oppose the plan of Colonel Marcotte of Manchester, N. H., president of the company, whose intention is to liquidate and reorganize the company under the laws of New Hampshire, but instead vote for the continuance of operations. It is firmly believed that the company can be placed on a safe footing.

The stockholders of Lowell have nearly $50,000 invested in this company, the amounts invested varying from $10 to $2000. Among the largest stockholders are Mrs. Cordelia Bragg of French street, $2000; Joseph D. Parise, 122 Central street, $1300; A. J. Coutu, Woburn street, $1250; Maxime Lepine, Fox street, $800; Theophile Lamarre, Salem street, $800, and many others.

It was stated this morning that one of the large stockholders, a few years ago, or when the company was organized, mortgaged his property for $1200 in order to invest money in this company. It was told at the meeting last night that a lumber forest owned by the company in New Brunswick, which was valued at about $20,000, was recently sold for $1200, this forest being 10 miles in length by one mile wide. The company a year after its inception, paid ten per cent dividends on the money invested, the said money paid in dividends, it is claimed was taken not from the profits of the company, but from money received for stock. This amount it is said was paid twice. The annual meeting of the corporation is scheduled to be held on Jan. 7, but the stockholders say the directors want the liquidation of the company before that time.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 o'clock Saturday evenings.

FACTORY BUSINESS GOOD

—Big Shoe Building Proposed

There are 12 large manufacturing concerns hunting locations for their factories in New Hampshire, says the Nashua Telegraph, and at least seven of them and possibly the eighth have within two days shown preference for Nashua and made inquiry as to what the city can do for them by way of location for building sites, or for factory floor space.

In addition to the manufacturers, Col. E. G. Osgood received a letter yesterday from a man hunting a hotel location, in which it is set forth that the hotel man is particularly desirous of a Nashua location, that he has 33 chances in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, but that he prefers the one chance in Nashua if he can find the desired location.

Within the past 10 days there have been 12 applications for factory floor space in Nashua at the board of trade, and most of them ask that immediate answer be given if there is a chance, that the writers may come to Nashua to inspect the grounds and prospective factory rooms for themselves with the eye to making arrangements for removal to this city.

Just what is calling the manufacturers toward New Hampshire in general and Nashua in particular has not yet been figured out by Nashua business men, but the impression is that New Hampshire labor laws have something to do with the situation, and once headed toward the Granite state, the natural manufacturing facilities offered by Nashua are doing the rest.

One of the largest companies in New England manufacturing a high grade fibre for the shoe industry, a company with several factories scattered about New England, communicated yesterday with the board of trade, and asked what Nashua could do toward furnishing a factory location with 10,000 to 20,000 feet of floor space and with side track accommodation close at hand.

The firm wrote that it was desirous of removing one of its branches and that Nashua appealed to the officials as being a good place to locate because of its shipping facilities. The letter said a representative of the firm will come to Nashua for an inspection in case the desired floor space can be offered.

Colonel Osgood writing for the board of trade, told of the projected industrial building and asked how long before the firm wished to make its removal. He expects an answer within a day or two setting forth the needs of the company and the length of time it can wait for the factory room in question.

SAVINGS BANKS

Safe and Sound and are Not Controlled by the Speculators

The failure of the Traders bank should not cause anybody to lose confidence in the other savings banks or national banks. The savings banks are under the supervision of the savings bank commission, which gives the depositors the most absolute protection. It should be remembered, therefore, that what is said against the "savings department" of national banks does not apply in any respect to the other local savings banks, all of which are absolutely safe and sound. These banks are also owned by local people, who are thoroughly reliable. This is also true of the other national banks. They are controlled in town, whereas the Traders was controlled by speculators who resided in other cities.

Depositors Read in Books
Several pass books were turned in to the examiners at the Traders National bank this morning and each depositor was given a receipt for his book. Bank Examiner Beane stated this afternoon that it is necessary that all books be sent in as they will have to be balanced with the accounts at the bank.

A number of receiver's certificates are being printed and will be in the hands of Receiver Murray next week. Any person who has been given an ordinary receipt may exchange it for a certificate showing the amount in the book next week. This process is being carried out to accommodate the hundreds of foreigners who fear to part with their money books, unless some security is given.

WHIST TOURNAMENT
Conducted at St. Louis' Parochial Hall Last Night—Musical Program and Speeches

A largely attended whist party for the benefit of St. Louis' church was held last night in the parochial school hall in Bolsovert street under the auspices of St. Anne's sodality. The affair was a real success in every way and the organizers were warmly congratulated by the pastor, Rev. J. B. LaBrosse.

The whist tournament was presided over by Marcel Roussel and various costly prizes were awarded the winners at the close of the tournament. An elaborate musical program was rendered, those taking part being Miss Alma C. Dubois, Yvonne and Alice Molsan, Rodolphe Boudreau, Edmond S. Desmarais, Arlette Brunelle, Ida Mongrain and E. L. Turcot.

The judges at what were Mesdames Philine Soulier and Henri Chaput, while the members of the committee in charge were as follows: Mesdames Alfred Gosselin, Serville Renaud, Odette Caron, Joseph Masse, O. Molsan, Calixte Leguin and Philippe Fortin.

Sneak Thieves Break Into Brookline Home and
Get Jewelry

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Sneak thieves and house breakers are still at work in Brookline despite the activities of the police. For the past month a large number of robberies have taken place and the thieves have secured a considerable amount of jewelry. Tuesday evening there were two more houses entered, but the police endeavored to keep the matter from the public and not until yesterday was it given out.

The thieves entered the house Tuesday evening by climbing trees where the branches stretched out near the windows of the second story. The first robbery occurred at the home of Leonard L. Elden, 55 Evans road, while the family was at dinner on the first floor. The loot secured was $127 in money, a diamond ring containing a gold collar pins with three ladies' set in them, ladies' gold watch, with "M. B. C." marked on the case; locket and pin and a lady's solitaire diamond ring valued at several hundred dollars.

An attempt at robbery was made at the home of N. L. Ammer of 6 Hawes street, in the Longwood section. A raid in the house heard footsteps on the upper floors and went to investigate. The burglars were frightened away.

KILLED BY CAR

Held by Police

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Louis Seastrand, the two and one-half-year-old daughter of Rev. August P. Seastrand, pastor of the East Boston Lutheran Trinity church, was killed by a big semi-convertible car at noon yesterday in front of her home, 210 Lexington street, just where the car route ends.

Joseph Doliver, the motorman, is held for manslaughter, and appeared this morning in court. The child's parents do not blame the man, and he declares he was not responsible.

This is the third of a series of street car accidents in the last two days.

The Seastrand child, who had been carefully confined to the yard, succeeded in escaping her mother's eye, and anxious to see the children coming from school had opened the gate. She ran to meet her 4-year-old sister, Viola.

The semi-convertible had just ended its trip and was preparing to return to the tunnel.

Viola called to her little sister to come upon the sidewalk, and she started to do so. Seeing the child making for the sidewalk Doliver started the car on a signal from Fleming. Somehow or other, the little girl turned about and crept under the forward truck and being so tiny she was not seen.

The baby's cry caused the motorman to apply the brakes, but the child had been dragged fully 25 feet, according to neighbors. The baby's moans brought Mrs. Seastrand out of her house, and she and Conductor Fleming carried the body into the house. Her moans ceased as she was laid upon the bed and she died almost immediately after.

Mr. Seastrand was in town until evening and didn't learn of the death of his child until he returned to the house. The Seastrands have been popular in East Boston, where Mr. Seastrand has just been placed in charge of the new Lutheran church on Sutetoga street.

QUICKSILVER MINING WORTH
over a million dollars' value of quicksilver was produced in the United States for 1912, according to figures compiled by H. D. McCaskey, of the United States Geological Survey. On January 10 last Mr. McCaskey's preliminary figures, published by the Survey, gave a production of 25,147 flasks of 15 pounds each, valued at $1,607,150. The final figures are 25,064 flasks valued at $1,623,741, showing an error in the early estimate of only 0.3 per cent. These figures indicate an increase over 1911 of 25 per cent in quantity and $72,592 in value. Of the 1912 output California produced 20,324 flasks, the remaining 4,740 flasks coming from Nevada and Texas.

The total value of the quicksilver production of California, in the period of 63 years, from the earliest output to date, is stated at $1,225,695. The highest annual value of the production was $4,123,533 in 1874, when the output was 50,259 flasks of 15 pounds each. There were 17 producing quicksilver mines in California in 1912. The total quantity of ore mined was 125,195 short tons.

GUN FIGHT WITH POLICE

Boy Bandits Who Terrorized Waltham Engaged in Desperate Battle With Pursuers

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Two bandits, each armed with a brace of revolvers, after breaking into the Bleachery railroad station in Waltham yesterday afternoon, engaged in a running gun fight with police of three towns until one of the bandits was killed and the other shot. The other escaped in a motor car.

William Dubois, 17 years old, who lives in the Pleasant Valley section of Lawrence, is at the Newton hospital with 17 pieces of shot and bullets in his body. A police guard is watching him, and if he survives he will be charged with assault with intent to kill. None of the shower of bullets which sped from his revolvers found a mark, although several policemen and boys had narrow escapes.

The raid of the two young bandits, their efforts at escape, the pitched battle in the underbrush beside the railroad tracks at Newton and the final capture of one, after a well known woman resident had passed a loaded shotgun to one of the pursuers in the face of a storm of bullets, formed the greatest sensation which the entire section through which they passed has ever experienced.

George Green, whom Dubois says was his companion, has escaped. All efforts of the police to locate him have proved unavailing.

Point Guns at Officers

The two young men were sitting in the Bleachery station yesterday afternoon about 2.35, when Station Master J. F. Mason locked up his little office to go outside to look after some baggage. When he came back he saw the two young men rifling his office. They had broken in the door.

Mason grappled with them and was pushed aside while both ran away. He telephoned the Waltham police. Inspector McKenna followed after them in an automobile. He caught up with them and they covered him with their revolvers and went into the bushes near Bemis. There the two separated and McKenna telephoned the police of surrounding towns and cities and hovered about their wake. Green went toward Waltham again, keeping away from the roads. Dubois found a boat on the bank of the Charles river near the Bemis bridge, unhooked it and started down stream toward Watertown.

Young Bandits Sighted

In the Watertown police station Policeman John J. Clifford was at the station house, but not on duty, when the telephone call from McKenna reached there. He was assigned by the chief on duty to go to the river and capture Dubois.

Clifford found the young bandit trying to pull the boat over the Watertown dam. Dubois had encountered a citizen at the bathhouse just before he got to the dam who had asked him in a general way where he was going. Dubois' answer was "Get out of here."

HEAD ITCHED AND BURNED

Dandruff Could Be Seen Plainly in Hair and on Coat Collar. Lots of Hair Fell Out. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured in Four Weeks.

713 Dudley St., Dorchester, Mass.—"My trouble began with dandruff. It caused me much trouble and after a while my hair began falling out. The dandruff could be seen very plainly in my hair and also on my coat collar. It caused my head to get itchy. The itching and burning caused scratching and left sores on my head. I lost much sleep through the night. Every time I combed my hair lots of hair would fall out."

"I tried — and two other remedies without success. I suffered almost two years until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Then I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I was relieved a little bit. Then I got a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in four weeks I was all cured." (Signed) James Mahoney, May 1, 1913.

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 2-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Got Revolvers in Lawrence

Before he was sent to the hospital, Dubois told the police that he had secured the revolvers which he carried at Lawrence. From a description of the weapons, it is believed they were a part of a lot of goods stolen from a Lawrence hardware store on Sunday night.

In the boat which Dubois had occupied the police discovered a number of articles which they allege Dubois told them he and his companion had stolen. They also recovered some clothes which he said he had taken when he broke into the home of a family named Stanley at Lowell.

Dubois told Lieut. Millmore at Newton that he had thrown over from his boat several articles when he saw that he was hard pressed.

Throughout the run and fight of the police and Dubois great excitement was caused. The news of the shooting spread rapidly and while the people who lived in the vicinity where the various shootings occurred turned out at the unusual and ominous sounds, there was little widespread excitement until the fight was over so rapidly did the scenes shift in the drama as it unfolded over miles and miles in its course.

The whole affair was over inside of three hours.

Green Still at Large

Police of Waltham, Watertown, Boston and Newton are making an effort to locate the man who was with Dubois, but no trace of him had been discovered.

The Bleachery station, where the attempt at robbery was made by the two bandits, is several miles from the point where Dubois was finally shot and captured. It is on the Watertown branch of the Boston & Maine railroad.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Centralville Rebekah lodge, 137, I. O. O. F., held last night in Odd Fellows hall was preceded by the anniversary supper. A large amount of business was transacted with Bessie L. Worrall presiding. An entertainment followed under the direction of Miss Estel Abare. Miss Eva Henderson contributed several very enjoyable songs, accompanied by Miss Leona Small as pianist. A short sketch provided a great deal of fun, the following taking part: Essie Abare, Elizabeth Wells, Edward Perry, Abner Buchanan, Thomas Smith, Charles Wells, Miss Lizzie Eastman was in general charge of the evening. Among those present was the district deputy, Mrs. Jennie Crompton and suite, of Lawrence.

Centralville Lodge, I. O. O. F.

David Moore, a charter member of the lodge and for many years a resident of Chelsea, was a visitor at the last meeting of the lodge. It was announced that the annual meeting of the Riverside building committee would be held Oct. 25 and as every member of Centralville lodge is interested in this building committee, it is expected a large number will be present. After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

BURNED AT SEA

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The loss on the steamer Templemore, burned at sea and towed into this harbor by the revenue cutter Androscoggin, will not be so heavy as at first thought. Investigation today revealed more than $50,000 worth of copper which remains undamaged. Representatives of the Liverpool owners say that the engines could be put into good working order in a short time.

BOXING MATCH

Lenney and Shepherd
Fight to a Draw at
Gloucester

GLoucester, Oct. 21.—About 900 fans witnessed the opening of the boxing season at city hall last night, under the direction of the Lennox Athletic club. There were three 16-round bouts and all pleased the crowd. The first was between Eddie Martin of New York and Young Marley of Roxbury. The decision going to Marley.

Both started as if desirous to end the contest right off the reel and by the end of the third had fought themselves to a standstill. The seventh round was the New Yorker's Marley holding, but after that the Roxbury boy forced the fighting to the end, Martin being perceptibly

The second bout witnessed the debut in this country of a Belgian, Eddie Brown, who faced Dave Powers of Malden. The Belgian for the first five rounds had a share of the better of it, displaying a fair share of ring craft. From the sixth to the ninth Powers forced the fighting and in the sixth the Belgian barely stayed off a knockout by clinching.

In the eighth Brown slipped and stubbed for the count of five, but came back with a hard left to the jaw. In the ninth the Belgian came on aggressively and Powers used his elbows, and delivered two palpably low blows, which caused the crowd to register a decided protest. The advantage of the 10th was with the Belgian, who

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way, when the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substance for calomel.

Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

PROBLEMS IN PORTO RICO

Sugar and Tobacco Interests are Getting Great Wealth out of the
Island, Says Bishop Van Buren

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 21.—The

sugar and the tobacco interests are getting great wealth out of Porto Rico, but the island itself is not sharing these profits, says the Rt. Rev. James H. Van Buren, for ten years Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Porto Rico. Bishop Van Buren left the island a year ago after ten years' service and is now rector of Christ church at Madison, Ind. "Problems in Porto Rico" was the subject of an address he delivered today before the Lake Mohonk conference of Friends of the Island, and other dependent peoples.

The three principal industries of the island, he said, "are sugar, tobacco, and coffee production. The removal of a tariff between Porto Rico and the rest of the United States has so stimulated these industries, especially the first two, that it is evident to the most casual observer that there is in the island widespread and genuine commercial prosperity. More people are employed, more hours a day, more days in the week and with more money in the envelope than ever before. Thousands of acres under most perfect cultivation testify to the truth of a remark which was made to me not long before I came away, to this effect: 'The time is not far distant when everything in Porto Rico that is not owned or controlled by the tobacco trust, will be owned or controlled by sugar.'

"The development of these two industries during the past 15 years has been no less than marvelous. Everywhere the old-fashioned sugar mill has given place to the most modern control and we have made five or six, at least, to grind where only one ground before. Miles upon miles of tobacco fields covered with cheese cloth resemble huge sawmills in that land where snow and ice are unknown. Millions upon millions of dollars have been invested there.

"But why do I speak of this among the problems? Because all this prosperity is due to the trusts, and as yet the trust is itself a problem. The profits arising from these great industries are not returned to the island, they are emptied into the coffers of syndicates in New York and Madrid."

Bishop Van Buren spoke of the great task of amalgamating the two streams of civilization—Spanish and American—which now flow in Porto Rico side by side. The problem, he said, was to preserve the best of the old Spanish customs. Loyalty to the American flag could best be taught, he thought, first, by never emphasizing nor accentuating racial differences; secondly, by instilling patriotism in the public schools. At least six times as many

Porto Rican children attend school now as when the Stars and Stripes were first raised on the heights of Guanica 15 years ago.

The Porto Ricans, he asserted, ardently desire citizenship and he believed they should have it. He considered it most unfortunate that the problems which the island presents have to be dealt with at long range, that the island must be governed from Washington and the church administered from New York.

THE U. S. BUNTING CLUB

The Annual Meeting to Be Held Tonight—Several Contests for the Officers

Tonight is the night of the annual meeting of the United States Bunting Club, one of the prominent organizations of this city, and the event will take place in Elks hall in Middle street. The principal business is the election of officers, and of four new members to the board of directors, the others still having another year to serve as the term calls for two years.

Philip McNulty is a candidate for re-election to the presidency and has, it is said, no opposition. This is a tribute to his faithful and competent execution of the duties of that office for some time past. Another unopposed candidate is Mr. Fred Humphreys, who has been induced to run for the office of treasurer, which he held formerly. Mr. Humphreys is also a big favorite with the members of the club. John Crawford is a candidate for the vice-presidency and like the two above mentioned, has no one running against him for that office.

The secretaryship and the board of directors are the objects of two interesting contests. In the latter body, there are four new members to be elected, for a term of two years, and for these four chairs, there are about ten or a dozen candidates, each conducting a vigorous campaign among the members. It is expected that the voting will be close in this contest. Another interesting contest is that between Albert Lanson and George Ensey for the office of financial secretary and both of these men have many supporters in the organization. The members are watching these contests with interest and enthusiasm.

Many other matters of importance, regarding the plans for the activities of the coming year, etc., are to be discussed and acted upon during the session. A large attendance is expected this evening.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 to 9 o'clock Saturday evenings.

THE SMALLER THE INCOME, THE GREATER THE PERCENTAGE SPENT FOR FOOD AND RENT

In connection with a consideration of the opportunities, or lack of opportunity, for adequate nutrition when prevail among the poorer classes in large cities, it became apparent that there are in such communities not a few families which actually suffer from a lack of sufficient food. The main items of expenditure among the laboring classes are for food and rent. These are, of course, absolutely essential. It is interesting to note, therefore, that the statistics that have lately become available show the percentage of income expended on food and food increases as the income decreases. These stubborn facts enable us to realize the keenness of the struggle to make ends meet in poorer homes, even with a regular income when it is very small. When over 50 per cent of the wages earned is thus disbursed, the opportunity to obtain other necessities—not to mention essentials—is so limited that frequently recourse is had to a reduction in the food bill, which is already as low as is consistent with the maintenance of health. Here is a condition which perhaps permits the inroad of disease among the poor quite as readily as other unhygienic living conditions, particularly those pertaining to housing and environment. When there is even a moderate expenditure for alcohol the situation is even worse. The Journal of the American Medical Association, thinks our sociologists have not sufficiently appreciated in the past that the occurrence of conditions in which the support of the family and the provision of even the least necessities prevent the attainment of any variety and interest in life and almost enforce a monotonous existence reacts in a variety of ways on the health and efficiency of the community through the diet factors referred to. The attempts at amelioration and reform must accordingly take into account possible changes in the mode of feeding which might set free a greater proportion of the income for other things than food. Dietary habits need to be dealt with in this field quite as much as ignorance and the "stultifying influence of the surroundings."

BIG U. S. BANK

Vanderlip Wants $100,000,000 Institution to Control Currency

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A government-controlled and operated central bank to dominate the financial system of the country entered the legislative arena yesterday as a rival of the administration regional reserve currency plan. Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank of New York, presented the new plan to the senate banking and currency committee. He had evolved the scheme as the result of conferences with members of the committee who, he said, had expressed approval of such a plan.

Under his proposal the government, through a board of seven members, appointed for terms of 14 years and receiving salaries of $15,000 or $17,500 a year, would establish a huge bank with $100,000,000 capital, which would control financial conditions by powers conferred on it to issue money, to discount commercial paper for banks and to concentrate the reserve gold of this country.

Mr. Vanderlip suggested that if possible the stock of this institution should be held by the public as an investment security. The stock would have no voice or vote in the control of the bank which would under all circumstances rest entirely with the government. Mr. Vanderlip pointed out that his bill differed from the administration plan in that it absolutely eliminated the bans from participation in the administration of the system which would control the issue of currency.

Senator Brewster, during the examination of Mr. Vanderlip, said he favored such a plan because he believed it would operate to prevent a concentration of credit and money. Mr. Vanderlip said he had talked over his plan with a few bankers and that they favored it.

"Do you think that bankers generally would accept it, or would we have another Boston convention if we adopted it?" asked Senator Reed.

"I think bankers generally would be somewhat checked at first by the idea of absolute government control," answered Mr. Vanderlip, "but I think that when they understand the safeguards thrown about the appointment of the controlling board, and the quality of men who would be named, they would accept it with great favor. It eliminates the provision of the administration bill which would force banks to supply a part of their funds to the national system, eliminates the objectionable principle that would compel mutual discounting among federal reserve banks and provides for the issue of currency in the form of government fiat money."

TWO DAYS LONGER

For Free Pants

The demand for an extra pair of Pants with Suit or Overcoat order made to measure for $12.50, advertised by me last Friday, was so brisk that I have decided to continue the same offer for two more days, Friday and Saturday.

My regular patrons as well as the new customers are entitled to take advantage of this unusual offer, therefore the time has been extended. Don't wait for another chance, order at once.

I opened my 18th store two weeks ago. From the amount of cloth cut up each week I have a number of ends left, in most cases enough for a pair of Pants; at this writing I have 42 of these ends, and Mr. Reader, you can have your pick. Made any way you want. They are worth $5.00 a pair. With Suit or Overcoat order I WILL GIVE YOU A PAIR FREE.

This enables me to keep my stock clean and everything turned over irrespective of the prices at which they were sold.

LADIES

In the near future I intend making Mannish Coats for the women of Lowell. I am negotiating at present with one of the leading pattern cutters in New England, to take charge of this branch. I have made garments for your fathers, brothers, and your sons. I want the wives, daughters and sisters of these men, my customers. I have been asked hundreds of times if I made ladies' garments and I had to answer no, but in the near future my answer will be yes. The goods I will use in these coats are the same as I use in the men's, mostly plaid back, polo cloth. Colorings in brown, gray, blues and fancies. I can assure the ladies of Lowell the newest Raglan shoulder, split sleeve shoulder, and the latest Balmacean effects in Coats, made with patch pockets or plain, collar made plain, military or combination. I will make these to your measure. Mannish styles for a price. Overcoat to order $15.00. Look for my announcement later. In the meantime, come in and get samples for comparison. Now don't misunderstand me, I am not going in the ladies' tailoring business. I am going to make ladies' mannish coats only, which this season are roomy and manly. The goods I show in my windows are the same for men and women.

MEMORIAL TO MAJ. BUTT

FOUNTAIN SOUTH OF THE WHITE HOUSE TO BE DEDICATED IN HONOR OF TITANIC VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Plans will be completed in the near future for the dedication of a fountain south of the White House, in honor of the memories of Major Archibald W. Butt, former White House military attaché, and Francis D. Millet, painter and author, who lost their lives in the Titanic disaster early in 1912. Announcement of the completion of the fountain was made yesterday. Former President Taft is chairman of the committee which raised the fund for the erection.

The fountain includes a large bowl of Tennessee marble, from the center of which rises a shaft to the height of 12 feet. The water is thrown aloft from four globes brimming over the sides of the bowl as a cascade. Two allegorical figures, symbolizing liberty and art, are a part of the general scheme. Around the edge of the bowl is the following inscription:

"In memory of Francis Davis Millet, 1874-1912, and Archibald Willingham Butt, 1865-1912, this monument has been erected by their friends, with the sanction of congress."

Both the sculptor and the architect of the memorial donated their services to the memorial committee.

Hundreds of Exact Elevations Determined by United States Geological Survey Topographers

Engineers and surveyors who need to have accurately determined points from which to start surveys of any kind find the spirit-leveling bulletins published by the United States Geological Survey of considerable value. These bulletins contain the results of spirit leveling in all parts of the country and give the exact elevations or altitudes of a great number of points. From 1896 to 1916, inclusive, the geological survey established more than 1500 datum points in the state of Texas, the work being done under the direction of R. H. Marshall, chief geographer, in co-operation with the state during 1902, 1903, 1909 and 1910. Bulletin 465—"Results of Spirit Leveling in Texas"—gives a list of the exact elevations above mean sea level of these points determined in connection with the topographic mapping of the survey. While the survey's published maps show the elevations of points within the area indicated, these elevations are merely approximate, whereas the elevations listed in the bulletin are given to the thousandth of a foot. Engineers and others who have occasion to use the bench-mark elevations should have a copy of the spirit-leveling bulletin for reference. It is available for free distribution and may be had on application to the director of the geological survey, Washington, D. C.

FISH AND GAME CLUB

Mr. W. S. Holt Gets Encouraging Letters From High Officials of the State Association

Mr. Willis S. Holt, one of the directors of the local fish and game club is in receipt of a communication from John B. Burnham, president of the Anna Game Protective and Propagation Ass'n. of New York, congratulating the local club on its work for the protection of game and the stocking of the various localities in this vicinity. Mr. Burnham stated that in another year, his association may be able to supply the local organization with breeding stock, especially ducks, for stocking purposes. He also expressed himself as willing to come to this city at some future date and deliver an illustrated lecture.

Mr. John B. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Massachusetts Fish and Game League has also written to Mr. Holt in regard to the work of the club, enclosing news of the league and congratulating the local club for the good results of its earnest efforts. Mr. Smith urges the local members to aid in a membership campaign and this plan will doubtless be carried out, as it is of importance to sportsmen to get as many as possible interested in the work. Mr. Holt has been particularly prominent in this field, having been a prime mover in the forming of the local club.

The Massachusetts Fish and Game League proposes to introduce a combination fisherman-hunter license bill at the coming session of the legislature in January. A tentative draft of the bill has been prepared, largely through the courtesy of Sen. Gordon W. Gordon, which provides that the residents of the state, other than aliens, desiring to fish or hunt, shall pay or contribute to the treasury of the state, through any town or city clerk, the sum of $1.25.

The bill further provides that town and city clerks shall receive a fee of $25. for each license issued, and that the balance ($1.00) shall be used by our fish and game commissioners for constructing fish hatcheries, game farms, etc., for propagating, distributing and protecting inland fish and game. The bill exempts boys under the age of seventeen and also allows land owners to hunt or fish on land owned or leased by them without obtaining a license, when such land is used exclusively for agricultural or summer home purposes and not for open club fishing or shooting privileges.

This bill when enacted will provide the commissioners with a minimum fund of $200,000, and should result in the rapid construction of fish hatcheries and game farms and the buying or leasing of preserves throughout the state sufficient to propagate fish and game enough to adequately restock and to keep stocked sadly depleted inland waters and covers, and to make fishing and hunting in Massachusetts once more a real joy and pleasure; affording at the same time a beautiful supply of food fish to many thousands of poor people in the interior of the state, and furnishing additional incentive to go afield with rod and gun to those who believe in the conservation of health and the prolongation of life to be obtained through the enjoyment of the rarest of God-given recreative exercises known to man.

Mr. Smith, in his letter, urges all to take an active interest in this matter and give it publicity, in order that the legislation may be carried out successfully. It is desirable, he said, that the league should obtain a sizeable membership before the convening of the legislature. Mr. Holt will take the matter up, and with his usual enterprise and earnestness do what he can for the betterment of conditions.

MANY POWDERS IRRITATE BUT COMFORT POWDER HEALS, SAYS SALEM MOTHER.

Mrs. Ella Call of Salem, Mass., says: "I have used several powders for baby which only irritated its chafed and tender skin more, but in Comfort Powder I have found the right powder at last. It gives splendid satisfaction in every way and I shall use no other. Comfort Powder is acknowledged by physicians, trained nurses and mothers to be a skin healing wonder. Be sure you get the genuine with the signature of E. S. Sykes on the box."

TO STOCK LONG POND

Mr. Holt Has Received the Following Letter Relative to Stocking Long Pond in Dracut

Mr. Willis S. Holt, Fire Station, Westford street, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I have yours of the 14th in regard to Long Pond, and shall be glad to help you in the matter of the shipment of fish next season. We have nothing in the hatcheries now, and shall not have until early spring.

Very respectfully,
F. J. Beal, Commissioner.

TERRIBLE ATROCITIES

COMMITTED BY TROOPS OF ALL THE WARRING BALKAN STATES, SAYS CARNEGIE COMMISSION

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Troops of all the warring Balkan states committed atrocities, according to the evidence gathered by the International Carnegie commission in its searching inquiry just ended. The conclusions of the commission are to be published in book form, with illustrations and facsimiles of some of the documents on which the report is based.

One of the noteworthy tasks was the minute examination and verification by the commissioners of the famous packet of letters from Greek soldiers captured by the Bulgarians, containing horrible descriptions of how Greek soldiers "avenaged themselves" on Bulgarians who fell into their hands. The commission believes that it has established the authenticity of these letters. Other documents testify that the Greeks occasionally made use of the forbidden dum-dum bullet and show also the misdeeds of Bulgarians and other belligerents. The inquiry did not extend to the Roumanians.

The commission went to the scenes of alleged atrocities and interrogated at length every class of witnesses, from soldiers who took part in the battles to women and children who were spectators and victims of the horrors. Some of the most important evidence taken by the commissioners is said to have been from children.

While it was found that the Bulgarians had committed the greatest faults, the soldiers of other nations taking part in the war also were guilty of many hideous acts.

WIRELESS HAS 3000 MILE RADIUS

The Darien wireless station, which is being built at Caimito, Panama, will have a sending and receiving radius of 3,000 miles and will be able to talk to San Francisco or the Arlington station, near Washington. When it is finished, government messages from Washington will be sent to the Canal Zone direct, without the present relay at Key West. It is being built exclusively for government business, principally as a relay station for communicating with ships of the navy in southern waters. It will be able to talk to Valdivia, 421 miles south of Valparaiso; and with Buenos Aires. It could reach a vessel anywhere along the eastern coast of the United States, halfway to Gibraltar, or near the island of St. Vincent, 505 miles west of Africa. Its antennae will be supported by three 600-ft. towers standing on bases 150 feet above sea level, and will span an arm of Gatun Lake which will form good electrical grounding. The Poulsen wireless apparatus, using sustained oscillations, is to be installed making it a 100-kilowatt plant.

SPEAK FOR REPUBLICANS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Senators Borah of Idaho and Cummins of Iowa were added yesterday to the list of members of congress who are to speak for the republican party in the Maryland, New Jersey and Massachusetts state campaigns within the next 10 days.

BIDS FOR BAND STAND

Contract specifies that the work must be finished Dec. 15, but it will be necessary to extend the time.

The other bids submitted were as follows: Cyrus Barton, $2500 and $25 less for wooden columns; William H. Penn, $2313; Joseph A. Jolohn, $2353.50 and $352 less for wooden columns; D. H. Walker, $2700. Those bids were opened at 11 o'clock.

To Sell Gasoline

Some time ago a citizen of this city interviewed Commissioner Cummings on the advisability of selling gasoline from the edge of the sidewalk, as is being done in many places from Boston to Canada, and inasmuch as the commissioner was not in a position to give a satisfactory reply, he wrote to the deputy chief of the state police, who replied that the state police could not approve such action. The reply was as follows:

Boston, Mass., Oct. 23, 1913. Lawrence Cummings, Esq., Commissioner of Public Property and Licenses.

Dear Sir: Your communication of recent date relative to the storage of gasoline underground and the pipe line laid to the curbing where the fluid could be sold to any purchaser, the pipe when not in use to be securely locked, that is maintained by some in the practice of handling and selling gasoline in all the cities and towns. The Standard Oil people requested the opinion of this department in the matter and the answer at that time was that this department could not approve of that method of supplying gasoline, so the project fell through. Since then our opinion has not changed in the matter and as at present advised we could not approve it.

Respectfully yours, George C. Neal, Deputy Chief.

Contract Awarded

Purchasing Agent Fore this morning awarded the contract for 300 tons of New River steam coal for the water department to D. T. Sullivan, whose bid was $171. The other dealer who submitted a bid was E. A. Wilson, whose figures were $174.

Permit Granted

A permit was today granted the proprietors of the Merrimack house for the reinforcing of the second floor of the building which is situated at the corner of Dutton and Merrimack streets, at an approximate cost of between $300 and $400.

Board of Health

According to reports from the board of health officer, the city is practically clear of contagious diseases, for this week only two cases were reported, one of typhoid fever and another of diphtheria.

Several Applicants

Examiner Lathrop of the state highway commission was at city hall this forenoon and examined 12 young men who applied for chauffeur's licenses.

Work Resumed

After a layoff of two weeks on account of the rain, the work of filling Third street from Fremont to Bridge was resumed yesterday by employees of the street department. In Bridge street, from Ludlum street to the city line, another gang of men are working on macadamizing the road, and the same material is being used as was used by the town of Dracut on the highway to the city line.

School Certificates

Attendance Officer William Thornton spoke before the overseers of the Tremont & Suffolk mill yesterday on the new law relative to the age and school certificates, and Monday he will address the overseers of the Boot mill. The officers this week are issuing certificates to minors from the Tremont & Suffolk mill and next week will be devoted to those employed at the Boot mill.

Another Candidate

One more party took out nomination papers for commissioner at the city clerk's office since yesterday, and this man is Henry F. Aubrey, 173 Warren street. This will be Mr. Aubrey's first attempt for municipal office.

PASSES SEA LAW

Senate Adopts "Servitude" Bill With La Follette's Amendment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The La Follette substitute for the "Seaman's Servitude" bill amended so that it will not affect the treaty relations of the United States until the president has been given an opportunity to readjust them, passed the senate yesterday at the end of a debate that was characterized by unusual proceedings.

In the end the debate became an eulogy of Andrew Furuseth, president of the Seamen's Union, who was lauded as the man chiefly responsible for the passage of the bill. Mr. Furuseth, who had sat in the senate gallery throughout the debate, was declared by Senator La Follette (republican), and Senator Williams (democrat) to have worked in Washington for many years "at a seaman's pay" to get legislation through congress improving the working conditions of his fellow sailors.

Senator Fletcher, chairman of the sub-committee that had charge of the preparation of the seaman's bill, declared the measure as passed by the senate yesterday would accomplish three important shipping reforms:

The giving of greater freedom to safety at sea for passengers and crews and the equalizing of the wage costs in operating vessels in foreign and domestic trade.

The La Follette substitute differed in many respects from the original bill which passed both houses of congress last winter, but which did not meet with the approval of President Taft. Its chief provisions would require improved working quarters and working conditions on ships; increase the requirements for safety appliances and efficiency of sailors; release sailors from some of the present stringent regulations that compel them to remain with ships when in foreign ports; and would direct the prohibition of any treaties that prohibit the enforcement of the provisions against foreign ships coming to American ports. Efforts by Senator Burton and Senator Bacon to amend the bill failed yesterday.

Senator La Follette closed the debate on the measure with an attack on E. T. Chamberlain, United States commissioner of navigation, who, he said, ought to be removed. He declared Mr. Chamberlain had held office since President Cleveland's administration by "trimming and turning and twisting," but that all of his reports showed that his recommendations "went into the interests of the ship owners."

The anti suffrage league sends out the following:

If the suffragists can submit to congress December figures showing that a majority of the women of the United States want the franchise, the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage will withdraw its opposition, albeit sorrowfully.

The National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, realizing that the appearance of suffragists and anti-suffragists before congress next winter for and against woman suffrage will be one of the most important engagements in the battle between the opposing forces, issued through its Washington headquarters a statement containing this announcement:

This organization, the statement continues, wages its campaign against the franchise because it knows that the vast majority of women do not want suffrage. If the average woman attends to her own business and discharges the duties of a competent wife and mother, she has so many burdens resting upon her that she cannot successfully assume any more. The average woman realizes this, and, because of this realization, she is opposed to woman suffrage.

There are in this country 24,555,754 women twenty-one years of age and over. If the suffragists can show that a majority of them want the suffrage—are willing to undertake the additional duties that go with the suffrage—then the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage will close its doors, since the principles and constitution of this government compel compliance with such a demand.

Even the claim that there are 3,000,000 women already voting in the United States is not proof of sufficient adherence. For, while there are 3,000,000 women of voting age in the suffrage states, less than 25 per cent. of them register and vote. Therefore, the suffragists, who have advertised the fact that they intend to drive congress to enact suffrage legislation for the remaining states are asking that a large majority of women be compelled to undertake a work which is repugnant to them—a work which would seriously interfere with the better and higher duties that they have to perform for the state.

POTASH INVESTIGATIONS

"Potash in Western Saline Deposits" is the title of a report by James H. Hance of the United States geological survey, just issued. The examinations of the various saline lakes, marshes, flats, and wells described in the report were made in connection with the broad line of search which the geological survey is making throughout the west in quest of commercial potash deposits. While none of the localities in question are shown to be promising an enormous potash deposit in quantities to warrant development, the descriptions and analyses are published by the survey as a contribution to the general subject. A copy of the report (Bulletin 540-P) may be obtained on application to the director of the geological survey, Washington, D. C.

DIAZ STILL AT VERA CRUZ

Doubt as to Whether He Will Attempt to Reach Mexico City—Requena Makes Statement

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—Whether Gen. Felix Diaz will come at once to the federal capital or remain in Vera Cruz until after the presidential election appeared to be a matter of doubt in the minds of his most prominent adherents here today. George Lucas Requena, candidate for the vice presidency on the Diaz ticket, expressed the belief that his leader was likely to come here today or tomorrow. Senor Requena admitted the arrest at Vera Cruz of a number of Diaz followers on charges which he regarded as inventions and he declared that the action of the authorities there had been taken for the purpose of intimidating voters. He asserted that he had proof that the word had gone forth to voters to cast their ballots for Victoriano Huerta and Gen. Blauquet and he appeared to fear that this might have the effect of defeating his ticket. On being asked whether he feared that Gen. Diaz would be arrested or prevented from leaving Vera Cruz, Senor Requena said that such a thing was possible.

Notwithstanding the declaration made by Provisional President Huerta yesterday in the presence of the diplomatic corps that he would not accept the election as president, should the ballot show him to have a majority, the impression is general among the public that the elections on Sunday will fail to show any other candidate with sufficient votes to win.

Senor Requena today declared his campaign had cost over $250,000. It has been the greatest campaign ever fought by a single individual in Mexico, he said. Over 4000 clubs were organized throughout the republic and they were sure of carrying five states, while in 20 others they looked for big majorities.

DETAINED AT VERA CRUZ.
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Officers of the Ward line said today that they had received from Capt. Hurt of the steamship Morro Castle a cablegram telling of the detention of his vessel at Vera Cruz.

The Morro Castle, with Mrs. John Lind, wife of President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, on board, was to have left Vera Cruz when a court order was issued calling for the testimony of Capt. Hurt in connection with the attack from Mexico some months ago of Dr. Francisco Vazquez, court order was issued calling for Gomez aboard the Morro Castle.

LONDON VIEWS SITUATION.
LONDON, Oct. 24.—Rather divergent views on the Mexican situation were expressed in the editorial and news columns of the London newspapers today. While the news, consisting entirely of despatches from Washington and New York, described affairs as serious, the editorial articles based on a statement published in the Times—the first authorized version of British policy given out to an English newspaper and which coincided with that published in despatches to the Associated Press and can be summed up as pro-British and not anti-American—are inclined to the belief that the friction between the United States and England is unlikely to disturb the good relations between the two countries.

PROTEST BY AM. CONSUL.
VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 24.—After protests by the American consul about the delay of the Ward liner Morro Castle, by order of the authorities here the vessel was formally cleared this morning for Havana and New York. Mrs. Lind, the wife of President Wilson's personal representative, is on board.

TWO MEN BADLY BURNED

FIRE IN PICKER ROOM OF THE GUERIN SPINNING CO., WOON-SOCKET, R. I., TODAY

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Oct. 24.—Two men were so badly burned about the head and chest this forenoon at a fire in the picker room of the Guerin Spinning Co., Social street, that they were rushed to the Woonsocket hospital, where it is thought that they cannot recover. The fire started in a picker machine and set fire to their clothes before they could escape. The men are Joseph Stevenen, aged 55, and Joseph Pepin, 63. The fire was extinguished quickly.

MRS. FAIRBANKS DEAD

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, wife of the former vice president, died at her home here today. The cause of death was pneumonia. She is survived by her husband and five children, all of whom except Frederick, on his way from California, were at her bedside.

Mrs. Fairbanks served two terms as president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was the daughter of Phyllander C. Cole of Ohio. The children are: Adelaine, wife of Lieutenant John W. Timmons, U. S. N.; Warren C. Frederick, Richard and Robert.

MUST PAY DUTY

Treasury Dept. Holds That Mrs. Thompson is Resident of U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Boston custom house was ordered today to assess full duty on all foreign jewelry, lace and other goods brought in by Mrs. May Van Allen Thompson, wife of a New York and Philadelphia banker. The treasury department holds that Mrs. Thompson is a resident of the United States.

VALUABLE NEGOTIABLE.
BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The merchandise which Mrs. Griswold Thompson, formerly Miss May Van Allen of Newport, attempted to bring into the United States through a claim of being a non-resident and upon which the custom authorities at Washington ruled today that full duties must be assessed, was landed here on Oct. 16. The customs officials claim that they found a valuable pearl necklace concealed in the clothing of Mrs. Thompson's maid.

The luggage consisted of 25 trunks filled with jewelry and wearing apparel. Mrs. Thompson was permitted to take a few articles of clothing and the trunks were sealed and sent to New York in bond.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty marriage took place at the parochial residence of St. Michael's church, when Thomas H. Riley, popular employee of the city department, was united in wedlock to Miss Katherine C. Crowe. The best man was John J. Riley, a brother of the bridegroom, while the bride was Miss Mary T. Gallagher. The bride was charmingly dressed in white silk with overland trimmings, white lace hat, and carried white chrysanthemums. The bridegroom was dressed in pale blue crepe de chine with shadow lace trimmings and hat to match. She carried yellow chrysanthemums. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Shaw. The party returned to the home of the bride's mother, 43 Exeter street, where a wedding dinner was served. An orchestra furnished music for the occasion. The happy couple will spend their honeymoon in New York and after Nov. 1 will be at home at 43 Exeter street.

BANDINI-PIVIRATTO

Mr. Patrick Bandini of Boston and Miss Theresa Piviratto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paulino Piviratto of Graniteville, were united in wedlock Wednesday afternoon at the rectory of St. John's church, North Chelmsford, by the Rev. Edmund T. Schofield. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Christina Piviratto and the best man was Mr. Anthony Piviratto. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. After an extended wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Bandini will reside in Boston.

MEWADE-O'BRIEN

The marriage of Mr. Frank Mewade of Boston and Miss Beatrice O'Brien of this city took place at the immaculate Conception church, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Quinn, while the best man was Mr. James Callahan of Roxbury, a cousin of the bridegroom. A wedding dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Quinn, 26 Seventh street. The happy couple who were the recipients of many costly gifts, will make their home in Boston.

THE LOCAL BOYS' CLUB

PUT OUT OF ITS QUARTERS, NEEDS A NEW CLUB HOUSE TO KEEP BOYS OFF THE STREET

Supt. Stewart of the local Boys' club, talking of the need of a new building for the boys belonging, said: "In the last few years we have as a nation learned to realize our wealth in forests, water power and minerals, and now are conserving much valuable material which has been going to waste, but this policy of conservation will not be complete till it also extends itself outside the region of our material assets, and tries to prevent values in human bodies, minds and characters from being wastefully sacrificed."

"Our thought just now is upon the boys of our city whose embarrassed condition is making constant appeal to any man who is known to be at all interested in those who have abilities and ambition, which will be rendered unproductive, by limited circumstances unless helped to get a good start. It takes more than to start a locomotive than it does to keep it running, and so with the boys the rub comes at the beginning."

"An ambitious fellow can go up a pretty steep grade if he has grit, but he cannot pull himself up a perpendicular; enough slant must be put into the climb to give him a scrambling chance to get to the top, and that chance is what a lot of boys do not have. Not to give such boys an initial push means a waste of value: it is neglect to conserve resources more valuable than timber or water supply."

"There have been immense amounts of money donated to the interest of advanced education, gifts which especially benefit those who have already gotten quite a way up the incline, and these gifts are generally to men and institutions that are already favored, but the poor, struggling, capable and ambitious boys at the bottom of the ladder have, comparatively speaking, very little done for their encouragement."

"The boys of today, the men of the future, capable and confident, are the best product of our civilization, and the recovery of such from helplessness, to usefulness is one of the best enterprises to which men of wealth can give their hearts and apply their means."

Mr. Stewart told about the need of a new home for the Boys' club, which has been ousted from its quarters and is looking for a permanent abode.

We Have Opened Our Workshop

$$$$$ FOR THE MEN OF LOWELL SAVED

On Friday last we opened our own workshop, right here in this good old city of Lowell. It is not situated on some side street, but directly above the store, where you can come in at any time and see your garment in the course of construction. Come in and ask to be shown just how our clothing is made; don't put up with this slop work you have been getting. Don't take the chance of having your clothing made in the sweat shops of Boston or New York, where they are liable to become saturated with disease.

We are writing this story for our mutual benefit.

Seeing is Believing

Come in, you folks from Missouri and let us show you that Brooks Bros. are not dead ones, but real live wires, who are working for the best interests of the people who can make or break us.

Come in and examine our goods! If you do, you will see the finest line of woollens ever brought through the doors of any tailoring concern in this city.

Wonderful Values in OVERCOATS

We have in stock now just 400 plaid back Overcoats, which owing to the recent warm spell, we must dispose of between this Saturday and the first of November, to make room for a new shipment that we have had on order for Nov. 1st delivery. Come in and see them before buying elsewhere.

I also have in stock 600 single Suit patterns of Standish, Kensington, Waterhouse & Howard and Bunting Worsteds, worth all the way from $18.00 to $30.00, that I will make to your measure for

AND REMEMBER

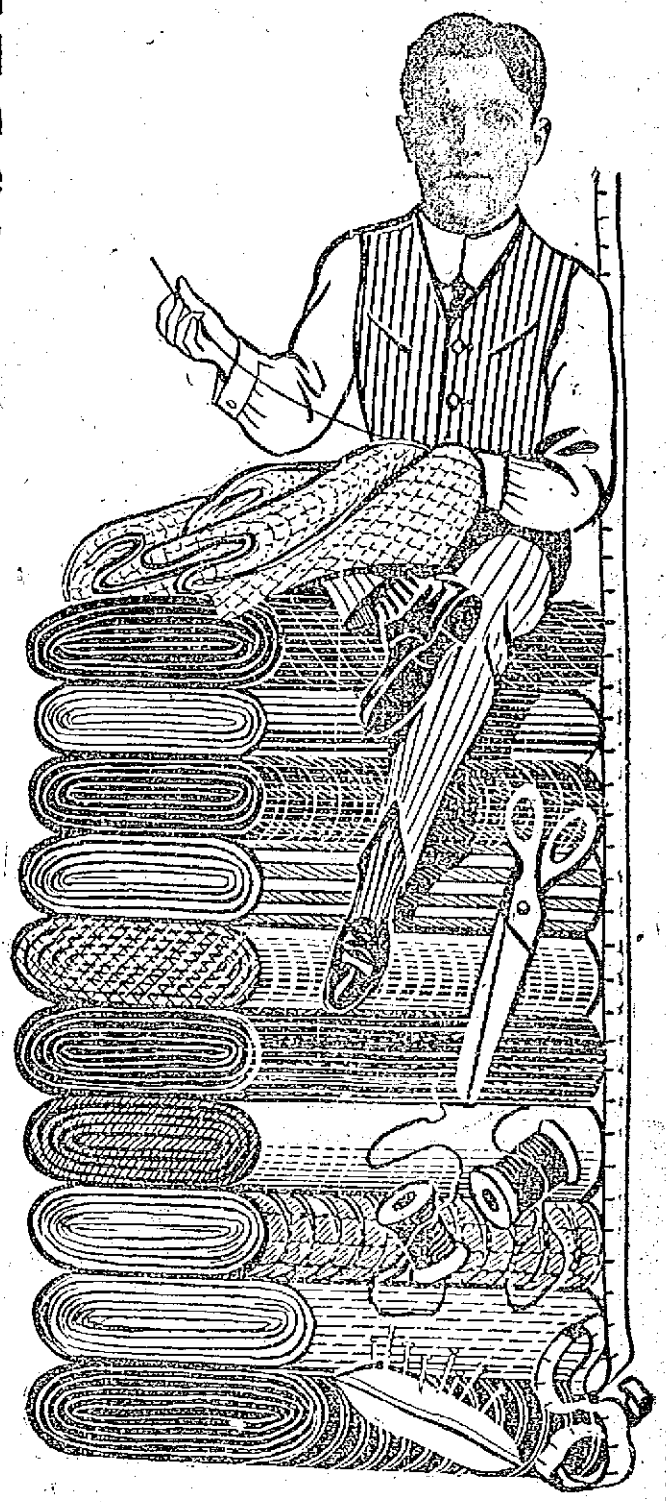

All our goods are made on the premises by competent Tailors who work under the instructions of the best cutter in Lowell. Every garment tried on before it is finished. Come in and let us surprise you.

THE THAW CASE CRUELTY PROBE

Gov. Felker of N.H. Will Postpone Hearing on Extradition

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 24.—A further postponement of the hearing on the extradition of Harry K. Thaw to New York will be granted by Gov. Felker. On learning last night that Thaw's counsel would request a postponement, in view of the indictment returned against Thaw by the New York county grand jury the governor said that the request would be granted when it was formally made. The hearing had been set for Oct. 27.

To Present Briefs

He was asked whether the arguments would be oral or in the form of briefs. The governor said that would be decided by the opposing counsel. It was his opinion that the matter could be handled satisfactorily in briefs.

Those of Thaw's counsel who were here last night said their plan of action could not be decided until they had seen in the new documents in the case. They expressed the opinion, however, that their briefs would lay special emphasis upon the impossibility of inducing an insane person on a charge of conspiracy.

Thaw's attorneys are of the opinion that the finding of the indictment marks the beginning of an entirely new case, and the governor shares this view. They were not surprised when told of the action in New York, but were somewhat astonished that Jerome had been able to secure an indictment so quickly. Thaw himself seemed little disturbed. It was last night considered unlikely that a final decision in the case will be reached within a month.

Governor to Investigate Treatment of Inmates in Institutions

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Gov. Foss said yesterday that he had begun actively to investigate the treatment of inmates not only of asylums, but of all prisons and state institutions.

As a result of the stories of cruelty toward patients of insane hospitals, the governor made it clear that he had started a wide probe which would be continued for many weeks.

The governor yesterday sent to Dr. Charles B. Thompson, executive officer of the state board of insanity, the following letter:

"Dear Sir: Owing to the complaints which come to me in respect to conditions at the Bowers and Worcester hospitals, I feel that definite steps must be taken at once, to the end that our citizens may have better protection and care."

"As a first step, kindly send me at once a list of the injuries, accidents and violent deaths (which include, of course, suicides and homicides) for the year ending October, 1912, and for the year ending Oct. 1, 1913, together with a report of what was done in each case. Especially do I wish you to tell me who was made responsible in each case, if any."

"I am compelled to ask for this information because I find to my surprise, that the information I receive in your annual reports, although in other states the public documents and reports to the governor give in detail the information which I am seeking."

"My request for information applies to all institutions under your supervision, both public and private."

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS

COMMISSION ANNOUNCES DATES FOR EXAMINATION FOR VARIOUS POSITIONS

The United States civil service commission announced that examinations for the positions named below will be held early in November:

Two of those who went under Dr. Pratt's knife recently at St. Francis hospital, Evanston, are brother and sister, both under 20 years of age. If Dr. Pratt succeeds in overcoming their moral weakness, the charges pending against them in Judge Bridgman's court will be dismissed. Both are said to be recovering rapidly from the effects of the operations.

EXUBERANT VERBOSITY

LANGUAGE OF MEDICAL PROFESSION VERY ORNAMENTAL, BUT LEGAL PROFESSION MORE SO

The medical profession is perennially accused of lack of clarity of expression in dealing with medical subjects. In the accusation there is a certain amount of justice, but the critics forget that many scientific subjects, especially those of a technical nature, cannot easily be dealt with in the language of the street. Nevertheless, the charge that we are not clear and direct in our method of expression, says "The Journal of the American Medical Association," makes us sad.

That is, until we happen to get hold of a piece of composition written in legal phraseology. Then by comparison the most turbid of medical expressions become clear. These facts are suggested by reading a charge made by a grand jury against a physician who had rendered a bill against the county for more than was due him.

Truly, the doctor had claimed to vaccinate twenty-seven more persons than he actually had vaccinated, and thus obtained from the county twenty-seven dollars which did not belong to him. The misdemeanor was not an involved one but the grand jury stated it thus:

"John Doe, on the fourth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twelve, in the county aforesaid, with force and arms did unlawfully by using deceitful means, artful practices, fraud and cheat the county of — in the state of — out of the sum of $27."

And as though this charge were not sufficiently overwhelming, the grand jury goes into details regarding this misdemeanor thus:

"The said John Doe then and there represented to said board of commissioners that he vaccinated the above-named persons and the said board then and there paid the said John Doe one dollar each for the above-named persons, and said payment was made upon said representation, and said representation so made by the said Doe that he vaccinated the above-named persons was false, and made by the said Doe for the purpose of cheating and defrauding the said county of — and said board of commissioners of roads and revenues of said county out of the sum of twenty-seven dollars, and because of said false representation said county of — was cheated and defrauded by the said John Doe out of said sum of money, contrary to the laws of said state, good order, peace and dignity thereof."

A noted English statesman, long since dead, once accused his political opponent on the floor of the house of commons of being "intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity." A study of legal phraseology leads the layman to wonder if this is not a species of intoxication indulged in by those who are submerged in an otherwise wise dry subject. If so, a new field of investigation may be opened up. A study of the pathology of the verbal "fog" might throw some light on this obscure subject.

TO STOP TYPEWRITER NOISE

The noisy clicking of the typewriter will soon be no more than a disagreeable memory, if the typewriter silencer which a Cleveland man has just invented proves a success. It does not make the typewriter absolutely silent, but it reduces the sharp click to a soft, dull thud which is not so hard on the nerves. The noise is so much reduced that an operator can receive dictation given in a natural tone of voice while the machine is running. The silencer consists of a core for the platen which eliminates the greater part of the noise made by the type striking the paper.

SAYS FILIPINOS NOT READY

Bishop Oldham Opposes Giving Inhabitants of Philippines Their Independence Just Yet

MOHONK LAKE, Oct. 24.—The Rt. Rev. W. F. Oldham, who from 1901 to 1912 was Methodist Episcopal bishop of Southern Asia, a missionary diocese that included the Philippines, told the Lake Mohonk Conference of Friends of the Indians and Other Dependent Peoples, why he believed the Filipinos were not ready for independence. "I believe greatly in the intellectual capacity of the Filipino," he said, "and greatly admire his ready response to all American attempts that have been made in the past 15 years to educate and train him for self-government. He has made good to a remarkable degree. Nevertheless, he counseled delay in giving them complete autonomy for the following reasons:

"The Filipino has done well under direction. The scholars have been singularly attentive and receptive. But the teacher has been constantly in evidence, and in accounting outcomes this should not be overlooked. Much distance has been traveled. Much yet remains before the end appears in sight.

"Particularly is this true in the recognition and in the safeguarding of the rights of the common people.

"Before the American advent a very great gulf separated the comparatively well born and well to do from the masses. The latter were almost wholly uneducated and submissive to direction. Ignorant of their rights and unable to defend them, they were voiceless and oppressed. Derived from the Malay tribe, the tribal arrangement has ever been in the background of their thinking. In contact with Spanish aristocratic ideas, even the tribal thinking has degenerated. Submission to the illiterate and the jefe or political boss has taken the place of tribal devotion to the Pangulu.

"There is a second reason, and that is, the generation that is now in the direction of affairs is Spanish trained. The Americans with their ideas of democracy, their public schools, etc., have been present but 15 years. The oldest school product is not much over 25 years of age. It is the man of the generation preceding which would immediately come to the direction of affairs. One of the early things that would happen would be the setting aside of the English language and a return to the Spanish and to the ideals of the older civilization.

"What is needed, therefore, is, first, that the school system be extended sufficiently to take in all the children of the Filipino race. Second, that a time be set sufficiently far ahead, say 30 years hence, by which time the present generation of English trained youth would be followed by a more widely educated generation, and these again be buttressed by the children of

of Dorchester Council
Last Night

Highland council, Royal Arcanum, royally entertained about 20 members of the Warren council of Dorchester at their regular business meeting held in Highland hall last night. The visitors were met at the Boston & Maine depot by a delegation from Highland council and all marched to the hall, headed by red lights and torches. The evening's program was one of special interest and the men returned to the hall with a high conception of the hospitality of the local men.

At 7:20 o'clock the regular business meeting of the council was called to order by Regent Carey who welcomed the members of Warren and local councils, who were present as visitors. During the evening 16 appli-

After the meeting the party, 250 in number, marched to the banquet hall, where a supper was served by the D. J. Papp company. The orator then passed the cigars and some interesting addresses were given by officers of the grand lodge.

Supervising Deputy Grand Regent J. C. Moore was the first introduced and after thanking the members for the fine treatment that he had received from them he spoke of the good work that the Royal Arcanum is doing throughout the country. During the course of his talk he congratulated Highland lodge for having an earnest worker as Brother Jones among its members and also mentioned the good condition of the council. Among the other speakers were Grand Secretary William L. Kent, Past Regent George W. Taylor and Irvin H. Wilde of Warren council and Vice Regent William J. McArdle of the same council. All spoke on the progress of the Arcanum and thanked the members for the splendid reception given them on this and previous visits to Lowell. Brother Jones of Highland lodge spoke briefly and informed the visitors that they would be welcome at all times.

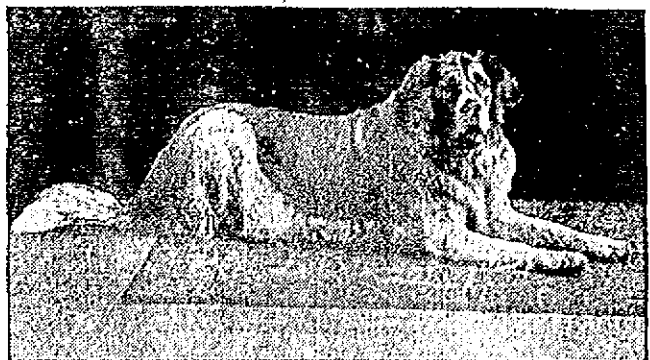

Accompanied by a number of local men, the Dorchester men returned to

White Woman and Her
Baby and 7 Negroes
Perished

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 24.—A white woman and her baby and seven negroes lost their lives and 38 persons were slightly injured in a tornado which swept over southern Louisiana at dawn yesterday. Nine crops were razed, dwellings and fences demolished and other damage done on plantations southwest of this city.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 Saturday evenings.

CONGRATULATE MISS WILSON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, future White House bride, returned to the national capital yesterday. When the Wilson family left Cornish, N. H., recently, she accompanied them only part of the journey, stopping off to visit friends during the past ten days. As Miss Wilson's engagement to Francis B. Sayre was announced during her absence at the summer capital, her friends here had their first opportunity yesterday to extend their personal congratulations.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE ASSN.
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 24.—The National Vocational Guidance association assembled in convention here yesterday afternoon and elected the following officers: President, Frank M. Lewis of the University of Chicago; vice president, Alice P. Barrows of New York city; secretary, Jesse B. Davis of Grand Rapids; treasurer, James S. Hatt of Philadelphia.

Meyer Bloomfield of Boston was a close second to Mr. Leavitt in the vote for the presidency of the organization.

CINDER IN THE EYE

MAY LEAD TO SERIOUS RESULTS,
POSSIBLY INJURING THE EIGHT
PERMANENTLY

"I've got a cinder in my eye!" How frequently we hear this expression in the street, especially when the air is filled with dust and smoke, or anywhere beneath the network of elevated tracks. While this may seem a trivial mishap, and often is if the foreign substance is immediately removed from the eye, yet it is often a most serious thing, and the public at large little realizes that a seemingly unimportant accident of this sort may result in serious and permanent impairment of vision. The membrane covering the eyeball is a very delicate structure, and when even a tiny speck of any foreign matter lodges on it it quickly becomes imbedded. The irritation thus set up causes the person to wink the eye frequently, and each time the lid closes, rubbing against the particle, it tends to imbed it still further into the membrane. The efforts of sympathizing friends to remove the offending speck with a handkerchief, or a wooden toothpick, instead of helping the situation, usually results in making a bad matter worse, from the damage thus done to the tissue. Infection is then easily carried deeper into the tissue, and an ulcer results. If the process reaches this stage, even if the cause should be completely removed, it would perhaps be too late to prevent a scar after the ulcer heals. It might be so faint as to be hardly distinguishable, yet if it is situated just in front of the pupil, as very frequently happens, the vision of that eye would be seriously and perhaps permanently impaired.

The public should understand the seriousness of such occurrences, and public spirit should be aroused to the point of insisting on municipal regulation, eliminating smoke and dust as far as possible from city streets. Having the streets washed every night, as is done in many of the European cities, instead of having them swept during the day, and prohibiting the burning of soft coal within the city limits, would go a long way toward remedying this evil.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 Saturday evenings.

UNITED STATES ARMY

Will Have Aviation Service in Connection With Signal Corps—Special Inducements Offered to Officers

If plans now being perfected are carried out, the army of the United States will be provided with an aviation service comparable with that of the other great powers. These plans provide, among other things, for 30 extra officers for aviation duty, and it is recognized that if officers are to be detailed to the signal corps, additional vacancies in the line should be created. The limited experience of the war department in aviation demonstrates that considerable difficulty will be experienced in securing military aviators and that special inducements must be offered to secure eligible officers for aviation duty, and it is a recognized fact that aviators without some knowledge of military tactics would be practically useless in war. In view of these facts it is urged that officers on aviation duty should be given additional rank as well as increased pay, and that they should be promoted again, after they have secured a military aviator's license, at the end of five years. The plans provide not only for an adequate aviation personnel but also for a sufficient number of aeroplanes and modern dirigible balloons.

134 LOST IN VOLTURNO TRAGEDY
NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The total death toll in the Volturno disaster was fixed last night by the Uranium Steamship company at 134. Of these 102 were passengers.

Captain Griffiths of the steamship Star of Ireland, which arrived today from Cardiff, reported to the Uranium company that he had passed the Volturno last Thursday still burning, about 120 miles west-southwest of the place where she was abandoned.

POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The National Association of Third and Fourth Class Postmasters, in annual session here yesterday, elected officers and adopted resolutions recommending removal of the limit on postal savings deposits, changes in the parcel post regulations and various steps to increase efficiency in the postal service. E. E. Pogue of Rockhill, N. C., was elected president; A. H. Fritz of Quarryville, Pa., vice-president, and Hannibal A. Hopkins of St. Clair, Mich., secretary-treasurer.

cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered. Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. There is nothing else like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.

An original package costs but a trifle and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

POLICE COURT SESSION DISCUSS NEGRO QUESTION

Two Boys Arraigned for Breaking Into Store—A Lively Rumpus at the Boot Mills

Albert Gossin and Peter Duchaine, the two boys who were arrested yesterday for breaking into the place of Jacques Boivin and Joseph Pigeon, were arraigned in police court this morning before Judge Dwight charged with breaking and entering and larceny. The local court held both defendants over for the grand jury as the alleged break occurred at night. Their bail was fixed at $300 each.

Additional details of the exploits of the two boys, burglars were forthcoming this morning. It seems that the break at Pigeon's place of business was a matter of spite.

About three months ago the pair got a little boisterous in the pool room operated by Pigeon at the corner of Elm and West Sixth streets and the proprietor had them both put out the premises. Duchaine and Gossin, in a fit of revenge, broke into the store that night and stole all that was in the cash drawer, $250.

Grown bold by what they considered to be a success the two next essayed to break into Boivin's tobacco store and get away with a quantity of cigars and cigars. They were promptly arrested, however, and both complaints brought against them. It is expected that they will plead guilty to the charges preferred by the police when their case comes up for trial in the superior court.

Boot Mills Trouble

A little rumpus which occurred in the Boot Mills yesterday was straightened out in police court this morning. Major Noyes, the corporation detective, appeared as prosecuting officer in the case of Charles Gossin, who was charged with assault and battery upon Sophie Seriva.

Several witnesses testified through an interpreter, that the defendant struck the woman and he persisted in keeping up his pugilistic efforts after the officer present tried to interfere. The defendant asserted stoutly that the woman accused him of being a criminal in the old country and that he had only defended his honor. He was released upon the payment of $12.

Alleged Intoxication

Harry D. Shattuck, who keeps an installment store on Middlesex street, had one of his collectors, Ferdinand Franchise, arrested for embezzling $250. The case was tried in court today.

Shattuck testified that the defendant held out the money when he was supposed to turn it in to him at the end of the week. The cards showed where and when the defendant had collected all the money which he had received since taking employment from the installment house.

The defendant admitted that he took the money but testified that he mislaid the $2 in an upper pocket of his vest. His attorney, Mr. Murphy, showed several recommendations to the court on the character of the defendant, one of which was from the mayor of Manchester, N. H. This, however, did not save his case for he was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $10. He appealed and Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the prosecution.

Cornelius Sullivan and Wilfred Reardon were both sent to jail for a month for excessive tipping of their elbows. Edmund J. Vayo was ordered committed to the same institution for ten days. Annie Miller, who is on parole, went to the state farm.

Worms Sap Children's Health

Mothers often wonder why their children are not rugged and hardy. In a vast number of cases the trouble is—Worms.

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, variable appetite, craving for sweets, nausea, vomiting, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting during sleep, show fever.

Dr. True's Elixir, the 60 years time-tried Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, will expel the worms and restore the vim and vigor to your child. Good for adults also. Discovered by my father over 60 years ago. 35c, 50c and $1.00 at all dealers. Advice free. Special treatment for tapeworms. Send for book.

H. P. Douglas Says That Church Should Extend Hand of Brotherhood to Negro and Aid Him

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 24.—From a tumultuous night session, the National Council of Congregational Churches today plunged into a further debate when it took up the report of the committee on temperance, which recommended that the church take its place in the fore in a fight for an amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the United States.

As soon as the report was brought in from the business committee, to which it had been referred, Gov. Simon Badger, of Connecticut, arose to his feet, opposing it. The governor said that such an amendment was in violation of the spirit of the constitution and could not be enforced. Such an amendment is up to the states and not to the federal government, declared the governor.

Separate from the national council, the 67th annual meeting of the American Missionary association convened today.

H. P. Douglas of New York city spoke of prejudice as relating to the negro question. The trend of his address was that the church should in every way extend the hand of brotherhood to the negro and aid him in every way the time had not come for the church even to consider intermarriage of negroes and whites.

"Why does a certain type of man keep saying 'nigger, nigger'?" said he, "simply because if he did not say 'nigger, nigger' he would be forced to say 'brother, brother.' The function of the epithet is to make men worse than they are."

Speculating on the ideas of the Albigensians in the creation of men, Mr. Douglas said:

"God made the world. Has not evolution condemned the races to perpetual inequality? Didn't God intend, then, and are we not to accept the visible symbols of color and speech as the natural marks of superiority and inferiority? This is to base caste and color upon the Divine will. It makes human barriers inevitable and eternal."

BANDIT RAN AMUCK IN DENVER, KILLING ONE MAN AND SERIOUSLY INJURING OTHERS

DENVER, Oct. 24.—A bandit running amuck near the heart of the city early today held up five pedestrians within a few blocks and shot and killed T. J. Chase of Palmer Lake, Colo., and mortally wounded E. A. Clark of this city. An auto filled with police tracked the bandit from the scene of one holdup to another, only to arrive too late.

The shooting began when the bandit held up Antonio Fuguris, a street sweeper, sending a bullet through his hand.

A few minutes later E. A. Clark staggered into a drug store with a bullet through his right lung. Four blocks away Chase met his death. Without a word the bandit shot him through the heart. He held up and robbed two others without shooting them.

FROM DE CLAMECY WHO POSED AS JUDGE WITH BOSTON OFFICIALS IN THAT CITY

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—When a mere slip of a girl with dark, wavy hair and sparkling brown eyes, asked Judge Jenney in the divorce session of superior court yesterday afternoon to sever the ties that bound her to Philip DeClamecy, few in the court room realized that the man she sought to divorce had gained some credence on his claim of being Duke de Nevers, and is now serving a term of six to 10 years in state prison for defrauding the Hotel Touraine.

The young woman also asked the court for the custody of her child, Charles Paul de Clamecy, and for all money to provide for the boy.

Judge Jenney granted her a decree nisi, after speaking of a letter that DeClamecy had written to him from state prison. De Clamecy wrote affectionately of his child, admitted his misdeeds and declared that he would be a better man when he saw the light of freedom again and would contribute to the support of his son.

The letter did not interest the young wife. She left the court house to go to Neponset where she is living with her son, whom she supports by working as a stenographer.

De Clamecy is 33 years old and she is 21. They were married in New York city on June 14, 1909. She was Anna Birenback before her marriage and was born in Austria.

Arthur Traut, who was an assistant district attorney in New York under William Travers Jerome, gave considerable space in a book he wrote on crime, to "Duke de Nevers," and seemed to consider the man really a French nobleman, an outcast from his family.

In June, 1911, the man introduced himself to Edwin Mulready, a deputy probation officer, as a "Duke of the court of corrections in France," and was the guest of Judge Burke at a session of the municipal court, and was received by Mayor Fitzgerald and entertained by Commissioner Gore at Deer Island.

When he attended a dinner aboard a French warship then in the harbor the discovery was made that he was not all that he pretended to be. "The Duke" then deposited a check for $100 at a trust company and drew checks for various amounts. The check he deposited was spurious. He swindled the hotel and several business houses.

Then he went to Providence, where Gov. Pothier and others entertained him. In October of the same year he was arrested in New York city.

REPAINTING ST. PETER'S CHURCH

The work of repainting the woodwork in the front of St. Peter's church, which has been going on under the personal supervision of the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Keleher, has been completed, and now the magnificent church is even more beautiful than ever.

The three great doors of the church which constitute the main entrances from Gorham street, have been finished in bronze with an effect that is remarkably attractive. No little care was taken in this delicate piece of workmanship.

The panels over the door, formerly of wood, are now of glass, and all of the woodwork over the entrances has been painted. Much has been added to the outward appearance of the great edifice, by the work.

JOLLY BIRTHDAY PARTY

At the home of Miss Mildred Hunnewell, on Lexington Avenue—Her 12th Anniversary

In honor of the 12th birthday anniversary of Miss Mildred Hunnewell, a pleasant party was held at her home on Lexington Avenue. There were a great many of her young friends present. Refreshments were served, games played and the evening generally enjoyed. There was a varied musical program of merit, including vocal solos by Mrs. F. L. Roberts and Miss Gertrude Johnson, and piano solos by Miss Inez Beale, Master Paul Gallagher and others. Sidney C. Varney gave a humorous recitation entitled "Johnny's History Lesson." The young hostess received a variety of presents, indicating the esteem of her many friends.

Robbers Blew Open Safe in Attica, O. Postoffice and Escaped

CHICAGO, JUNCTION, O., Oct. 24.—Robbers early today blew open the safe of the post office of Attica, O., seven miles west of here and escaped with loot estimated at $15,000.

The explosion of the safe, which rocked the town and awakened the entire population, demolished the two-story building which sheltered the post office.

The sum the robbers obtained represents not only the money and stamps of the office but large sums of money belonging to the Seneca County Fair association and other organizations of which Postmaster W. F. Uhle was secretary. Uhle was only recently appointed postmaster. There was no trace of the robbers when the town awoke. It is believed the burglars escaped in this direction and the sheriff of Seneca county is hunting them in this vicinity.

AT PORTO RICO

Two Remedies for Conditions Suggested at Lake Mohonk Session

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Two remedies for conditions in Porto Rico were suggested today at the Lake Mohonk conference of Friends of the Indians and Other Dependent Peoples. The speakers agreed that the present situation was untenable, but while some of them thought the island should be admitted to statehood others believed the solution of the problem lay in giving the Porto Ricans independence under the protection of the United States.

The most urgent advocate of independence was Jose H. De los Angeles, speaker of the Porto Rico house of delegates. He was unable to attend the conference, but his address, read by Major F. L. Hunt, assistant chief of the bureau of insular affairs, outlined a bold scheme for independence. Porto Rican statehood, he said, was unobtainable. In fact, he asserted, the republic of Porto Rico already had been founded by the acts of congress after the close of the Spanish war.

The Rt. Rev. James H. Van Buren, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Porto Rico from 1902 to 1904, declared that the islanders desired citizenship and deserved it. He advocated ending the sugar and tobacco industries, which he said, were emptying the wealth of Porto Rico into the coffers of syndicates in New York and Madrid without benefiting the natives.

Part of today's session was devoted to hearing speakers on the Philippines and Filipinos, who had not arrived in time to present their views on Wednesday and Thursday when those topics were under discussion.

The conference will adjourn its session tonight at the closing session tomorrow.

Major Hunt's address will be given in another column.

A GENERAL MORTGAGE

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD CONSIDERING THIS MOVE AS BASIS FOR COMPANY'S FINANCING

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—In answer to inquiries by stockholders, President Fox of the Pennsylvania road today confirmed the report that the company is considering the creation of a general mortgage as a basis for the company's financing for many years to come.

In a statement, Mr. Fox said: "Under this mortgage it is contemplated to issue bonds in such amounts from time to time as may be required to provide necessary working capital, to make improvements to its equipment, equipment, property and facilities; the funds that may be necessary to meet maturing obligations and for such other corporate purposes as may now or hereafter be duly authorized by law. The aggregate amount of bonds that may be issued shall not at any time exceed the outstanding capital stock."

PRES. WILSON OPPOSED

TO THE CURRENCY BILL SUBMITTED BY FRANK A. VANDERLIP, PRESIDENT OF N. Y. BANK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Wilson is uncompromisingly opposed to the currency bill submitted by Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank of New York, as a substitute for the administration plan. The president let it be known that he was qualifiedly in favor of the main features of the administration bill.

The Vanderlip plan, which contemplates a central bank under government control, was reported today to have the endorsement of three democratic senators and five republicans, a majority of the senate committee.

The president's position is that the Vanderlip plan is a radical departure from the traditional reserve system of banks proposed in the house bill and he expressed his intention to vigorously oppose any such measure.

MILL MAN WAS BURIED

FUNERAL OF THE LATE THOMAS KELLEY HELD THIS MORNING FROM ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH

The funeral of the late Thomas Kelley, superintendent of the velvet department of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co., who died suddenly last Tuesday, took place this morning at 10 o'clock from his home, 1141 Bridge street, and was largely attended by surviving relatives and friends. Including the following delegation from the local circle of Eagles: Thomas F. Gentry, Martin E. Duffy, George W. E. Carey and Thomas Lahiff. In accordance with the precepts of the Eagles, relative to their deceased members, services were held at the home of the deceased last night by Worlby President Edward L. Flanagan, assisted by the officers, the ritual of the order being followed. Brother James P. Donnelly, pastor of St. Michael's church, officiated at 8 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. John J. Shaw. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Thomas P. Bauldry, rendered the Gregorian mass, the solos being sustained by Miss Griffin and Mr. Rodgers. There were many beautiful floral tributes testifying to the high esteem in which the deceased was held and expressing the profound sorrow of his sudden death, among them were: "Follow us in death," from the family; spray, Mrs. and Mrs. J. C. Wadfield; combination cross, anchor and heart, emblematic of Faith, Hope and Charity, from the executives of the velvet and cordery department, Merrimack Manufacturing Co.; bunches of flowers, from the velvet cutters, cross on base, the toolers, flaxers and cloth men of the velvet department, Merrimack Mfg. Co.; cross, crown and anchor on base, boys of the velvet finishing department; cross on base inscribed "At Rest," the cordery and packing room; pillow inscribed "Thou Art Here," T. O. L. No. 1554; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. W. Longberg; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. C. Connerford; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Humphrey; Mr. and Mrs. George Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Stickney, Mr. Frederick Walsh, Mr. John J. Varian and family, R. C. Canfield, Irving Hall, C. P. Tuttle and J. M. Farrell. The hearers were J. Concanan, W. C. Concanan, H. Frost, P. Derrough, D. Flynn, J. Kearney, D. Lynch and A. Cooper. At the grave, Rev. Father Shaw read the committal prayers and the burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, in charge of undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

Friends of Thomas Kelley were deeply shocked when they learned of his death Tuesday night. Although Mr. Kelley had been ill for several weeks, he had made no reference to his condition, and the fact that he remained at his work in the Merrimack Mills contributed to the impression that he was in the enjoyment of his usual health. Tuesday afternoon he suffered considerable pain while in the performance of his duties as superintendent of the plush department of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co., and he left the mill to seek relief, but death came before medical aid was possible.

Mr. Kelley was one of the "old school" mill men. Born in England, he entered the mill when a boy, and his success in the Merrimack mills of this city is recognized throughout the plush trade. Mr. Kelley was an earnest worker, a considerable employer, and socially, he was of the temperament which wins friends and retains them. Devoted to his family, and keenly interested in his city's welfare, he was an ideal citizen. His death is indeed a loss to the city.

LOST SIX YEARS AGO

FAST IN ICE

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 24.—The steamer Centennial, which left Murean, Japan, six years ago for San Francisco with a cargo of sulphur and was never heard from, is reported fast in the ice off Saghain island, Okhotsk sea, near Siberia. A Russian expedition, bound through Okhotsk sea, discovered the missing vessel with lifeboats gone, the name partly obliterated and her iron work corroded. There was no sign of a human being on the ship.

The Centennial was first named the Delta, then the Takasaga Maru. Under her last title, the Centennial, she became an Alaskan gold ship, afterward a government transport and at last passed into the hands of Charles Nelson company of San Francisco, her owners at the time she disappeared.

240 ENTOMBED PATROLMAN "BIG JACK" SULLIVAN

Rescuers Take Out 23
Alive—38 Dead Have Been Recovered

DAWSON, N. M., Oct. 24.—Two hundred and twenty men still were entombed today in Stag Canyon mine No. 2 where an explosion occurred on Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-three miners have been taken out of the mine alive and 38 dead have been recovered.

None of the rescued can throw light on the cause of the explosion or the location of the miners yet entombed. With the exception of Jose Fernandez, the miner taken out alive last night from the sixth chamber east, none of the rescued men were working near the section of the mine where the explosion occurred. Fernandez has not recovered sufficiently to talk of the disturbance.

An Expert and Interpreter in the Silent Language

Has Umpired Ball Games and Directed Dances of Deaf Mute

Say, did you know that Jack Sullivan, that great, big, genial night cop in Merrimack square, can talk with his hands? Yes, Jack Sullivan. Oh, sure, you must know him; everybody of any account 'round this burg knows "Handsome Jack." What? Well that's him.

What do I mean, he can talk with his hands? Just what I say, or perhaps I should have said with his hand, for he employs only one in ordinary conversation. You know Jack has a wonderfully engaging way, a whole lot of information that he enjoys imparting, and that you enjoy listening to. He kissed the Blarney stone a long time ago and at the same time we guess he must have handed that same talk-inspiring pebble a wallop with his big fist. Anyway, he can give you the blarney with that right mit of his just as well as he can with his voice. You've heard Jack talk, but have you ever seen him talk?

"Course, you understand, you are not to infer that his hand is used merely in sweeping gestures, like the fellows that can't talk if you tie their hands. No, sir! He holds up that big right lunch hook, wiggles his fingers a couple of times, sweeps his fist by your nose, and he has said, "This is a fine evening," or, "You know, when I used to pitch for the cre, etc." This latter usually until the fingers get cramped. But you don't know it unless you understand the language of the deaf mutes, or the "dumny talk," as it is more familiarly designated.

Quite a trick to talk one hand, what? Well, Jack went to the Wyatt school at Richmond, Ky., and that is where he learned the silent language, for they teach it there in addition to the regular studies. And the big officer has made good use of the knowledge ever since. In the police court, he is frequently called upon to act as interpreter when there is a deaf and dumb witness in a trial.

Here is how we first got wise to Jack's accomplishment, though of course all the regular fellows knew about it long ago. The Sun man was standing in the Square one evening when a man approached and stood unsteadily for a minute looking around. Big Jack spotted him and walked over to him. He held up his right hand, put his fingers through a few movements, and the fellow bowed his head and started to walk as briskly as his condition would allow, in the direction of Centralville.

"For the love of Mike, Jack, what did you do to that fellow?" inquired the newspaperman.

"I told him he had been drinking and had better go home."

"What do you mean, you told him to go home. I didn't hear you speak to him. I thought you were giving him some freak lodge sign."

"No, he is a 'dumny,' so I told him in his own language."

"Do you mean to say you understand that stuff?"

"Sure, I do." And then the great big guardian of the public safety and the humble scribe engaged in conversation, but not like a couple of battle ships using "wigwag" signals. Jack found himself being put through a cross examination, a novelty for him, but was evidently not wise to the fact that all he said was going to be used against him like this. After Jack went to ring up a box the reporter picked around the corner, pulled out his notebook, and scribbled what he had gleaned from the conversation, to later unload it upon the all-enduring readers. You are getting the whole thing right here.

Jack knows every deaf mute in the town and a good many outside. Indeed he is credited with having one hundred voters in his control, voters that none of the candidates can address. When in trouble, in need of information, they all flock to Jack and he is always ready to help them.

Honest, he can talk their language even faster and better than they can themselves, so when it comes to an argument, the cop is generally on top, for he gets all his things said before the other fellow. It is a case of speed, not conviction.

One of his many duties has been to act as umpire in their ball games. Here he shines. One time, however, when the game was a pretty hot one, he wiggled the wrong finger in giving a decision, and in about four ticks of his watch, he was in the middle of a crowd of wrathful players and fans, all with their hands held as closely as possible under his nose, putting their fingers through a course of physical culture.

Jack had to call both hands in to play to "stay up," and if it had been a case of lung power, you would have heard that dispute a couple of miles. Jack, however, with his usual characteristic smoothness and diplomacy, got over the difficulty and the game went on. During the remaining innings, however, he centered a whole lot of attention on that right paw.

Jack is announcer at all of the dances of the deaf and dumb, people. He says that in spite of the fact that the music is lost upon them as far as hearing is concerned, nevertheless, they can feel the rhythm, and they dance quite well. Once in a while a couple get out of step and generally disarrange the entire floor, but then incidents are either not common or not noticed. He goes to all their parties, addresses their meetings, and is generally regarded by them as their leader and adviser.

Officer Sullivan is real modest about his accomplishment. It is quite evident, however, that he enjoys it to the fullest extent. Perhaps because it enables him to converse with more people than if he could talk only with his vocal organs. If he would but join the ranks of those who are dedicated to the cause of the deaf and dumb, he would have a decided advantage over his opponents and this new kind of oratory would be much preferred.

THEIR GOLDEN JUBILEE
KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS LODGE TO ARRANGE FOR A GRAND CELEBRATION

The golden jubilee committee appointed by the four lodges of the Knights of Pythias of Lowell held a meeting last evening with Lowell lodge 24 to make arrangements for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the order, which falls on Feb. 19, 1914. C. C. Joseph Fleming of Lowell lodge, which is the oldest in this city, called to order. P. C. Robert J. Fullerton was chosen as chairman. He is a member of S. H. Hines lodge. P. C. Jones of Chevalier Middlesex lodge was elected secretary. Sub-committees were appointed and much enthusiasm was shown.
The Knights of Pythias was organized on Feb. 19, 1864, in Washington, D. C., with a few members. The number is now more than a million. It is planned throughout the country to make the golden jubilee a grand celebration.

DRINK TO KING GEORGE

Lord Bransford of Cambridge, England, Gave Sparkling Talk on Fine Roads and Automobiles

"Drinking a toast to King George of England in honor of their distinguished guest from across the water, the Dallas Automobile club of Texas was surprised and delighted when Lord Charles Albert Bransford of Cambridge, England, responded in behalf of royalty with a sparkling talk on automobiles and automobile problems in England and at a recent banquet held at the Adolphus hotel, Dallas, at which W. O. L. Westgard of the American Automobile association was the guest of honor.

Lord Bransford is traveling across the continent with Mr. Westgard in the same old Pathfinder "46" touring car that has already been four times from coast to coast in the service of the A. A. A. He is a barrister and civil engineer and is in America to make a study of automobile roads. He was also a member of the party of Indian manufacturers that blazed the trail for the proposed Lincoln highway from the Indiana capital to the coast. Just as the last course of the Dallas Automobile club dinner was being served, the orchestra began to play "God Save the King." Lord Bransford at once arose at his place at the table as is the custom of his countrymen and the other members of the party followed his example. President Reese proposed a toast to the king as a compliment to the visitor.

The Englishman, in his response, said that automobile road progress in the older country had been slower than over here because of an act of parliament which regulated travel by mechanical equipment to three and one-half miles an hour. This law remained in effect until 1896.

Coal tar is used extensively to cover the highways in England as it makes them waterproof as well as said. The speaker referred to the coal mountain roads which the federal government of Switzerland had constructed. He advocated the necessity of roads being made as straight as possible. Up until 1904, he said, motorists were considered a nuisance on the highways of his mother country and were always blamed for accidents to cows.

Lord Bransford wound up his talk by proposing a toast to the president of the United States, a proposal which was met with characteristic southern enthusiasm.

The Englishman will continue to New York with the Pathfinder "46" of the A. A. A. which will then have completed its fifth transcontinental trip, and after a conference with the good roads department of the A. A. A. will return to his home in England.

He has many times expressed his amazement at the enduring qualities of American built automobiles as shown by his trip across the great American continent in the Pathfinder. He says that in spite of its previous cross-country trips, the old car, mastered the road difficulties of the southwest like a true "Pathfinder," carrying its ton of baggage and moving picture equipment with ease.

The veteran car will again be a feature of the New York, Chicago, and other automobile shows this winter. It is surprising that to date no enterprising press agent for an equally enterprising automobile concern has not claimed the "glory" of whirling Harry K. Thaw away from Mattawan asylum, New York, on his mad dash for freedom to the Canadian side of the border.

Apparently far-sighted sales managers do not care to run the risk of creating popular prejudice against their product among those who persistently believe in the insanity of the escaped millionaire murderer.

Consternation reigned, therefore, in the factory offices of the Pathfinder company at Indianapolis when a letter was received from an enthusiastic Pathfinder owner in the east who had been following carefully the details of the Thaw case and the subsequent attempts of Thaw to obtain his liberty through the courts. It read:

"Maybe you folks at Indianapolis do not know that it was a Pathfinder car that Harry Thaw used to make good his escape from Mattawan. He jumped into a big six-cylinder touring car, said to be a Packard, stationed at the gate of the asylum and instructed the driver of one of your Pathfinder Cruisers to follow closely behind so that in case anything happened to the big Six he would be able to transfer to the Pathfinder and get away in safety.

"As you know, the runaways were pursued closely when news of the hold escape became known, but the carefully laid plans of the Thaw party were carried out without a hitch.

"The runaways were said by the newspapers to have attained a speed of from 60 to 70 miles an hour, but apparently the little Pathfinder Cruiser was equal to the task, for it clung to the exhaust of its leader. Neither of them was found afterwards and as none of the Pathfinder cars in New York was reported missing, the ownership of the Thaw car is still a mystery.

"These facts were given to me by a New Yorker who had first hand knowledge of the affair, having been right on the spot when the hold dash for liberty was made by Thaw."

CLEANSSES YOUR HAIR MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL

It Becomes Thick, Wavy, Lustrous and All Dandruff Disappears

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanser" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

SHERIFF IS SUED

District Attorney Holds

Fairbairn for $35,151

Clerk's Shortage

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—District Attorney John J. Higgins has brought suit against Sheriff John R. Fairbairn on behalf of Middlesex county for $35,000 as the result of shortages in the accounts of the East Cambridge house of correction, discovered earlier in the year and shortly after the death of a bookkeeper who had them in his charge.

The defalcation amounts, according to the report of the American Audit company, which made a report early in September, to $35,151.

The writ was served on Sheriff Fairbairn on Sept. 8, and is returnable the first Monday in November. The suit is based on an action of contract or tort, and is merely a formality on the part of the county and the district attorney. If a decision is given adversely to the sheriff, it is probable that another will be brought against his bondsmen.

Mr. Higgins said yesterday that he was led to make his action public because he has recently been charged by the progressive committee of the district attorney with neglecting to take action in the case, through allegiance to the Middlesex county ring.

EDITOR MAKES A DENIAL

I.W.W. Leader in Boston to Explain How the Lawrence Strike Fund Was Used

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Joseph J. Ettor, the I. W. W. organizer, who was one of the leaders of the Lawrence strike, was in Boston yesterday and stated that he is here for the purpose of "visiting various locals of the I. W. W. and giving them the real facts of the Lawrence fund." He says he believes the money was all properly spent.

Ettor went into the early history of the fund and stated that something like $72,000 was raised and that the committee had sent acknowledgments for the whole amount. He said that when it is considered that this big sum of money was handled by men who probably had not distributed more than $100,000 in the past, he thinks it was handled remarkably well.

Ettor said that either receipts or checks will account for all other accounts of the fund. He stated that only $50 was spent for himself and Giovannianni while they were in prison.

"When the strike committee received the balance of $10,000 from the banks there was a balance of only 19 cents left," said Ettor. "The court appointed auditors and all the first set of books were gotten hold of by them, but another set of books was started immediately, and the court did not get hold of these books, which account for the fact that the master could only find $62,000 accounted for. But the receipts sent to the contributors show the actual amount received, and at the final balancing of books it was found that $3000 more had been spent than was reported, which had to be made good by the organization, after the strike. There were in outstanding bills.

"The court found that various sums amounting to $3000 had been spent for other purposes than the strike. The contention was made that all money collected was for food, and that any money spent for rent of halls, circulars, sending children away and bringing them back, food for prisoners in jail awaiting trial, fines of prisoners and lawyers' fees was spent illegally. The court found that those people contributing money intended that it should be used only to buy bread for the strikers.

"I would like to know how the auditor, the master in chancery and the supreme court know what the intentions of the donors of the fund were. It is a problem to the I. W. W.

"The court holds that the fees paid to lawyers were misappropriated on the grounds that donations for the I. W. W. were intended for food only. This, I believe, is a poor precedent to be established, for in future strikes it will be necessary to have legal organizations and will virtually give the employers the rights, through the courts, to dictate to the strikers how money shall be spent by strikers.

"The proceedings for an accounting of the strike fund were brought in June 10 days of the strike by a Boston minister, the Rev. Herbert Johnson and Pondergast and Woods, two men who are stockholders in the Pacific mills in Lawrence. I believe that we beat them at their own game. The money was all properly spent. I believe we are not guilty and we cannot be convicted as such without due process of law."

The New England Civic Federation, in its latest bulletin discusses the matter of the Lawrence strike fund at length and quotes from the testimony in court on the case. The deposition of William E. Trautman, filed in the courts in June last, is given in part. Trautman declared that regard for his good name prompted him to make his statement. He asserts, among other things, that from March 24 to May 3, 1912, during his absence from Lawrence, not less than $3000 and not more than $3500 of the funds contributed for strike relief was misused in the payment of salaries and high expenses to persons, "scavenger organizations" of the I. W. W., ordered from the far west to Massachusetts by Vincent St. John after the strike was ended.

Trautman avers that during his absence Edward Keittgen of Paterson, N. J., a member of the general executive committee of the I. W. W., was ordered to transfer items and funds, and endeavor to cover up the misuse of these thousands of dollars. He declares that figures on vouchers and in books were tampered with, erased, and changed; items for these illegitimate expenses were transferred to another book, and a general juggling with the funds started.

FATAL TO GOOD LOOKS

Thin Blood and Nervousness Will Quickly Wreck Beauty

Pale people are generally nervous. Thin blood not only affects the complexion by robbing cheeks and lips of color but it also weakens the nerves by robbing them of nourishment.

When you have so far lost control of your nerves that you "fly to pieces" over the least little noise or excitement, it is high time to give your nerves a rest and to build up your blood. The drawn look, the sunken eyes, the deepening lines about the mouth and forehead, the loss in weight, are plain signs that the nerves and the body are being poorly nourished.

Don't put off taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills any longer. You may be nearer a collapse than you think.

Start on the road to health now by getting a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your druggist.

SHOOTING UP MOVIES

DELIGHTFUL SOCIETY SPORT THAT WILL BE ENJOYED IN DRAWING ROOM

Society this winter will have the delightful experience of shooting wild animals in the drawing room. No longer is it necessary to go to the heart of Africa, the fastnesses of the Ural mountains or the crags of the Rockies to shoot big game. This can now be done between office hours and dinner in a business suit or after dinner in evening clothes, with no danger to the sportsman, by means of the motion picture shooting gallery.

From the point of view of sport, the "life" target excels anything ever seen on any rifle range. The excitement of shooting at birds on the wing, at base leading fences, armies soaring and dipping, polar bears, Indians in ambush, lions and other beasts in the jungle, motorcycles racing automobiles, speeding wild ducks taking to the water—almost anything in motion—cannot be appreciated without actual experience.

A New York theatrical manager, hunting for plays on the continent last spring, fell upon the trail of the life-target shooting pictures. He took his first shot at them in Berlin, and from that day he has been able to leave a rifle alone. He brought back with him the American rights in this latest "movie" craze.

The novelty of the device is that the instant the rifle cracks, the moving film halts for a fraction of a second, just long enough for one to see where his shot has hit. Whether it is a seal slipping into the water from a rock, a springing lion or a leaping antelope, the instant the rifle cracks the moving object stops. Then, where the bullet pierced the white paper screen, a little hole appears, showing a red light. This glows for an instant; then the film resumes its motion.

Electrically and mechanically the cinematograph target is ingenious. The target coordinates four separate patents, each of which was developed originally for quite other purposes. The heart of the mechanism is a relay, originated for use in automatic signaling on railway trains. A telephone receiver is placed well above the firing line. When the shot is fired, the sound acts upon the telephone receiver, which operates the relay, which in turn control the cinematograph machine by means of a band brake and a magnetic clutch. At the instant the shot is fired, the clutch is released and the brake is applied, bringing the picture to a standstill.

To prevent the film from catching fire while stationary, a small direct-driven air compressor maintains a constant blast of cold air on the film.

The switchboard which carries the relay also carries a dashpot which controls the spot-extinguishing movement of the screen and the restarting of the machine. The screen itself is formed by two sheets of stout paper, on horizontal rollers, and a third sheet, forming a stay, on vertical rollers. These screens are arranged to move a fraction of an inch—roughly the diameter of a shot hole—after each shot, thus obliterating the hole. This is done by a ratchet actuated by a solenoid. When the relay is brought into action by the sound of a shot, it closes the circuit of a timing dashpot, which rises slowly until the upper contacts close the circuit of the screen solenoid. During this interval the shot hole remains visible; but when the solenoid circuit is closed the hole disappears and the cinematograph machine is started again. The screen is illuminated from behind by several flaming-arc lamps hung clear of the firing line.

The life target provides the marksman with objects to shoot at under conditions as realistic as the modern cinematograph can make them. The pictures at any desired range and at any rate of movement, and the mechanism can be so adjusted as to take account of all the conditions of actual shooting; so that in firing at a moving object 1000 feet away, the marksman must take into consideration the motion of the object between the moment of pulling the trigger and the moment the bullet would reach the mark.

For the training of military marksmen the cinematograph target has been approved by the British war office.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central Street, is open from 7 till 9 Saturday evenings.

THE WEATHER FORECASTS

May be Made Six Months in Advance by Study of the Sun, Says Professor Frost

That it will soon be possible to determine general weather conditions six months or longer in advance by careful observation of solar conditions is the belief expressed by Professor Frost, of Yale University, who has just completed an exhaustive series of studies relating to variations in the amount of heat sent out by the sun. Such advance forecasts would revolutionize agriculture all over the world. The amount of heat sent out by the sun varies slightly from day to day, but the big variations, which are the ones that affect weather conditions, occur in cycles of months or years. The presence or absence of sun spots is the most important indication of future weather conditions, and these have been found to come in cycles of 11 years. The radiation of heat is high when the sun spots are numerous, and low when the sun spots are few or absent.

FOREST NOTES

Elevation Above Sea Level of 6000 Points Determined by U. S. Geological Survey

During the course of its topographic mapping in the state of Ohio the United States Geological survey has established nearly 6000 exact elevations above mean sea level. The work from 1901 to 1911 has been done in co-operation with the state. To engineers and surveyors this work is of prime importance, as the elevations which have been accurately determined afford a starting point for a survey of any kind that may be contemplated. These data points have been marked by means of tablets, raps, or iron posts embedded in the ground, or small metal disks driven into trees, posts, etc., the number stamped with steel dies on the bench marks representing the elevations to the nearest

NO OTHER HOUSE IN NEW ENGLAND

Could Conduct a Sale WITH SUCH A Magnitude of Bargains

As are Here Shown at the $175.00 First Anniversary SALE of the FREDERICK PIANO

Our Selling Floor is jammed with wonderful bargains in all the World's Best Makes of Pianos. Practically every well-known make is represented. They arrive here in various ways, and a sacrifice selling tag is put on them regardless of cost. Just a small profit to cover the cost of handling. No other house in New England can do this. Our expenses are practically nothing. Other departments of our business enable us to keep them at rock bottom. We are not bound up by manufacturers' contracts to hold up the price of their product. We get a piano here and all we try to do is sell it. We care nothing for makes or reputations. We simply put it on the floor, and one of the many shrewd buyers that come out here snap it up. Right now in this anniversary sale we are offering bargains that we believe cannot be duplicated anywhere. And the good public, who are getting more and more enlightened on values in Pianos, are taking advantage of them. It will pay you, and save you many dollars to come out here and have a chat with us. Obey your impulse and do it now.

WATER MADE FINE

THAT HAS BEEN TREATED WITH CHLORINATED LIME

It is surprising, as pointed out by Lederer, that so little attention has been paid to the question of removing the taste from water-supplies treated with chlorinated lime. In this country, especially, where the treatment of many large public supplies has been carried out with brilliant sanitary success, there has been frequent and often bitter complaint about the taste of the treated water. As well known, antagonism has developed in many places between water boards and health departments as a result of these conditions. On one side is the recognition that the danger from water-borne diseases is greatly reduced by the hypochlorite treatment; on the other is the necessity of having to bear the burden of daily complaint and to meet the indignant protests of thousands of aggrieved water-drinkers. As Lederer shows, a simple method of removing the taste from hypochlorite-treated water is the use of sodium thiosulphate. He has obtained good results in the elimination of taste in Los Angeles water treated in this way. It must be remembered that thiosulphate stops the germicidal action of the chlorine so that it is necessary to allow the chlorine to act for ten to fifteen minutes before the thiosulphate is added.

NORTH CHILMSFORD

Two Children Overcome By Gas But Soon Revived In The Open Air—Had Narrow Escape

Georgia and Rosalind Hogg, little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic W. Hogg of North Chelmsford, narrowly escaped being asphyxiated at their home early yesterday when the mother and left the little ones playing in the room while she attended to some work in another part of the house.

While Mrs. Hogg was absent from the room the flame was blown out in some way, and the gas poured from the stove unchecked. The cries of the children attracted the attention of the mother and on reaching the kitchen she found that one child was unconscious and the other in a dazed condition. They were hurried into the open air and medical attendance summoned. Both soon recovered.

THREAT TO STRIKE

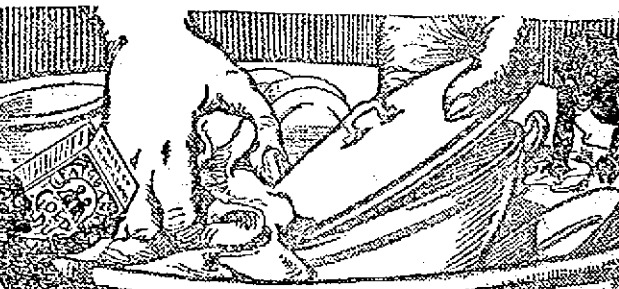

40,000 R.R. Men to Demand Wage Increase of $50,000,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Forty thousand locomotive engineers and firemen employed by ninety railroads running west of Chicago, have notified officials of the lines that they will terminate their present labor agreements November 1st and demand a wage increase aggregating $50,000,000 a year, according to statements in railroad offices here yesterday. The railroads in turn notified Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, chief of the firemen, that they would welcome a readjustment of wage schedules. The advance sought ranges between 25 cents and one dollar a hundred miles, according to the nature of the service.

LONG-TAILED JAP. ROOSTERS

The breeding of roosters with long tail feathers has long been the pastime of the natives of Shinewara, on the island of Shikoku, Japan. By patient selection of a breed of fowls, continued through 100 years, the tall feathers of the ordinary harnyard cock have been lengthened until some of the roosters on the island now have tail feathers measuring 15 feet. The hens of the same breed have tail feathers only 8 inches long. In breeding the roosters it is necessary to confine them in close quarters so that the feathers cannot wear out or be molted. Through a careful routine, the fowl lives his eight or nine years of life in a cage so narrow that he cannot turn around in it. When he is taken out for exercise every day or so, he is carefully watched by an attendant, and from time to time his plumage is carefully washed and dried.

NATIONAL AND SAVINGS BANKS

It may be true that the insolvency of the Traders bank is not due to the faults of its management or the evasion of any law framed for the protection of the people, but this conviction is not likely to bring much consolation to the thousands whose deposits are held up, especially to those who had deposited all their earnings in the savings department of the closed institution. They are liable to feel that had they selected a savings bank proper, limited by stringent laws in the sphere of its investment of the people's money, and under the watchful supervision of the Massachusetts savings bank commission, they would not be now waiting for the decision of the federal receiver to know whether they are to get their hard earned money back wholly or in part. They may also learn that it is poor policy to be lured by the larger interest which it implies the larger risk.

The same may be said of banking institutions which provide that the money invested in savings banks be kept from the more precarious avenues of speculation which too often bring ruin to national banks. Yet through a technicality, national banks may maintain savings departments such as that of the Traders bank which are not savings banks strictly speaking in the same sense as those under the Massachusetts savings banks commission, but which carry on the functions of a savings bank, without being hampered by state supervision. These banks are under federal authority and are responsible only to the federal government. Their financial activities, therefore, are not necessarily nearly so restricted as those savings banks under state supervision.

The present difficulty of the Traders bank is an illustration of the abuse of this federal permit for national banks to maintain a savings department and it gives us reason to ask if the conducting of the functions of a national and a savings bank under one head and one management is wise or safe. Now that the currency bill is under discussion in congress, it were well if this phase of the country's banking laws were considered. Under the present arrangement there will always be the danger that the money deposited in the savings department of a national bank will be invested in the more precarious forms of speculation which are forbidden in savings banks under the Massachusetts savings banks commission.

As was to be expected, the announcement has been made in some quarters that the failure of the Traders bank has been brought about because of policies of the democratic administration. There is absolutely no foundation for this statement. It is not the intention of the president or any of the supporters of the currency bill to endanger the stability of the financial affairs of the country in the least. Their object is to render business a great service by putting the currency on a firm foundation, taking away from its management the personal intervention which gave to bankers, individual and collective, almost absolute power over the financial affairs of the country and therefore made business subject to their whims. Even should there be anything in the bill which might bring temporary confusion its effects would not yet be felt as the final form of the bill is yet unsettled. Instead of causing financial reverses such as that of the Traders bank it is far more probable that the currency bill will prevent the repetition of the local calamity. The failure of the Traders bank should be brought to the attention of the leaders of the administration at Washington, so as to serve as a guide to what is needed in the pending currency bill. The depositors in this case claim they were imposed upon by a sign that led them to believe that the savings department of the Traders National bank was a regular savings bank fully as reliable as any of the others. The present banking laws of the nation are responsible for that imposition and the evil should be remedied in the new currency bill.

TEST FLAG LAW

The flag law which was recently enacted by the last legislature has been questioned by many as unconstitutional and those who were not in sympathy with its provisions will be glad to learn that it is soon to be tested before the higher courts of the state. Recently two Boston socialists were arrested for carrying red flags in a parade in that city and when the case was tried in the police court they were fined $15.00. They appealed with the intention of testing the constitutionality of the law. The case involves all the vital points necessary for creating a precedent so that the coming decision of the higher courts will settle the fate of the law for the future.

It must be evident to all who ponder on the matter that the red flag of the socialist was banned from public parades in this state, not because it is a red flag or the flag of any party but because it became identified publicly with declarations and manifestations of rebellion against all authority. In no country in the world is the law more liberal concerning the carrying of flags and emblems than in America, and any tendency, therefore, to abuse the privilege here is especially regrettable. Were the socialist flag a representation of the skull and cross bones it could have been carried if its exhibition were not connected with insults to the American flag and such ambitious declarations as "No God, no master," or something to that effect. The socialists of this state did much recently to put before the people their distinct individuality and distinguishing characteristics as compared with the propaganda of the I. W. W. and similar organizations, but they did not do so in time to prevent many from associating the red flag with the most extreme declarations of social and industrial agitators.

The strongest foe of socialism would not deny to that organization its right to carry a red flag or a black flag or any other color flag, provided it complied with the same regulations that all who carry other flags than the Stars and Stripes respect. If it forfeited its right to do so, the blame lies on those who co-opted the carrying of the red flag with disorder rather than on the state of Massachusetts. Even should the Boston case make the law negative, the socialist party has learned a lesson that is of value to all parties and all peoples.

DEMOCRATS WITH WALSH

Mr. Bird seems to be laboring under the decision that he will gain quite a few democratic votes from now on in his campaign by ignoring Mr. Gardner and lending his energies towards capturing the good will of those whose party banner is borne by David I. Walsh. In this he is deluding himself. Democrats will be faithful to their candidate, not that they love Mr. Bird less but because they love Mr. Walsh more. The democratic candidate throughout his campaign has refrained from the spectacular and vote-baiting methods of his opponents, but something more than strenuous campaigning is needed today in state politics. Mr. Walsh was discussing state issues when his opponents were delighting the curious by an exchange of "wallops" and there are still many in Massachusetts who desire a statesman in the governor's chair rather than a muscular wallflower.

Apologies of Mr. Bird's futile hope, the Salem News has the following: "Candidate Bird avers that the campaign has so shaped itself that Candidate Walsh is now his real opponent, and that voters must choose between them for the next governor. Listen to this: 'The men I wish to reach now are men who have been in the rank and file of the democratic party.' Have been? Where are they at present? As for the rank and file of the democratic party, Mr. Bird will make about as much impression upon them, in capturing votes, as a bean blower would make upon the armor of a modern dreadnaught."

Were there any sign of dissatisfaction in democratic ranks, Mr. Bird might well hope to succeed, but never in the history of recent state campaigns were the democrats more united. In Mr. Walsh they have an honorable and efficient gentleman of proven worth and high purpose, and not all the wiles of Mr. Bird or anybody else will turn their allegiance from him. The democrats stand solidly behind Walsh.

DRIVING THEM OUT

The Rev. Madison C. Peters, a clergyman who has a cure for every ill under the sun and over it has the prettiest scheme ever heard of for getting leaders out of the cities and reducing the high cost of living. He would take those who would rather "stay, starve and sink" in the city than do farm work, and proceed as follows: "Placing good healthy work on one side and a rawhide on the other," he would give them 15 minutes to take their choice. Simplicity itself. If Rev. Mr. Peters is as vigorous as his language, he could probably drive out a weak leader or two, but to make them work he'd probably have to follow and do a continuous Simon Legree act. Probably this would keep him so busy that he would not have time to make foolish statements. If so, the sooner he starts out with his rawhide, the better.

Seen and Heard

You cannot always tell what a man is by what he says he is going to do.

Recently, Attorney-General McKeynolds told a story of his participation as a prosecutor in a case where a physician was called by the defense to testify. The physician's testimony ran through most of one day, and when he was recalled on the following morning for cross-examination he announced that he first wished to make some preliminary remarks. "What do you wish to say?" inquired the other prosecutor, raspingly. "I wish to correct some mistakes in my testimony of yesterday," said the doctor. "It is a fact, isn't it, doctor, that many of your mistakes are buried underground?" said the prosecutor, ironically. "Possibly," retorted the physician. "But while we're on the subject, I wish to state that I have often suspected, sir, that many of your mistakes were hanging 10 feet above!"—Washington Star.

A LIFE LESSON

The turkey gobbles in pride and joy. As he struts on a Vermont farm, his plump and well, and he never thinks. That's his going to come to harm. But in a month from now his glory and pride will all have passed away, and he'll lie on his back with his legs tucked up. On the table Thanksgiving day. There's a lesson in this for every one. Who lives in a careless way. But the lesson is not that we should scorn. The pleasures we have today. We should not ignore the horoscope. That is knowledge of future events. But still we should get the best of life. And enjoy it while it lasts.

Be wary of the man who tells you there is a fortune in some speculation. He may want to get your fortune in there also.—New Orleans Picayune. "Why didn't old Gatoro fling that drowning man that life preserver he had in his hand?" "You know he made his money manufacturing rubber and it looked too much like throwing away an automobile tire."—Florida Times-Union.

At the dental congress at Asbury Park, Dr. J. P. Carmichael of Milwaukee, apropos of a disappointment in dental legislation, said philosophically: "Well, let us not despair. Let us remember the old maid. 'An old maid, you know, went into a decline. 'What's the matter with you?' a doctor asked. 'Oh, doctor,' she sobbed, 'I've been disappointed in love.' 'Naturally,' said the doctor. 'It never does come up to expectations.'"—Philadelphia North American.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

QUITE CONSISTENT

Worcester Post: The fitness of things is not absent from the bull moose nomination of William Sulzer for assemblyman from the sixth New York district. The making of humbug out of good causes and the weakening of them by mad and inconsistent conduct has high example in that quarter. It was in that district that Sulzer first entered politics and he has always had a strong hold there.

ONE TARIFF EFFECT

Boston Post: While the tariff bill was in congress there was considerable talk from the republican stand-patters to the effect that the new schedules would do little or nothing to reduce the cost of living.

The answer to that comes in a prompt and practical way from a long-established and well-remembered firm, the S. S. Pierce company of this city which announced a few days ago that, as a result of lower rates of duty, prices have been reduced on olive oil, imported biscuits and wafers, jams and marmalades, vegetables, spaghetti and other food products.

THE WRONG WAY

Fall River Herald: Once more it would be well to consider that one of the best ways to encourage the spread of socialist teachings is to resort to authority to support their claims, rather than to reason to convince men that they are wrong. The history of social movements throughout the world has proved this.

DEATH OF ROSE

Lynn Item: The death of Ralph Rose, champion shot-putter, "the perfect man," at the age of 29 years, shows that strength is not the same thing as endurance. Some of the little fellows who have envied him his development will probably live to be 50, and do good work most of the time.

LADIES DEPLUMED

Lynn Item: Several ladies who came over on the Cincinnati and landed in Boston on Sunday evening had an unpleasant experience. The inspectors of customs, acting under instructions from the treasury department, were alert to discover feathers which are prohibited by the new tariff, and great sorrow was caused when the hats of some of the wearers were deploined. Law is law, and feathers are things and the two must harmonize if they can. The ladies whose hats were made less attractive by reason of the action of the administrators of the law had their opinions on the subject of the recent enactment, and got what satisfaction they could by expressing them in turns emphatic, if not exactly polite.

ALDRICH'S CRITICISM

Salem News: You may say that this is anything but complimentary to the intellect of the fair sex, but to people who decide that what Mr. Aldrich opposes in this quarter may be a good thing for the people to demand. Admittedly, at the time the fact cannot be gainsaid that Mr. Aldrich is put in an equivocal light. In short, he is disturbed by the elements referred to. It is numbers virtually take the ground that he would put private interests above the general welfare. That is the long and short of the matter. The same distrust was also existent when the bankers, "in convention assembled," proceeded to make their opposition manifest.

NEW LONG-FLIGHT RECORD

The world's record for long aeroplane flights with a passenger was broken on August 26 by a German airman, Victor Storch, who flew 776 1/2 miles in one day, including two stops en route on the way. The flight took 14 hours and 45 minutes. The airman, with one passenger, left Muenchen at 7:45 a. m. in competition for the national aviation prize, and landed near Isenstadt at 7:30 in the evening.

NOTED THIEF IS WANTED

Local Police Seeking Pickpocket
Who Escaped From New York
—Has Committed Slick Jobs

The local police have just received information which has set them on the track of a noted New York pickpocket. Samuel Gold, of Russian parentage and well known in New York criminal circles, is thought to have been here this week and may be here at the present time.

From all the information that can be gathered on the subject it seems that the noted thief was driven out of New York late this summer and his whereabouts were for a time unknown. Through the medium of a New York man, who happened to be at Salem, N. H., during last week it was learned that Gold was playing his nefarious game in the little New Hampshire town while the crowds thronged around the race track or were occu-pled with the midway. Detectives were immediately set upon his track but he was too slippery for them and slid through the clutches of the "big city" officers. It was thought at the time that he had gone to the middle west but from several sources it is believed that the man had only recently, if at all, left this city. He has a cousin living here, it is said, and although the relatives of the criminal has refused to speak thus far, he may later reveal the whereabouts of Gold. Gold is wanted on several counts and will probably spend at least five years in the state penitentiary if the authorities once lay hands upon him.

Local Machinists Met in Hibernian Hall Last Night—Over Six Hundred Present

The members of local 1829, Machinists union, held an interesting meeting in Hibernian hall last evening. There were over 600 members present, and the meeting was presided over by President Walter Phelps.

It was reported in the course of the meeting that the organization now counted over 700 members in its ranks, and this announcement was received with cheers. Among those who addressed the gathering were Organizer Young of this city, S. M. Thompson of Hyde Park, who spoke on the recent troubles at the machine shop of Gov. Foss; Michael O'Neil, inside organizer for the Railroad Machinists union in Nashua, N. H.; John J. Brown of Nashua, member of the Merrimack Valley organizing committee, and others.

It was voted to send delegates to the meeting of the executive board of the 19th district which will be held in Lynn Sunday, and there protest against the removal to the state of Maine of Organizer Young of this city, for the members of the local organization feel that the present organizer in Maine is capable of handling the work, while they say Organizer Young's services are badly needed in Lowell.

EATON TRIAL

with his address in the Plymouth county court, the defense in the murder trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton opened its case.

Nor did the young assistant to William A. Morse halt at that point. He declared the late naval officer to be a drunkard, a drug-user and a man of immoral nature. He said that during the week of the last illness and death of the first Mrs. Eaton, the admiral was intoxicated at his home, and that because of his condition he was unable to attend the funeral services. The attorney further declared that the admiral's drug habits while in the service of the country had been the means of endangering hundreds of lives. He asserted that witnesses for the defense would show that the late naval officer while under the influence of drugs was a bad type of man, and that letters written by him would show him to be a degenerate of the lowest type. It would be shown also, said Mr. Geogan, that the admiral flirted with and winked at women and often made advances to them.

Attorney Geogan told the jury that the defense would present a witness who would testify to having prescribed a medicine for the admiral which contained arsenic, and that through this witness it would be shown that 45 grains of arsenic had been purchased in tablet form, each tablet containing one one-hundredth of a grain.

He said that the accused had the strongest possible motive for keeping her late husband alive, that the late Mrs. Eaton's pension was her only means of support, and that she herself would take the stand and tell fully and freely her life with the admiral and the circumstances that she knew regarding his death. He said his client would not attempt to hide behind a cloak of insanity; that she asked no favors and desired nothing but that the jury pass upon the case on its merits.

The opening address of the young attorney was effectively presented. Its delivery consumed over an hour, and at its conclusion the first witness for the defense took the stand. There were three of them to be heard before the adjournment of the court. One, a Washington physician, who had attended the first Mrs. Eaton during her fatal illness, the second, a retired admiral of the United States navy, and the third, a naval lieutenant, who, as a midshipman, had served under Admiral Eaton.

Warship Crew in Peril

It was the testimony of the last witness that held the interest of the audience that packed the court room, and it was here that the defense introduced testimony to support its contention that the admiral was a drug user, and that his use of drugs had been the means of endangering the lives of hundreds of his subordinates while he was the commanding officer of the battleship Massachusetts.

This witness was Lieutenant Holden Chester Richardson, a graduate of Annapolis and the M. L. V., and now in charge of the work pertaining to naval aeroplanes at Washington. He had served on the battleship Massachusetts under the then Captain Joseph G. Eaton, and told of singular happenings aboard the boat.

One of these occurred, according to the witness, when Eaton appeared on the ship's bridge, clad only in his pajamas, and gave orders which if carried out would have endangered the vessel and its entire crew.

The witness told also of occasions when Eaton appeared to have been under the influence of drugs. He said the face of his commander on these occasions held a set expression, his eyes were glassy and his voice thick. He said he never had detected the odor of liquor.

Through the testimony of the physician, Dr. Frank Freeman Smith, of Washington, the jury learned of the alleged habits of intoxication of the admiral, and prior to this testimony, Attorney William A. Morse, counsel for the accused woman, introduced a surgeon general's report which showed that in 1878-1879 Eaton had been treated for a disease.

NEWSPAPER SUED

Mayor Scanlon of Lawrence Has Filed Suit Against "Sunday Leader" for $1000

LAWRENCE, Oct. 24.—Because of alleged libellous articles published in the Sunday Leader, purporting that Mayor Scanlon made the statement that a man and his family could live on $3 a week, a suit for libel has been brought by the mayor against Publisher Valentine Sellers, Carrie L. Sellers, Hugh Roy and Duncan Wood. The ad damnum is for $1000. The action is one of tort for libel and conspiracy to injure. It has been instituted through the office of Attorney William P. Moyes, counsel for the mayor. The writ was issued by Clerk Daniel W. Mahoney of police court, Thursday, and is returnable in court a week from next Saturday when the case is scheduled to come up for a hearing.

In a recent issue of the Sunday Leader was an alleged story purporting that, at the public meeting in library hall on the evening of September 30, conducted by the legislative committee on the child labor law, the mayor made the statement as above in reference to the $3.

An affidavit appeared in the paper, signed by Duncan Wood, tending to substantiate the alleged libellous statements.

Mayor Scanlon denies that he made any such statement as the defendants claimed he did. He has received assurances from the members of the legislative committee that no such statement was made by him.

On the contrary, the mayor contends and is supported in his contention by the records of the clerk of the legislative committee, that he claimed that $3 was not enough for a working man. "I went to that hearing," commented the mayor Thursday morning, "to secure a repeal of the present child labor law so that a family could get more revenue."

The mayor maintains that the alleged libellous statements were made to injure him politically, with the working people.

SOLID ALCOHOL CUBES

How It Is Coming Into Use in Germany—More Convenient Than the Liquid

Cubes of "solid alcohol" are coming into use in Germany and to some extent in America for cooking, heating, curling irons or small amounts of water, and for any purpose which requires a small amount of heat for a short time. Put up in pills or small metal containers, solid alcohol is much more convenient than liquid alcohol, because it can be used on a sheet of metal or asbestos without a burner and the user knows just how much heat to expect. Some of the cubes are made of 50-per-cent alcohol worked up in a solid mass which looks like transparent soap, but the flame is not clean. Mixed with collodion, the solid alcohol is transparent and more clearly, but rather expensive. The cheapest and most useful tube is made of sawdust soaked in alcohol and raised with tar.

FOR THANKSGIVING DAY MINOR ORDERS HE DIED SMILING

Pres. Wilson Designates Thursday, Nov. 27, as Day for Observance—Issues Proclamation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Wilson yesterday designated Thursday, Nov. 27, Thanksgiving day and issued the following, his first Thanksgiving proclamation:

"The season is at hand in which it has been our long respected custom as a people to turn in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for His manifold mercies and blessings to us as a nation. The year that has just passed has been marked in a peculiar degree by manifestation of His gracious and beneficent providence. We have not only had peace throughout our own borders and with the nations of the world but that peace has been brightened by constantly multiplying evidences of genuine friendship, of mutual sympathy and understanding, and of the happy operation of many elevating influences both of ideal and practice.

"The nation has been prosperous not only but has proved its capacity to take calm counsel amidst the rapid movement of affairs and deal with its own life in a spirit of candor, righteousness and comity. We have seen the practical completion of a great work at the Isthmus of Panama, which not only exemplifies the nation's abundant resources to accomplish what it will and the distinguished capacity of its public servants but also promises the beginning of a new age of new contracts, new neighborhoods, new sympathies, new bonds and new achievements of co-operation and peace. Righteousness exalted a nation and Peace on earth, good will toward men furnish the only foundations upon which can be built the lasting achievements of the human spirit. The year has brought us the satisfaction of work well done and fresh visions of our duty which will make the work of the future better still.

"Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the 27th of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer, and invite the people throughout the land to cease from their occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almighty God. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington on this 23rd day of October, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirteen and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-eighth.

(Signed) "Woodrow Wilson,"
By the president, William J. Bryan.

SUPT. MOLLOY'S INQUIRY

AS TO CHARGING FEE FOR CERTIFICATES ANSWERED BY ATTORNEY-GENERAL

Supt. Molloy has received an opinion from Atty.-Gen. Swift to the effect that chapter 775 of the acts of 1913, of the so-called minor's law, does not prohibit the exacting of a fee for the issuance of certain of the papers or records mentioned in that statute.

The most important part of the opinion follows:
"If the provision (chapter 775, section 15), that 'no fee shall be exacted for an employment certificate or for any of the papers required by this act' is to be construed broadly, it would probably apply to all of the papers required under the provision of section 16, above quoted, including the papers showing as sufficient evidence for proof that a child is 14 years of age. If such papers can be said to be required, I am of opinion that it cannot be so broadly construed.

"This provision with respect to fees obviously applies to all records and papers required by said section 16, as amended by section 15 of chapter 775, and would doubtless apply to certificates or other papers signed by officials connected with the schools of any city or town, and required under any of the provisions of the act. It could not, however, apply either to a certificate of the family physician, or to a baptismal certificate, or to a duly attested transcript thereof, or to a passport or a duly attested immigration record, or transcript thereof, or other official or religious record of a child's age relating to evidence of age, for the reason that the legislature has no authority to compel a physician in private practice to perform gratuitous services or the keeper of private records to supply transcripts thereof without compensation. Neither has it the authority to forbid the federal authorities to charge fees for copies of their records relating to immigration. The legislature has authority to require the issuance of certificates by public officials, such as the birth certificate in question or copies thereof, without compensation. This can easily be declared in unmistakable language, but it is not made plain in the present legislation. I am led to the conclusion that the exemption from fees does not apply to fees for certificates for which there is other existing authority.

"Moreover, it may be doubted whether a fee required by a family physician is required, in the sense in which the word is used, in section 15, in the provision under discussion. It is only one of the several alternatives, any one of which would satisfy the requirements, and the same is true of the evidence required under paragraph four. Each of the sub-heads, including that in which a birth certificate or a duly attested transcript thereof, is to be found, is an alternative, and no one of them is specifically required.

"While this question is not entirely free from doubt, I am led to the opinion that birth certificates, or transcripts thereof, are not required to be furnished without the fee now provided by law therefor, and that for this reason also your specific inquiry should be answered in the negative."

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE AT PRISONER ATE CHICKEN JUST BEFORE GOING TO THE SCAFFOLD

SOMERSET, Pa., Oct. 24.—Because John W. Maus, a condemned prisoner here, had a fondness for chicken, his execution for the murder of Mail Carrier Harrison Brown was put over from ten until one o'clock today so that he might enjoy his favorite dish. The tenderest chicken that could be found was then bought by Sheriff Charles L. Hochard, was broiled by the jail cook and placed before Maus at noon. After he had made a hearty meal of the bird he went to the scaffold and died smiling.

Maj. Bridgman Takes 18 Mile Walk on His Birthday

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Maj. J. C. Bridgman observed his 82d birthday yesterday morning by walking 18 miles from his home in Maple street, Hyde Park, to the office in Ashburton place, of his son, Alfred Bridgman, treasurer of the Metropolitan water and sewerage commission, and back home. Later he was joined by his other son, Frank E. Bridgman, assistant clerk of the lower branch of the legislature, and all three went to dinner to celebrate the occasion.

Major Bridgman covered the distance into the city in less than three hours and in the early afternoon after his dinner with his two sons he began the walk back. It is his custom to take the walk on all birthdays. The octogenarian appeared in the best of health and spirits and seemed determined to fulfill his prediction that he would beat his morning record by several minutes in his return trip.

Major Bridgman, who was an Indian agent during President Grant's administration, is a native of Northampton, Mass., and has lived in Hyde Park for 35 years. He has done considerable writing during his life and is a frequent contributor to the Congressionalist of which Rev. Howard A. Bridgman, his nephew, is editor.

UNIFORM WAGES

For the Textile Workers Throughout Country is Demanded

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—A resolution was unanimously adopted at yesterday's session of the convention of Textile Workers of America demanding a uniform scale of wages for all textile workers throughout the country. It was decided to gather information from all sections of the average of wages, after which the scale will be fixed. It was also decided to levy an assessment on all locals so that more organizers might be sent out.

The label committee offered a resolution that in all conventions in the future each delegate be required to have attached to his clothing at least five union labels. The resolution which also called for the appointment of a standing committee caused a flurry among the women delegates and much amusement among the men. It was referred back to the committee.

FIRE IN SCHOOL

600 Children Had Narrow Escape at Manchester, Conn.

MANCHESTER, Conn., Oct. 24.—Six hundred school children were endangered yesterday when fire broke out in the Pina district grammar school. The pupils were marshaled in the fire drill and got out of the building within a few minutes. None was injured. The building was a three-story structure.

THE SCRAGGS ABDUCTION

SUPT. WELCH WONDERS WHY NOBODY SAW THE MEN KIDNAPPING THE GIRL

As far as can be ascertained up to the present the police have not as yet succeeded in finding a trace of any persons who were witnesses to the kidnapping of Ethel Scraggs at the post-office, Tuesday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock. The girl, together with her parents, called the station and gave a description of the men, as far as she could. She also was questioned by Supt. Welch regarding the details of the affair, and requested that he do all in his power to run down the scoundrels. He said that he would endeavor to find someone who was present at the corner near the post-office, in order to have witnesses, and to have the men identified in case of their apprehension.

As the alleged abduction was cited as having been perpetrated in a very daring manner at about 5.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and as at that hour the streets are generally crowded with people leaving the mills, it would seem an easy matter to find witnesses, but such apparently, has not been the case, for no one has as yet presented himself to say that he saw the affair.

Supt. Welch thinks it would be quite safe to offer a large reward for witnesses to the alleged abduction. If such an occurrence were reported at 2 o'clock in the morning it might pass unnoticed.

ASSAULTED WITH CAN

ROW IN BOARDING HOUSE ON DAVIDSON STREET LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

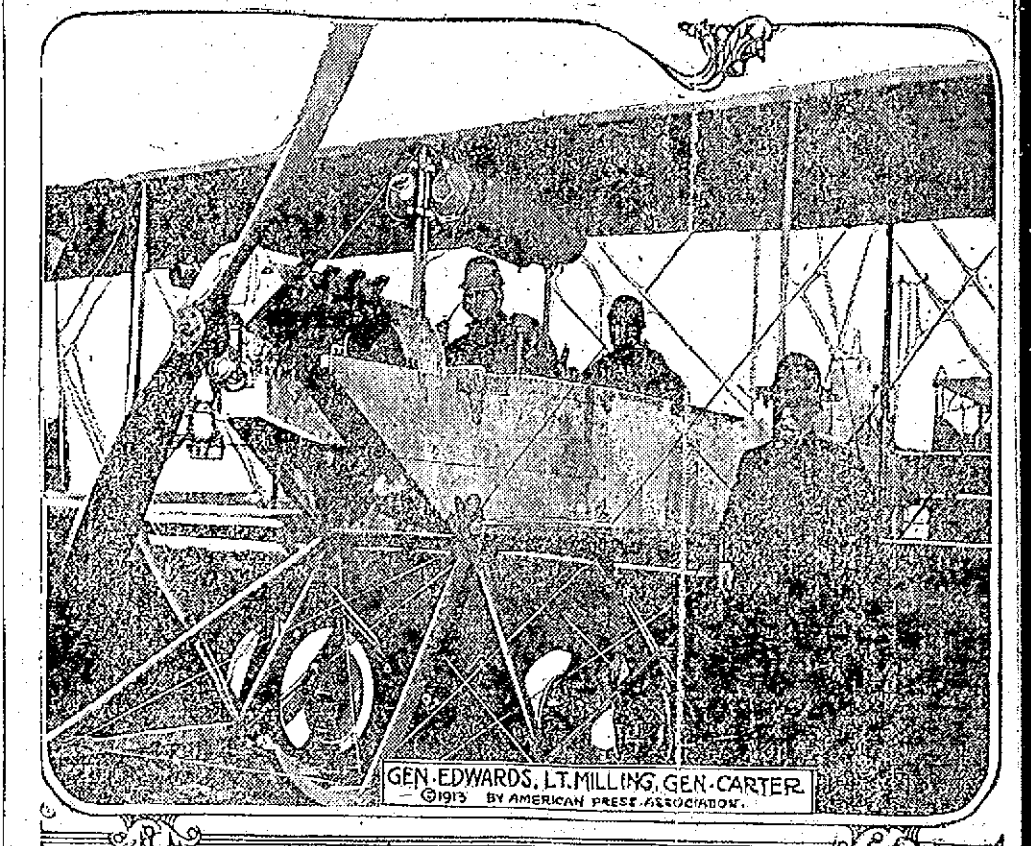

The case of Impolitus Kantokeyev, charged with assault and battery on one Andrew Androlouis was brought before Judge Pickman in the criminal session of police court yesterday.

The complainant stated through an interpreter, that he was in a boarding house on Davidson street last Saturday night and the defendant hit him on the back of the head with a heavy tin can causing a severe wound. The defendant is also charged with drunkenness.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 to 9 o'clock Saturday evenings.

ARMORED AIR SCOUT LATEST INNOVATION IN AEROPLANE EQUIPMENT OF THE U. S. ARMY

GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 24.—Progress made by the United States army aeroplane corps in placing our aerial fighters on a most efficient basis. Major-General Carter, commander of the American troops on the Mexican border, is doing much to develop his squad of air men, and in the accompanying illustration he is shown standing alongside of air scout No. 9 occupied by Brigadier-General Edwards and Lieutenant Milling. The body of scout No. 9 is armored, and for making landings in bad ground in an emergency the craft is equipped with both skids and double pneumatic tires, an unusual but practical precautionary measure. Lieutenant Milling is one of the ablest army aviators in the United States.

PARCEL POST OFFICES

NEW STATIONS TO BE ESTABLISHED IN BOSTON TO HANDLE THE CHRISTMAS RUSH

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—On account of the great increase in the parcel post business and to be prepared to handle the great rush of Christmas mail stations of the railway mail service are being established at both the North and South terminal stations. Both offices will be ready next month.

The postoffice department has leased about 4000 feet of additional space at the South station on the Atlantic avenue side on the ground floor. This section was formerly occupied by the express companies. About 1500 feet of land on the Haverhill street side of the North station has been leased and a modern postoffice is now being fitted up. The South station parcel post terminal will probably be ready by Nov. 1 and the one at the North station a week or two later.

Similar railroad terminal parcel post stations have been fitted up in other cities in the country. At Providence a new station has just been put in operation, and the local railway mail officials are planning new stations at Springfield, New Haven and Portland. The terminal parcel post stations will greatly facilitate the handling of the great amount of mail coming to Boston via parcel post. Congestion on railway mail cars will be done away with under the new system.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 24.—Jefferson Butler, president of the Michigan Audubon society and nationally known as a lover and protector of bird life, was struck and killed last night by an automobile. Mr. Butler was riding a bicycle and it is said turned from his course directly in front of the approaching car. He was 45 years old.

EXCUSE ME

Athletes and Athletics

Yale and Princeton meet tomorrow in the first of the big games. Light Green team is looked upon as favorite with the Tigers on the end of a 10-9 proposition. There is nobody left in Harvard territory. Even the fanfare of the dormitories take in the game. In Princeton, the boys in their particular half are taking them along. This will be the biggest contest for undergraduates as Dartmouth does play Harvard this year.

The coming Knockout Brown-Matty fight in Boston does not look good from the street. Neither box up to the brand of performer the should give its patrons. We understand that they are going to close month and perhaps that may have bearing upon the choice of principals.

Lenney fought a draw with Willie Sheppard last night in the Leicester city hall, where the club is its headquarters. Lenney showed very good and without his opponent but decision was not forthcoming to the benefit of "Hee" McInnis. Lenney now boxing better than he performed in New York.

Harvard's line has improved with the new recruits in the last two weeks. It was a ragged proposition until the end of this week, but is now showing an aggressiveness and power. The line backs, Bricker, McInnis and McKelvey, failed to puncture yesterday when they were shifted to the second team.

The crowds fail to materialize at games of the White Sox and Giants. Two clubs will probably like to form a union before their schedule calls them to leave American territory. A poor attendance at the game this morning has caused the management many hours of distress. The Giants won yesterday, 6 to 3.

The memorial to be erected to the memory of the greatest trainer, the world has ever seen, Mike Murphy, will probably be started before long. The description lists have been sent out to the athletes who have worked under Mike's instructions are now waiting every nerve to raise the price of the proposed statue, $50,000. It is a big pile of money, but there is little doubt but what it will readily be subscribed among the men whom the veteran trainer befriended during his eventful career.

The best race between Yale and Princeton Saturday, which will take place at Lake Carnegie, N. J., will not attract nearly the crowd that the spring races draw. Football is in the air now and will not be denied for aquatics nor any other branch of sport.

No one of the All-American baseball selections has included either Wagner nor Jolote. Cobb and Speaker are the two outfielders most generally chosen with either Joe Jackson or Sherwood Magee coming in for the third outer garden. "Father" Mathewson, also is a member in good standing of the greatest team of ball players.

Joe Finneran has been retained by Phillie for next season. Manager Duolin's retention by the owners of the club means that the former Lowell pitcher will be given all the opportunity possible to a youngster to succeed for Duolin was greatly pleased with Finneran's showing the latter part of the season after he joined the Philadelphia club.

The boys at the armory are very fortunate in having a man of Captain Joyce's calibre in charge of the gymnasium. He is a mighty good athlete himself today and is always willing to aid any branch of sport.

The high school team is up against a tough proposition in Malden, high whom they meet Saturday on the latter's home territory. Malden has a heavy, fast aggregation this season and the local team seems to be on the short end of predictions.

In Tom Mahoney the high school football team has a coach who has made good here for the past eight years. There is no man coaching high school football today who knows the rules better than the Lowell strategist and his trick formations have drawn many people to the high school games who would not otherwise take in the schoolboy contests.

The trade of George Tyler for Hube Marquard is still in the air and is expected to take effect with the return of McGraw. George refuses to say anything about the deal, however, although he does state that the Boston club has shown him the greatest consideration. Well, why wouldn't they?

The Pigskin Chasers

This column will be devoted entirely to football notes. The author is an ex-gridiron exponent and will answer queries sent in by subscribers and others who seek information about the game. Football challenges will be published if sent to the sporting editor exclusively for this column.

"Roundy" Roane is fast achieving an enviable football reputation for himself. With more experience and weight, this high school boy will be in a position to make a strong bid for a berth on a big college team.

Corbett is playing a very good game at center this season for the high school team. Last year he was as good as the average schoolboy snapper-back, but his work this year in the center of the line is far above his former playing. He is strong on the defense and makes many openings for the backs to slide through.

H. C. S. City—Lowell high won the Lowell-Lawrence game in 1907 by the score of 5 to 0, making a touchdown and kicking the goal. The score was made in the first half after the Lowell backs had failed twice to advance the ball one yard.

Harvard looks like the strongest college eleven up to date. The Crimson has a wonderful backfield and their line has strengthened visibly within the past fortnight. Harvard is picked by the majority of experts as the premier football aggregation of the 1913 season.

Secret practice has started at Cornell and the men are being pushed hard for their game tomorrow with Pittsburgh. This will be the first hard struggle that the Ithacans have engaged in and the outcome will be watched with interest by the Penn coaches. Cornell and Penn always play one of the hardest games of the season when C. rooms.

they meet and this year will prove no exception to the rule. Penn has the far better aggregation to date.

Eddie Hart has been sent for to aid the Tigers coaching department and is expected on from Seattle at any time. Hart was an All-American choice and his work with the linemen will help out appreciably.

The Washington and Jefferson team is certain to give Yale a hard workout at New Haven tomorrow. Yale will have to play real football to win by a fair score and the southerners are confident of slipping over a victory on the Blue eleven. The latter possibility does not seem likely, however.

Joe Gargan has been injured again at Notre Dame and the chances are now that the Lowell boy will be out of the lineup of the Indiana college for the remainder of the season. Joe has played in tough luck ever since he left high school.

It is safe to say that a man named Mr. Baker will be closely watched and very closely hugged in the Dartmouth-Princeton game. Baker is the most dangerous man on the Princeton team and once let him get loose in an open field and there is no telling where he will be pulled down. Oh, yes, Baker will be watched all right.

Capt. Storer's shift to end will furnish one of the features of the game between Harvard and Penn state at the Stadium tomorrow. Centre, tackle and nose end, the Crimson captain has certainly displayed versatile football talent.

The Emeralds of Lawrence would like to play the Comets of this city tomorrow afternoon, either in this city or in Lawrence. The manager of the Comets can reach the management of the down river team at the Emerald A. C. rooms.

FOR MEN WHO LOOK AHEAD!

THE CHINCHILLA WONDER OVERCOAT

An October Overcoat $15 Special That's a Wonder in Tailoring at the Price

We could sell every one of these coats without spending a dollar in advertising them.

But—we want quick action—we want to sell them in October and most men wait until November to buy their winter overcoat.

So we put it squarely up to you: Here's an overcoat trade you're not likely to get in November. Will you look into it now, today? We call it the Chinchilla Wonder Overcoat.

It's a wonder in high-class workmanship. Though every commodity is supposed to be high, we've never seen so attractive a coat produced to sell at the price $15.00

Four shades: Blue, Brown, Oxford and Cambridge Gray. Five models: The regular length split sleeve, belted back; regular length with shawl collar; the long convertible single and double breasted; long shawl collar, double breasted.

ARMORY ATHLETIC EVENTS

SOME GREAT EVENTS ARRANGED FOR THE WINTER—THE OFFICERS

The annual athletic tournament of the members of the Lowell Armory Athletic Association will open on Monday, Nov. 3, as all arrangements for the 1912-1913 tournament have been completed. The same rules and regulations that governed the tournament at year will prevail and it is predicted that the match between teams from the various local companies will be a close one.

The tournament will consist of basketball, shooting and bowling and will be conducted in the armory, which is in the best of condition. Last year the tournament was won by the members of Co. C, but this year the other teams are going to give them a great run for their money, as they term it. The first match will be between teams of Companies C and G.

The officers of the association who look after the arrangements of the tournament are as follows: Capt. Walter B. Joyce, Co. G, president; Lieut. J. P. Powers, Co. C, vice-president; Lieut. W. Doyle, Co. G, treasurer; Bat. Sergt. Major Crowell, secretary; Lieut. Melvin Master, Sergt. Mountain, Co. Quartermaster Sergt. Mountain, Co. C; Sergt. Arthur Kelley, Sergt. Charles Collins and Sergt. Joseph Conney, Co. M; Sergt. C. J. Barnes, Cook Frank St. Peter and Private Timothy Lynch, Co. G; Sergt. William Boyle and Corp. Turley, Co. C, directors.

A board of supervisors of athletics has been chosen and the following men elected to the governing board, Capt. James N. Greig of Co. K, bowling; Lieut. James Powers, of Co. C, basketball; and Lieut. Harry Sheldon and Color Sergeant Sanford P. Lang, shooting.

The following rules will prevail for this season's contests in the three events:

All contestants must be mustered into service at least 30 days and must be members of the Armory Athletic Association.

No man will be allowed to compete on more than one team of an evening. Basketball must compete in at least 15 per cent scheduled matches to be eligible for the individual prizes.

Basketball games will count as four points; bowling four, one point for each string and one for the total and shooting four.

All teams will consist of five members.

Bowling—Duck pins to be rolled. Shooting—10 shots for record.

Individual prizes: First and second for shooting and first and second for bowling.

The schedule for the season is as follows:

Nov. 3, G vs. C; Nov. 10, K vs. M; Nov. 17, G vs. K; Nov. 24, C vs. M; Dec. 1, G vs. M; Dec. 8, C vs. K; Dec. 15, C vs. G; Dec. 22, M vs. K; Dec. 29, K vs. G.

1914—Jan. 5, M vs. C; Jan. 12, M vs. G; Jan. 19, K vs. C; Jan. 26, G vs. C; Feb. 2, K vs. M; Feb. 9, C vs. K; Feb. 16, C vs. M; Feb. 23, G vs. M; March 2, C vs. K; March 9, C vs. G; March 16, M vs. K; March 23, G vs. K; March 30, G vs. C.

April 7, G vs. M; April 14, C vs. K. The schedule committee is composed of of the following: Sergt. Major Crowell, headquarters; Sergt. Boyle, C; Priv. T. H. Lynch, G.

GEO. ALGER INJURED

Cambridge Boxer Sprained His Ankle While Training—Kid McDonald Will Meet Fred Yelle

Geo. Alger, who was to meet Fred Yelle in the main bout at the Lowell A. C. tonight, met with an injury Wednesday and will be unable to appear, consequently the club was obliged to dig up a substitute. Kid McDonald of Roslindale has been secured and will go on with Yelle. McDonald appeared here a short time ago, boxing Bay Wood of Fall River. The bout went the distance, with Wood getting the decision. In the semi final Freddie Boyle of Lowell will meet Billy Edwards of Lawrence. This number is scheduled to go eight rounds and should be a lively one. Boyle has trained carefully, under the direction of his brother and he is in fine condition. In the preliminaries, Lully Brooks will meet Kid Silva and Nick Cristos will tackle Young Canole.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 o'clock Saturday evenings.

BALL PLAYERS

Demands to Owners of League Teams

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Statements were made here today that Major league baseball players who are members of the Players' Protective Fraternity have signed an agreement not to close contracts for the season of 1914 until after the annual meetings of the club owners at which certain reforms, drawn by the players, will be submitted.

What purports to be a list of 20 demands to be presented by the players to the American league owners in Chicago on November 6th and the National league club owners in New York in December was received in Chicago today.

The more important demands in the list are:

1. When a player receives ten days' notice of an unconditional release he shall be free to sign with any team immediately.

2. National Association players shall receive ten days' notice before they can be released unconditionally.

3. Players shall be subject to all the terms of their contracts.

4. If a regular contract is not tendered a probationary player before the expiration of the 45 day probationary period he shall be a free agent.

5. No player shall be discriminated against because of his connection with the fraternity.

6. Before a player shall be released outright or under an optional agreement to a team of lower classification, all players shall first be secured from all teams in his classification and the one to which he goes, according to their priority in need.

7. When a player signs a contract for a certain salary he shall receive that salary until the end of his contract, whether or not he be relegated to the minors.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 o'clock Saturday evenings.

CLEANER STAGE

Catholic Federation Secures Answers From Dramatists

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—"Rise up as one person and stay away from theatres that offer suggestive or immoral plays."

This is the method of securing a cleaner stage urged by Anthony Matre of St. Louis, national secretary of the Federation of Catholic Societies, in an address here last night.

"Our federation," said Mr. Matre, "has written to 29 leading dramatists asking them to refrain from writing such plays and to cooperate with us in checking their production. Nine of them have agreed to do this."

RIGHT OF MIDDLEMAN

TO TAKE STEPS TO PREVENT WHOLESALERS FROM SELLING TO CONSUMERS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The right of middlemen to take steps to prevent wholesalers from selling direct to consumers today came before the supreme court when the suit of the government for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law against the retail lumber dealers of the eastern states was up for argument. The retailers were enjoined in the New York federal court from circulating lists of wholesalers who sold direct to the consumers. Among the consumers to whom sales by wholesalers were deemed objectionable by the combined retailers, according to the government, were the Standard Oil Co., General Electric Hat Co., Baldwin Locomotive Works, Cramp Shipbuilding Co., Foran Foundry Co. and the United Lead Co.

GRANGERS BUSY

Numerous Events That Are to be Held in the Near Future

The busy season of the grangers is approaching and at the present time members of nearly every grange in the vicinity of Lowell are preparing to take degrees in the state or Pomona grange. The fall season in the various town granges has opened and meetings are now held regularly instead of monthly as during the summer months.

On next Tuesday night a special meeting of the Middlesex North Pomona grange will be held in Odd Fellows hall on Bridge street for the purpose of conferring the fifth degree. A large number has already signified their intention of taking this degree and it is expected that members from granges within a radius of 15 miles will be present.

A meeting of the state grange is to be held in Boston next Thursday and all members who so desire. Another day which the grangers are looking forward to is Thursday, Nov. 13, when "Massachusetts day" is to be observed at Manchester, N. H. The seventh degree will be taken by a number of Massachusetts grangers on that day and there will be many other amusements of interest to local grangers.

Grange to Lowell

At the present time Deputy Morris of Boston is attempting to form a grange in Lowell and already has secured several signatures. The grange, if formed, will consist of residents of this city and will be conducted the same as organizations in the surrounding towns. The members of Tewksbury, Dracut and Chelmsford granges are opposed to this new organization. It is said, and it is possible that enough signatures will not be secured to institute one in this city.

TOOK THE PIANO WALSH RALLIES VALUE OF THE X-RAY

Several Held Last Night - Mayor Fitzgerald Speaks for Candidate

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Herbert B. Budding, a local money lender, is being sued in the sixth session of the superior court by Mrs. Mary A. Sanders and her daughter, Marion. Mrs. Sanders claims that Budding took a piano from her home in Washington street, Brookline, and her daughter alleges that he assaulted her when he went to their home for the instrument. It appears that Mrs. Sanders borrowed the sum of $20 and gave a mortgage on her piano as security. She declared that she had believed she had paid him all that she owed him.

Budding claimed that she was still in his debt and when he learned that the piano had been moved from Lexington to Brookline he made a search for their new home and when he found it removed the piano. Ruth Sanders, the 16-year-old daughter, testified that on the day Mr. Budding appeared at their home, she and her sister Marion were dressing. It was about 7.30 o'clock in the morning.

She heard the knock, she said, and Mr. Budding was at the door. He informed them that he had come to take the piano away. She blocked the door, she said, as best she could and told him that, as her mother was away, she could do nothing about it. Budding then brushed by her and her sister Marion who was standing behind her, and went into the room where the piano was. She declared that to get past her he had to push one of her hands away from the door.

Her sister, who is suing, she stated, was made nervous and excitable by the appearance and conduct of the men, and shortly afterwards suffered nausea. Since this occurred she testified her sister had been nervous and excitable.

In Diagnoses and Treatment of Diseases—Especially Useful in Surgery Cases

From time to time, articles have appeared in the lay press that have given to the public exaggerated and erroneous ideas of the true value of this wonderful discovery of Roentgen. It is true that Roentgen gave to the world that which has proved to be a wonderful aid in diagnosis, and to a much greater degree, a useful therapeutic agent, but like everything else, it has its limitations, and this fact is appreciated by the medical profession and should be by the laity. It may be well to say a few words in regard to how the X-ray is produced. An electrical current of high voltage from 30,000 to 120,000 volts is used. The quantity of current used, however, is very small. A specially constructed glass bulb is used which is exhausted to a very high vacuum. When a current of high voltage is passed through such a tube the phenomenon known as the X-ray or Roentgen ray is produced.

The X-ray has the property of penetrating substances that are opaque to ordinary light. This fact is taken advantage of in making X-ray plates. Other names given to X-ray pictures are radiographs, roentgenographs, skiagraphs. The term X-ray will be used when speaking of such a record in this article. Roentgen made public his discovery in November, 1895.

It was but a short time—only a few months later—when hospitals and private laboratories were equipped with apparatus for taking X-ray pictures of fractures and locating foreign bodies, such as needles, pieces of steel and bullets. It is easy to see that it was but a short step to a much broader application, until today its field of usefulness has extended far beyond its original application. Great Advances Made. Great advances have been made also in the development of the apparatus and its accessories. In the early days it was necessary to expose the plates from two minutes to half an hour in order to get a record. Today the plates can be taken in from a fraction of a second up to possibly 10 seconds, and this fact has been taken advantage of in its broader application. The short exposure necessary to take plates today, of course, is a great advantage over the long exposure necessary in the old days.

The picture can be taken now while the patient is holding his breath. It is necessary, and in the case of children it can be done so rapidly that often times it is not even necessary to take it during suspended respiration. This short exposure is important from more than one point of view; better results are obtained, the patient is not kept in a strained or uncomfortable position and the whole procedure is as free from discomfort as if an ordinary photograph was being taken.

There is no sense of heat, pain or discomfort whatever accompanying this method of examination and absolutely no danger in any sense, either immediate or remote, in spite of the popular opinion to the contrary. There has been in the past just cause for this opinion, but today there is no risk whatever. The exposures are short and protective devices so perfect that even the expert working in this field all day sustaining no injuries. There is an absurd idea abroad that cancer may be caused as a result of an X-ray examination; this is ridiculous and untrue. It must be remembered that those who took up this work 15 to 17 years ago knew nothing of the effects and some of the earliest investigators did sustain more or less severe injuries, but what of the hundreds of thousands of patients who have been and are today being benefited by this method of examination? It can be stated honestly and emphatically that today there is no danger to the patient either immediate or remote.

Not a Photograph. It is necessary to appreciate the fact that the X-ray picture is in no sense a photograph. It is simply a projection picture, and as such, is subject to much distortion. If one should take a pencil or a piece of wood and project its shadow on the wall by means of a candle, it will be seen at a glance that the shadow can be enlarged and distorted as the candle is made to approach the pencil, or the pencil brought nearer to the candle. The pencil represents the bone or foreign body, and the candle the X-ray tube.

Now, as the X-ray picture is a projection picture, it is subject to just the same distortion. Consider for a moment the great importance of this fact. It will be seen that it is possible to get an X-ray picture of a fractured bone that will give the physician either a correct or an erroneous idea of the position of the fragments. For this reason great care has to be used to get the fractured member a definite distance from the tube and in a correct position. It is to be regretted that X-ray plates are admitted as evidence in court as to the amount of disability or disturbance or function that a patient may sustain from a fracture. It is a fact well known to the medical profession that only may have a fractured ankle, for instance, and when the bone is united experience no disability, and yet the X-ray plate may show considerable displacement. It is fair to admit the X-ray plate as evidence of a fracture, but in the vast majority of cases it conveys no evidence as to the amount of disability. The location of a foreign body is comparatively easy by this method, but its removal by the surgeon is sometimes exceedingly difficult, as it may be displaced when the patient is being prepared for its extraction. The use of the X-ray as an aid in the diagnosis of fractures and to determine the presence of a foreign body, being one of the common and earliest applications of the X-ray in surgery, the laity has become well informed on this branch of the X-ray work. From questions that are constantly being asked, however, it is fair to assume that such is not the case as regards its use in other branches of its medical and surgical application.

IT'S OFTEN AN EFFORT to have to make a lump outlay for your entire apparel outfitting. It's like climbing an upgrade or a rocky road. You seem to need more clothes all the time, and by the time you have the last item the first one don't look as fresh and neat as it did. You want to keep uniformly well dressed all the time. Why not then take the Easy Road of our $1.00 a Week Plan. Get all you want, when you want it, on small equal weekly payments. It means good appearance all the time, and no purse strain.

MEXICAN SITUATION GRAVER THAN EVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Developments of a few hours today in the relations between the United States and Mexico emphasized a gravity of affairs more ominous than at any time since President Wilson's administration began. Absolute silence was the order in official quarters.

The release of the Ward liner Morro Castle after peremptory demands by the United States terminated a delicate situation. Orders were in preparation to the commanders of the American warships lying off Vera Cruz to insist on her release.

A statement was in preparation today by Secretary Bryan and Counselor John Bassett Moore which Secretary Bryan brought to the White House for the president's approval. No intimation of its contents was revealed but it is believed that before many hours has passed a notice by the United States that it will not brook European interference in Mexico by the warships despatched to Mexican waters by the

LIQUIDATION NOT WANTED

By Local Stockholders of the New England Investment Co.—Man Mortgaged House to Buy Stock

A meeting of the Lowell stockholders of the New England Investment Co. was held in this city last night, the meeting having been called by Edmund Paradis of 22 Lee street for the purpose of getting together all the Lowell people who have shares in this company, which is about to liquidate. The meeting was held at the home of Mr. Paradis and was presided over by Maximo Lepine. There were over 100 stockholders present and the main topic of discussion was the liquidation of the company, in which about $50,000 of Lowell's money is invested. All those present expressed themselves as being opposed to the liquidation of the company, for it is believed the organization can be placed on a safe footing in a short time.

Inasmuch as the meeting represented only about half of the local stockholders, it was decided to hold another meeting Sunday evening in the rooms of the Citizens-Americans club in Dutton street, where all stockholders are expected to be present. The meeting will be called at 7:30 o'clock and the question of appointing two men to represent the Lowell stockholders at the meeting, which will be held in Providence, R. I., on Oct. 25, will be discussed. It is believed the Sunday night meeting will oppose the plan of Colonel Marston of Manchester, N. H., president of the company, whose intention is to liquidate and reorganize the company under the laws of New Hampshire, but instead vote for the continuance of operations. It is firmly believed that the company can be placed on a safe footing.

The stockholders of Lowell have nearly $50,000 invested in this company, the amounts invested varying from $10 to $2500. Among the largest stockholders are Mrs. Cordelia Brassard of French street, $2000; Joseph Deland, Ford street, $2000; Edmund Paradis, Lee street, $1500; A. J. Contu, Woburn street, $1250; Maximo Lepine, Box street, $800; Theophile Lamarre, Salem street, $600, and many others. It was stated this morning that one of the large stockholders, a few years ago, when the company was organized, mortgaged his property for $1200 in order to invest money in this company. It was told at the meeting last night that a lumber forest owned by the company in New Brunswick, which was valued at about $20,000, was recently sold for $12,000, this forest being 10 miles in length by one mile wide. The company a year after its inception, paid ten per cent. dividends on the money invested, the said money paid in dividends, it is claimed, was taken not from the profits of the company, but from money received for stock. This amount it is said was paid twice. The annual meeting of the corporation is scheduled to be held on Jan. 7, but the stockholders say the directors want the liquidation of the company before that time.

FOR MORE BATTLESHIPS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Rep. Dietrick, democrat, of Massachusetts, introduced today a resolution directing the naval committee to report a bill to appropriate for an immediate beginning of a "squadron of four additional battleships of mammoth design, one to be built in a government navy yard."

OUT OF JAIL TO TESTIFY

Dr. Brown Says That He Prescribed Arsenic for Admiral Eaton on the Officer's Request

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 24.—Further testimony from naval officers as to Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton's habits and conduct while in active service was looked for today in the trial of Jennie May Eaton, charged with poisoning her husband. The court room was crowded with spectators, who showed more than usual interest because of Attorney Geogan's statement that Mrs. Eaton would be called to the stand in her own defense. It could not be determined whether she would be reached on the list of witnesses today.

Peter S. McNally of Boston, a well known swimmer, testified to the habits and characteristics of Admiral Eaton while in command of the Massachusetts training ship. The then Capt. Eaton was intoxicated at times, apparently with liquor; at other times he was befuddled, laughed freely, talked incoherently, was unsteady on his feet, talked to himself and stared vacantly; yet there was no odor of liquor, testified Mr. McNally.

Mrs. Eaton's fondness for her husband was testified to by Judge George W. Kelley of Rockland, the family attorney.

Loved Her Husband

"Mrs. Eaton told me that she would not allow anyone to harm a hair of the admiral's head," Judge Kelley said. Mrs. Eaton had told him many times that she loved her husband, although she did not always speak of him in affectionate terms. The admiral once said to Judge Kelley: "I have a remarkable wife, who has been of great help to me, but she has one obsession, her daughter June."

According to Judge Kelley, Admiral Eaton's estate is about $700 in debt.

Acted As Mrs. Eaton's Friend

Judge Kelley on cross-examination said he acted as Mrs. Eaton's friend rather than counsel. More than two years ago he had attempted to have her examined as to her sanity.

The court had ruled as inadmissible

a portion of a document called a "declaration of trust," which Judge Kelley said was the result of his advice to Mrs. Eaton that "some paper" be drawn up. On March 10 Mrs. Eaton made an assignment to Judge Kelley for the benefit of her children.

Judge Kelley said that he had spent $1,652 out of the proceeds from the Naval Mutual Aid association for the expenses of the family since that time. On redirect examination the judge testified that Admiral Eaton had asked him to care for Mrs. Eaton after the admiral's death. He had no knowledge that the admiral used drugs.

Convict Testifies

Dr. Jacob Brown, formerly a Boston physician but now serving a jail sentence for illegal practices, testified that in 1910 he prescribed a preparation containing arsenic for Admiral Eaton on the officer's request for a medicine that would rectify a physical impairment. The prescription called for 1600 pills each containing 1-100 of a grain of arsenic.

Later the admiral brought some of the pills to Dr. Brown, saying that a child had died from eating one of them. Another time the admiral showed the witness some capsules which, he said, contained arsenic and which he used to kill dogs.

District Attorney Barker's cross examination of Dr. Brown was extended and was directed in part to showing that the witness could not give similar details regarding other patients. Dr. Brown complained that the prosecutor was using him unfairly and claimed that he was protecting other patients in refusing to go into details. He admitted he did not disclose his evidence until within a few weeks.

On redirect examination he said Admiral Eaton was often intoxicated when he called on him.

Dr. Benjamin S. Blanchard of Brookline told of attending the admiral in 1906, when he was suffering from nausea due to excessive drinking. On cross-examination the witness said that at the request of Mrs. Eaton he had prescribed medicine to be administered to her husband without his knowledge.

The defendant told him that the admiral dabbled in poisons and that she feared for her life.

When Dr. Blanchard had finished his testimony, Attorney William A. Morse, chief counsel for the defense, conferred for a few moments with his

FACTORY BUSINESS GOOD

In New Hampshire—Seven Concerns Seek Locations in Nashua—Big Shoe Building Proposed

There are 12 large manufacturing concerns hunting locations for their factories in New Hampshire, says the Nashua Telegraph, and at least seven of them and possibly the eighth have within two days shown preference for Nashua and made inquiry as to what the city can do for them by way of location for building sites, or for factory floor space.

In addition to the manufacturers, Col. E. G. Osgood received a letter yesterday from a man hunting a hotel location, in which it is set forth the hotel man is particularly desirous of a Nashua location, that he has 50 chances in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, but that he prefers the one chance in Nashua if he can find the desired location.

Within the past 10 days there have been 12 applications for factory floor space in Nashua at the board of trade, and most of them ask that immediate answer be given if there is a chance, that the writers may come to Nashua to inspect the grounds and prospective factory rooms for themselves with the eye to making arrangements for removal to this city.

Just what is calling the manufacturers toward New Hampshire in general and Nashua in particular has not yet been figured out by Nashua business men, but the impression is that New Hampshire labor laws have something to do with the situation, and once headed toward the Granite state, the natural manufacturing facilities offered by Nashua are doing the rest. One of the largest companies in New England manufacturing a high grade shoe for the shoe industry, a company with several factories scattered about New England, communicated yesterday with the board of trade and asked what Nashua could do toward furnishing a factory location with 10,000 to 20,000 feet of floor space and with side track accommodation close at hand.

The firm wrote that it was desirous of removing one of its branches and that Nashua appealed to the officials as being a good place to locate because of its shipping facilities. The letter said a representative of the firm will come to Nashua for an inspection in case the desired floor space can be offered.

Colonel Osgood writing for the board of trade, told of the projected industrial building and asked how long before the firm wished to make its removal. He expects an answer within a day or two setting forth the needs of the company and the length of time it can wait for the factory room in question.

BIDS FOR BAND STAND ON SOUTH COMMON

Opened Today, But Lowest Estimate Was Larger Than Amount Appropriated

Bids for the construction of the cement band stand and wading pool on the South common were opened this morning in the office of the commissioner of public buildings in the presence of Commissioner Henry F. Carr of the park board, but inasmuch as the lowest bid amounted to more than was appropriated for the job, the matter of awarding the contract was postponed to a later date.

This evening a special meeting of the members of the park board will be held at city hall for the purpose of selecting a spot on the common where the said band stand will be erected, and the possibility of transferring money from one fund to another in order to have the work done on the common will be discussed, but the municipal council will be called upon to make the necessary transfer. The sum of $2000 was appropriated for the construction of the said band stand, but the smallest bid this morning which was submitted by Zoel A. Houls was $2147, providing the stand is erected on wooden columns, and $1500 more if constructed on cement columns, and therefore Messrs. Cummings and Carr, who are in charge of awarding the contract, are $147 shy and that will occasion a delay. The

Mr. Morse said later that Mrs. Eaton would testify tomorrow and that the remaining witnesses for the defense would be heard Monday.

FAVORED AT TEXTILE WORKERS' CONVENTION—DELEGATE, WOULD NOT KEEP CHILDREN FROM MILLS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—"I am opposed to keeping children out of the mills and factories," said Arthur McDonald, a Philadelphia delegate at today's session of the Textile Workers of America's convention. "I am the father of 12 children and I would not keep them from work. Only bank presidents and society people want children kept out of mills."

Delegate McDonald's protest was voiced after a resolution had been introduced by Samuel Ross of New Bedford, Mass., advocating the passage of a national law prohibiting the employment of children under 16 years of age in mills or factories.

This resolution found a supporter in Miss Sarah Covey, an organizer for the Textile Workers' union. "No child can receive a sufficient education by leaving school at the age of 14," she declared. "I only wish God would give me 10 children and I would send them each and all to school as long as I could."

The convention also adopted a resolution favoring pensions for widows.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING SOCIETY

The Lowell high school debating society held its first meeting of the fiscal year this afternoon in one of the smaller rooms adjoining the large assembly hall in the upper corridor and a large number of the students, both boys and girls, attended the event.

The election of officers was scheduled for this afternoon but as the meeting was not called to order until after 8 o'clock and as quite a little business was to be transacted the election was not held until late.

Sneak Thieves Break Into Brookline Home and
Get Jewelry

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Sneak thieves and house breakers are still at work in Brookline despite the activities of the police. For the past month a large number of robberies have taken place and the thieves have secured a considerable amount of jewelry. Tuesday evening there were two more houses entered, but the police endeavored to keep the matter from the public, and not until yesterday was it given out.

The thieves entered the houses Tuesday evening by climbing trees where the branches stretched out near the windows of the second story. The first robbery occurred at the home of Leonard L. Elden, 66 Evans road, while the family was at dinner on the first floor. The loot secured was $127 in money, a diamond ring, three ladies' gold collar pins with three turquoise set in them, ladies' gold watch with "M. B. C." marked on the case, brooch and pin and a lady's solitaire diamond ring valued at several hundred dollars.

An attempt at robbery was made at the home of N. I. Amster of 6 Hawes street, in the Longwood section. A maid in the house heard footsteps on the upper floor and went to investigate. The burglars were frightened away.

KILLED BY CAR

Held by Police

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Louis Seastrand, the two and one-half-year-old daughter of Rev. August E. Seastrand, pastor of the East Boston Lutheran Trinity church, was killed by a big semi-converter car at noon yesterday in front of her home, 270 Lexington street, just where the car route ends.

Joseph Dulliver, the motorman, is held for manslaughter, and appeared this morning in court. The child's parents do not blame the man, and he declares he was not responsible.

This is the third of a series of street car accidents in the last two days.

The Seastrand child, who had been carefully confined to the yard, was engaged in evading her mother's eye, and anxious to see the children coming from school had opened the gate. She ran to meet her 4-year-old sister, Viola.

The semi-converter had just ended its trip and was preparing to return to the tunnel.

Viola called to her little sister to come upon the sidewalk, and she started to do so. Seeing the child making for the sidewalk Dulliver started the car on a signal from Fleming. Somehow or other the little girl turned about and crept under the forward truck, and being so tiny she was not seen.

The baby's cry caused the motorman to apply the brakes, but the child had been dragged fully 25 feet, according to neighbors. The baby's moans brought Mrs. Seastrand out of her home, and she and Conductor Fleming carried the body into the house. Her moans ceased as she was laid upon the bed and she died almost immediately after.

Mr. Seastrand was in town until evening and didn't learn of the death of his child until he returned to the house. The Seastrands have been popular in East Boston, where Mr. Seastrand has just been placed in charge of the new Lutheran church on Saratoga street.

QUICKSILVER MINING WORK OF
Over a million dollars' worth of quicksilver was produced in the United States for 1912 according to figures compiled by H. D. McCaskey, of the United States Geological Survey. On January 19 last Mr. McCaskey's preliminary figures, published by the Survey, gave a production of 25,147 flasks of 15 pounds each, valued at $1,037,150. The final figures are 25,664 flasks, valued at $1,121,741, showing an error in the early estimate of only 6.3 per cent. These figures indicate an increase over 1911 of 35 per cent in quantity and $115,521 in value. Of the 1912 output California produced 20,324 flasks, the remaining 5,340 flasks coming from Nevada and Texas.

The total value of the quicksilver production of California, in the period of 66 years from the earliest output to 1912 is stated at $3,225,625. The highest annual value of the production was $4,225,735 in 1875, when the output was 56,250 flasks of 15 pounds each. There were 11 producing quicksilver mines in California in 1912. The total quantity of ore mined was 123,195 short tons.

GUN FIGHT WITH POLICE

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Two bandits, each armed with a brace of revolvers, after breaking into the Bleachery railroad station in Waltham yesterday afternoon, engaged in a running gun fight with police of three towns until one fell riddled with revolver bullets and duck shot. The other escaped in Newton.

William Dubois, 17 years old, who lives in the Pleasant Valley section of Lawrence, is at the Newton hospital with 17 pieces of shot and bullets in his body. A police guard is watching him, and if he survives he will be charged with assault with attempt to kill. None of the shower of bullets which sped from his revolvers found a mark, although several policemen and boys had narrow escapes.

The raid of the two young bandits, their efforts at escape, the pitched battle in the underbrush beside the railroad tracks at Newton and the final capture of one, after a well known woman resident had passed a loaded shotgun to one of the pursuers in the face of a storm of bullets, formed the greatest sensation which the entire section through which they passed has ever experienced.

George Green, whom Dubois says was his companion, has escaped. All efforts of the police to locate him have proved unavailing.

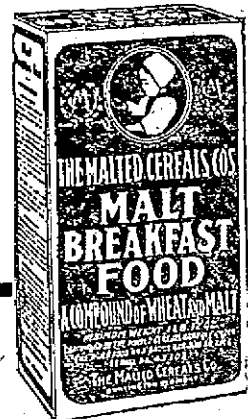

Point Guns at Officers

The two young men were sitting in the Bleachery station yesterday afternoon about 2:35, when Station Master J. F. Mason locked up his little office to go outside to look after some baggage. When he came back he saw the two young men rifling his office. They had broken in the door.

Mason grappled with them and was pushed aside while both ran away. He telephoned the Waltham police. Inspector McKenna followed after them in an automobile. He caught up with them and they covered him with their revolvers and went into the bushes near Benis. There the two separated and McKenna telephoned the police of surrounding towns and cities and hovered about their wake. Green went toward Waltham again, keeping away from the roads. Dubois found a boat on the bank of the Charles river near the Benis bridge, unhooked it and started down stream toward Watertown.

Young Bandit Sighted

In the Watertown police station Policeman John J. Clifford was at the station house, but not on duty, when the telephone call from McKenna reached there. He was assigned by the chief on duty to go to the river and capture Dubois. Clifford found the young bandit trying to pull the boat over the Watertown dam. Dubois had encountered a citizen at the bathhouse just before he got to the dam who had asked him in a general way where he was going. Dubois' answer was "Get out of here."

HEAD ITCHED AND BURNED

718 Dudley St., Dorchester, Mass.—"My trouble began with dandruff. It caused me much trouble and after a while my hair began falling out. The dandruff could be seen very plainly in my hair and also on my coat collar. It caused my head to get itchy. The itching and burning caused scratching and left sores on my head. I lost much sleep through the night. Every time I combed my hair lots of hair would fall out."

"I tried — and two other remedies without success. I suffered almost two years until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Then I got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I was relieved a little bit. Then I got a full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in four weeks I was all cured." (Signed) James Mahoney, May 1, 1913.

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub. Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on pimples and itching. At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 22-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Got Revolvers in Lawrence

Before he was sent to the hospital, Dubois told the police that he had secured the revolvers which he carried at Lawrence. From a description of the weapons, it is believed they were a part of a lot of goods stolen from a Lawrence hardware store on Sunday night.

In the boat which Dubois had occupied the police discovered a number of articles which they allege Dubois told them he and his companion had stolen. They also recovered some clothes which he said he had taken when he broke into the home of a family named Stanley at Lowell.

Dubois told Lieut. Millmore at Newton that he had thrown over from his boat several articles when he saw that he was hard pressed.

Throughout the run and fight of the police and Dubois great excitement was caused. The news of the shooting spread rapidly and while the people who lived in the vicinity where the various shootings occurred turned out at the unusual and ominous sounds, there was little widespread excitement until the fight was over so rapidly did the scenes shift in the drama as unfolded over miles and miles in its course.

The whole affair was over inside of three hours.

Green Still at Large

Police of Waltham, Watertown, Boston and Newton are making an effort to locate the man who was with Dubois, but no trace of him had been discovered.

The Bleachery station, where the attempt at robbery was made by the two bandits, is several miles from the point where Dubois was finally shot and captured. It is on the Watertown branch of the Boston & Maine railroad.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Centralville Rebekah lodge, 137, I. O. O. F. held last night in Odd Fellows hall was preceded by the anniversary supper. A large amount of business was transacted with Bessie L. Wenzel presiding. An entertainment followed under the direction of Miss Essie Abare. Miss Eva Henderson contributed several very enjoyable songs, accompanied by Miss Leona Small as pianist. A short sketch provided a great deal of fun. The following taking part: Essie Abare, Elizabeth Wells, Edward Perry, Charles Buchanan, Thomas Seaman, Charles Wells. Miss Lizzie Eastman was in general charge of the evening. Among those present was the district deputy, Mrs. Jennie Crompton and suite, of Lawrence.

Centralville Lodge, I. O. O. F.

David Moore, a charter member of the lodge and for many years a resident of Chelsea, was a visitor at the last meeting of the lodge. It was announced that the annual meeting of the Riverside building committee would be held Oct. 23 and as every member of Centralville lodge is interested in this building committee, it is expected a large number will be present. After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

BURNED AT SEA

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The loss on the steamer Templenore, burned at sea and towed into this harbor by the revenue cutter Androscoog, will not be so heavy as at first thought. Investigation today revealed more than $50,000 worth of copper which remains undamaged. Representatives of the Liverpool owners say that the engines could be put into good working order in a short time.

BOXING MATCH

Lenney and Shepherd
Gloucester

GLoucester, Oct. 24.—About 200 fans witnessed the opening of the boxing season at city hall last night, under the direction of the Lenox Athletic club. There were three 10-round bouts and all pleased the crowd. The first was between Eddie Martin of New York and Young Moreley of Roxbury, the decision going to Moreley.

Both started as if desirous to end the contest right on the reel and by the end of the third had fought themselves to a standstill. The seventh round was the New Yorker's, Moreley holding, but after that the Roxbury boy forced the fighting to the end, Martin tiring perceptibly.

The second bout witnessed the debut in this country of a Belgian, Eddie Brown, who faced Dave Powers of Malden. The Belgian for the first five rounds had a shade the better of it, displaying a fair share of ring craft. From the fifth to the ninth Powers forced the fighting and in the sixth the Belgian barely stayed off a knockout by clinching.

In the eighth Brown slipped and staid for the count of five, but came back with a hard left to the jaw. In the ninth the Belgian came on aggressively and Powers used his elbows, and delivered two patently low blows, which caused the crowd to register a decided protest. The advantage of the 10th was with the Belgian, who

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels. Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way, when the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested food, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

delivered several telling blows to the jaw. Referee Bill Pratt called it a draw.

The concluding session between Gus Lenney of South Boston and Charlie Shepherd of New York was also a draw and was one of the finest exhibitions of scientific boxing seen in this city for many a day. The New Yorker used his left to the jaw with effect. Lenney met him half way, however. In the 10th Shepherd tried hard for a knockout, but could not deliver, although Lenney was forced to hold on.

PROBLEMS IN PORTO RICO

Sugar and Tobacco Interests are Getting Great Wealth out of the

MOHONK LAKE, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The sugar and the tobacco interests are getting great wealth out of Porto Rico, but the island itself is not sharing these profits, says the Rt. Rev. James H. Van Buren, for ten years Protestant Episcopal bishop of Porto Rico. Bishop Van Buren left the island a year ago after ten years' service and is now rector of Christ church at Madison, Ind. "Problems in Porto Rico" was the subject of an address he delivered today before the Lake Mohonk conference of Friends of the Indians and other dependent peoples.

"The three principal industries of the island," he said, "are sugar, tobacco, and coffee production. The removal of a tariff between Porto Rico and the rest of the United States has so stimulated these industries, especially the first two, that it is evident to the most casual observer that there is in the island widespread and genuine commercial prosperity. More people are employed, more hours a day, more days in the week and with more money in the pockets of the people. There are thousands of acres under most perfect cultivation testify to the truth of a remark which was made to me not long before I came away, to this effect: 'The time is not far distant when everything in Porto Rico that is not owned or controlled by the tobacco trust, will be owned or controlled by sugar.'"

"The development of these two industries during the past 15 years has been no less than marvelous. Everywhere the old-fashioned sugar mill has given place to the most modern control and we have made five or six, at least, to grind where only one ground before. Miles upon miles of tobacco fields covered with these crops, and some huge avalanches in that land where snow and ice are unknown. Millions upon millions of dollars have been invested there.

"But why do I speak of this among the problems? Because all this prosperity is due to the trusts, and as yet the trust is itself, a problem. The profits arising from these great industries are not returned to the island, they are emptied into the coffers of syndicates in New York and Madrid."

Bishop Van Buren spoke of the great task of amalgamating the two streams of civilization—Spanish and American—which now flow in Porto Rico side by side. The problem, he said, was to preserve the best of the old Spanish customs. Loyalty to the American flag could best be taught, he thought, first by never emphasizing nor accentuating racial differences; secondly, by instilling patriotism in the public schools. At least six times as many

Porto Rican children attend school now as when the Stars and Stripes were first raised on the heights of Guanica 15 years ago.

The Porto Ricans, he asserted, ardently desire citizenship and he believed they should have it. He considered it most unfortunate that the problems which the island presents have to be dealt with at long range, that the island must be governed from Washington and the church administered from New York.

THE U. S. BUNTING CLUB

Tonight is the night of the annual meeting of the United States Bunting Club, one of the prominent organizations of this city, and the event will take place in Elks hall in Middle street. The principal business is the election of officers, and of four new members to the board of directors, the others still having another year to serve as the term calls for two years.

Philip McCarty is a candidate for re-election to the presidency and has, it is said, no opposition. This is a tribute to his faithful and competent execution of the duties of that office for some time past. Another unopposed candidate is Mr. Fred Humphries, who has been induced to run for the office of treasurer, which he held formerly. Mr. Humphries is also a big favorite with the members of the club. John Crawford is a candidate for the vice-presidency and like the two above mentioned, has no one running against him for that office.

The secretarieship and the board of directors are the objects of two interesting contests. On the latter body, there are four new members to be elected, for a term of two years, and for these four chairs, there are about ten or a dozen candidates, each conducting a vigorous campaign among the members. It is expected that the voting will be close in this contest. Another interesting contest is that between Albert Hanson and George Enslley for the office of financial secretary and both of these men have many supporters in the organization. The members are watching these contests with interest and enthusiasm.

Many other matters of importance, regarding the plans for the activities of the coming year, etc., are to be discussed and acted upon during the session. A large attendance is expected this evening.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 to 9 o'clock Saturday evenings.

THE SMALLER THE INCOME, THE GREATER THE PERCENTAGE SPENT FOR FOOD AND RENT

In connection with a consideration of the opportunities, or lack of opportunity, for adequate nutrition which prevail among the poorer classes in large cities, it became apparent that there are in such communities not a few families which actually suffer from a lack of sufficient food. The main items of expenditure among the laboring classes are for food and rent. These are, of course, absolutely essential. It is interesting to note, therefore, from the statistics that have lately become available, how the percentage of income expended on rent and food increases as the income decreases. These stubborn facts enable us to realize the keenness of the struggle to make ends meet in poorer homes, even with a regular income when it is very small. When over 50 per cent of the income earned is thus disbursed, the opportunity to obtain other necessities—not to mention non-essentials—is so limited that frequently recourse is had to a reduction in the food bill, which is already as low as is consistent with the maintenance of health. Here is a condition which perhaps permits the spread of disease among the poor cities as readily as other unhygienic living conditions, particularly those pertaining to housing and environment. When there is even a moderate expenditure for alcohol the situation is even worse. The Journal of the American Medical Association thinks poor sociologists have not sufficiently appreciated in the past that the occurrence of conditions in which the support of the family and the provision of even the bare necessities prevent the attainment of any variety and interest in life and almost enforce a monotonous existence reacts in a variety of ways on the health and efficiency of the community through the diet factors referred to. The attempts at amelioration and reform must accordingly take into account possible changes in the mode of feeding which might set free a greater proportion of the income for other things than food. Dietary habits need to be dealt with in this field quite as much as ignorance and the "equity" influence of the surroundings.

LEADER CHAS. F. MURPHY IS ENGAGED IN THE HARDEST BATTLE OF HIS LONG CAREER

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—There is no doubt that nation wide attention has been drawn to the political war now waged in this city against Tammany Hall, the controlling democratic organization, and its leader, Charles F. Murphy. Aiding the fusionist combine against the alleged Murphy candidates is Ex-Governor William Sulzer, recently impeached, and a number of millionaires, including Vincent Astor, Andrew Carnegie and Jacob H. Schiff. Those politically wise agree that if Commissioner Edward E. McCall, the regular democratic candidate for mayor, is defeated Murphy will be compelled to resign. The Tammany tiger is fighting the hardest battle of its career.

BIG U. S. BANK

Vanderlip Wants $100,000,000 Institution to Control Currency

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—A government-controlled and operated central bank to dominate the financial system of the country entered the legislative arena yesterday as a rival of the administration regional reserve currency plan. Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank of New York, presented the new plan to the senate banking and currency committee. He had evolved the scheme as the result of conferences with members of the committee who, he said, had expressed approval of such a plan.

Under his proposal the government, through a board of seven members, appointed for terms of 14 years and receiving salaries of $15,000 or $17,500 a year, would establish a huge bank with $100,000,000 capital, which would control financial conditions by powers conferred on it to issue money to discount commercial paper for banks and to concentrate the reserve gold of this country.

Mr. Vanderlip suggested that it possible the stock of this institution should be held by the public as an investment security. The stock would have no vote or vote in the control of the bank which would under all circumstances, rest entirely with the government. Mr. Vanderlip pointed out that his bill differed from the administration plan in that it absolutely eliminated the bans from participation in the administration of the system which would control the issue of currency.

Senator Brewster, during the examination of Mr. Vanderlip, said he favored such a plan because he believed it would operate to prevent a concentration of credit and money. Mr. Vanderlip said he had talked over his plan with a few bankers and that they favored it.

"Do you think that bankers generally would accept it, or would we have another Boston convention if we adopted it?" asked Senator Reed.

"I think bankers generally would be somewhat shocked at first by the idea of absolute government control," answered Mr. Vanderlip, "but I think that when they understand the safeguards thrown about the appointment of the controlling board, and the quality of men who would be named, they would accept it with great favor. It eliminates the provision of the administration bill which would force banks to supply a part of their funds to the national system, eliminates the objectionable principle that would compel mutual red-counting among federal reserve banks and provides for the issue of true bank notes instead of government fiat money."

TWO DAYS LONGER

For Free Pants

The demand for an extra pair of Pants with Suit or Overcoat order made to measure for $12.50, advertised by me last Friday, was so brisk that I have decided to continue the same offer for two more days, Friday and Saturday.

My regular patrons as well as the new customers are entitled to take advantage of this unusual offer, therefore the time has been extended. Don't wait for another chance, order at once.

I opened my 18th store two weeks ago. From the amount of cloth cut up each week I have a number of ends left, in most cases enough for a pair of Pants; at this writing I have 42 of these ends, and Mr. Reader, you can have your pick. Made any way you want. They are worth $5.00 a pair. With Suit or Overcoat order I WILL GIVE YOU A PAIR FREE.

This enables me to keep my stock clean and everything turned over irrespective of the prices at which they were sold.

LADIES

In the near future I intend making Mannish Coats for the women of Lowell. I am negotiating at present with one of the leading pattern cutters in New England, to take charge of this branch. I have made garments for your fathers, brothers, and your sons. I want the wives, daughters and sisters of these men; my customers. I have been asked hundreds of times if I made ladies' garments and I had to answer no, but in the near future my answer will be yes. The goods I will use in these coats are the same as I use in the men's, mostly plaid back, polo cloth. Colorings in brown, gray, blues and fancies. I can assure the ladies of Lowell the newest Raglan shoulder, split sleeve shoulder, and the latest Balmacean effects in Coats, made with patch pockets or plain, collar made plain, military or combination. I will make these to your measure. Mannish styles for a price. Overcoat to order $15.00. Look for my announcement later. In the meantime, come in and get samples for comparison. Now don't misunderstand me, I am not going in the ladies' tailoring business. I am going to make ladies' mannish coats only, which this season are roomy and manly. The goods I show in my windows are the same for men and women.

MEMORIAL TO MAJ. BUTT

FOUNTAIN SOUTH OF THE WHITE HOUSE TO BE DEDICATED IN HONOR OF TITANIC VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Plans will be completed in the near future for the dedication of a fountain south of the White House, in honor of the memorials of Major Archibald W. Butt, former White House military attaché, and Francis D. Millet, painter and author, who lost their lives in the Titanic disaster early in 1912. Announcement of the completion of the fountain was made yesterday. Former President Taft is chairman of the committee which raised the fund for the erection.

The fountain includes a large bowl of Tennessee marble, from the center of which rises a shaft to the height of 12 feet. The water is thrown aloft from four globes brimming over the sides of the bowl as a cascade. Two allegorical figures, symbolizing civility and art, are a part of the general scheme. Around the edge of the bowl is the following inscription: "In memory of Francis Davis Millet, 1846-1912, and Archibald W. Butt, 1865-1912, this monument has been erected by their friends, with the sanction of congress."

Both the sculptor and the architect of the memorial donated their services to the memorial committee.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 23 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 Saturday evenings.

Hundreds of Exact Elevations Determined by United States Geological Survey Topographers

Engineers and surveyors who need to have accurately determined points from which to start surveys of any kind find the spirit-leveling bulletins published by the United States Geological Survey of considerable value. These bulletins contain the results of the leveling in all parts of the country and give the exact elevations or altitudes of a great number of points. From 1826 to 1910, inclusive, the geological survey established more than 1500 datum points in the state of Texas, the work being done under the direction of R. B. Marshall, chief geographer, in co-operation with the state during 1902, 1903, 1909 and 1910. Bulletin 46—"Results of Spirit Leveling in Texas"—gives a list of the exact elevations above mean sea level of these points determined in connection with the topographic mapping of the survey. While the survey's published maps show the elevations of points within the area indicated, these elevations are merely approximate, whereas the elevations listed in the bulletin are given to the thousandth of a foot. Engineers and others who have occasion to use the bench-mark elevations should have a copy of the spirit-leveling bulletin for reference. It is available for free distribution and may be had on application to the director of the geological survey at Washington, D. C.

FISH AND GAME CLUB

Mr. W. S. Holt Gets Encouraging Letters From High Officials of the State Association

Mr. Willis S. Holt, one of the directors of the local fish and game club is in receipt of a communication from John B. Burnham, president of the Anna Game Protective and Propagation Ass'n. of New York, congratulating the local club on its work for the protection of game and the stocking of the various localities in this vicinity. Mr. Burnham stated that in another year, his association may be able to supply the local organization with breeding stock, especially ducks, for stocking purposes. He also expressed himself as willing to come to this city at some future date and deliver an illustrated lecture.

Mr. John B. Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Massachusetts Fish and Game League, has also written to Mr. Holt in regard to the work of the club, enclosing news of the league and congratulating the local club for the good results of its earnest efforts.

Mr. Smith urges the local members to all in a membership campaign and this plan will doubtless be carried out, as it is of importance to sportsmen to get as many as possible interested in the work. Mr. Holt has been particularly prominent in this field, having been a prime mover in the forming of the local club.

The Massachusetts Fish and Game League proposes to introduce a combination fisherman-hunter license bill at the coming session of the legislature in January. A tentative draft of the bill has been prepared, largely through the courtesy of Sen. Gordon W. Gordon, which provides that the residents of the state, other than aliens, desiring to fish or hunt, shall pay or contribute to the treasury of the state, through any town or city clerk, the sum of $1.25.

The bill further provides that town and city clerks shall receive a fee of 25c for each license issued, and that the balance ($1.00) shall be used by our fish and game commissioners for constructing fish hatcheries, game farms, etc., for propagating, distributing and protecting inland fish and game. The bill exempts boys under the age of seventeen and also allows land owners to hunt or fish on land owned or leased by them without obtaining a license, when such land is used exclusively for agricultural or summer home purposes and not for open club fishing or shooting privileges.

owned or leased by them without obtaining a license, when such land is used exclusively for agricultural or summer home purposes and not for open club fishing or shooting privileges.

This bill when enacted will provide the commissioners with a minimum fund of $200,000, and should result in the rapid construction of fish hatcheries and game farms and the buying or leasing of preserves throughout the state sufficient to propagate fish and game enough to adequately restock and to keep stocked sadly depleted inland waters and covers, and to make fishing and hunting in Massachusetts once more a real joy and pleasure; affording at the same time a bountiful supply of food fish to many thousands of poor people in the interior of the state, and furnishing additional incentive to go afield with rod and gun to those who believe in the conservation of life to be obtained through the enjoyment of the rarest of God-given recreative exercises known to man.

Mr. Smith, in his letter, urges all to take an active interest in this matter and give it publicity, in order that the legislation may be carried out successfully. It is desirable, he said that the league should obtain a sizeable membership before the convening of the legislature. Mr. Holt will take the matter up, and with his usual enterprise and earnestness do what he can for the betterment of conditions.

these letters. Other documents testify that the Greeks occasionally made use of the forbidden dum-dum bullet and show also the misdeeds of Bulgarians and other belligerents. The inquiry did not extend to the Roumanians.

The commission went to the scenes of alleged atrocities and interrogated at length every class of witness, from soldiers who took part in the battles to women and children who were spectators and victims of the horrors. Some of the most important evidence taken by the commissioners is said to have been from children.

While it was found that the Bulgarians had committed the greatest faults, the soldiers of other nations taking part in the war also were guilty of many hideous acts. The members of the commission were Baron d'Estournelles de Constant and Justin Godard, a member of the chamber of deputies, for France; Professor Wilhelm Faszlowski of the University of Berlin, for Germany; Professor Samuel Train Dutton of Columbia University, for America; H. N. Brailsford, for Great Britain; Herr Friedrich Imperial, for Austria; and Mr. Mikulovich, the liberal leader in the Duma, for Russia.

WIRELESS HAS 3000 MILE RADIUS

The Darien wireless station, which is being built at Cairnito, Panama, will have a sending and receiving radius of 3,000 miles and will be able to talk to San Francisco or the Arlington station, near Washington. When it is finished, government messages from Washington will be sent to the Canal Zone direct, without the present relay at Key West. It is being built exclusively for government business, principally as a relay station for communication with ships of the navy in southern waters. It will be able to talk to Valdivia, 421 miles south of Valparaiso, and with Buenos Aires. It could reach a vessel anywhere along the eastern coast of the United States, halfway to Gibraltar, or near the Island of St. Vincent, 500 miles west of Africa. Its antennae will be supported by three 500-ft. towers standing on bases 150 feet above sea level, and will span an arm of Gatun Lake which will form good electrical grounding. The Poulsen wireless apparatus, using sustained oscillations, is to be installed, making it a 100-kilowatt plant.

PASSES SEA LAW

Senate Adopts "Seaman's Service" Bill, With La Follette's Amendment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The La Follette substitute for the "Seaman's Service" bill amended so that it will not affect the treaty relations of the United States until the president has been given an opportunity to readjust them, passed the senate yesterday at the end of a debate that was characterized by unusual proceedings.

In the end the debate became an eulogy of Andrew Furuseth, president of the seamen's union, who was lauded as the man chiefly responsible for the passage of the bill. Mr. Furuseth, who had sat in the senate gallery throughout the debate, was declared by Senator La Follette (republican), and Senator Williams (democrat) to have worked in Washington for many years "at a seaman's pay" to get legislation through congress improving the working conditions of his fellow sailors.

Senator Fletcher, chairman of the sub-committee that had charge of the preparation of the seaman's bill, declared the measure as passed by the senate yesterday would accomplish three important shipping reforms:

The giving of greater freedom to safety at sea for passengers and crews and the equalizing of the wage costs in operating vessels in foreign and domestic trade.

The La Follette substitute differed in many respects from the original bill which passed both houses of congress last winter, but which did not meet with the approval of President Taft. Its chief provisions would require improved working quarters and working conditions on ships; increase the requirements for safety appliances and efficiency of sailors; release sailors from some of the present stringent regulations that compel them to remain with ships when in foreign ports; and would direct the abrogation of any treaties that prohibit the enforcement of the provisions against foreign ships coming to American ports. Efforts by Senator Burton and Senator Bacon to amend the bill failed yesterday.

Senator La Follette closed the debate on the measure with an attack on E. T. Chamberlain, United States commissioner of navigation, who, he said, ought to be removed. He declared Mr. Chamberlain had held office since President Cleveland's administration, by "trimming and turning and twisting," but that all of his reports showed that his recommendations "fit into the interests of the ship owners."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE LEAGUE

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS WILL CLOSE UP SHOP IF OPPONENTS SHOW THAT MAJORITY WANT SUFFRAGE

The anti suffrage league sends out the following:

If the "suffragists" can submit to congress December figures showing that a majority of the women of the United States want the franchise, the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage will withdraw its opposition, since, obviously,

The National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, realizing that the appearance of suffragists and anti-suffragists before congress next winter for and against woman suffrage will be one of the most important engagements in the battle between the opposing forces, issued through its Washington headquarters a statement containing this announcement.

This organization, the statement continues, wages its campaign against the franchise because it knows that the vast majority of women do not want suffrage. If the average woman attends to her own business and discharges the duties of a competent wife and mother, she has so many burdens resting upon her that she cannot successfully assume any more. The average woman realizes this, and, because of this realization, she is opposed to woman suffrage.

There are in this country 24,553,754 women twenty-one years of age and over. If the suffragists can show that a majority of them want the suffrage, they are willing to undertake the additional duties that go with the suffrage—then the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage will close its doors, since the principles and constitution of this government compel compliance with such a demand.

Even the claim that there are 3,000,000 women already voting in the United States is not proof of suffrage and franchise. For while there are 50,000,000 women of voting age in the suffrage states, less than 25 per cent. of them register and vote. Therefore, the suffragists who have advertised the fact that they intend to drive congress to enact suffrage legislation for the remaining states are asking that a large majority of women be compelled to undertake a work which is repugnant to them—a work which would seriously interfere with the better and higher duties that they have to perform for the state.

POTASH INVESTIGATIONS

"Potash in Western Saline Deposits" is the title of a report by James H. Hance of the United States geological survey, just issued. The examinations of the various saline lakes, marshes, flats, and wells described in the report were made in connection with the broad line of search which the geological survey is making throughout the west in quest of commercial potash deposits. While none of the localities in question are shown to be promising as possessing potash in sufficient quantities to warrant development, the descriptions and analyses are published by the survey as a contribution to the general subject. A copy of the report (Bulletin 310-P) may be obtained on application to the director of the geological survey, Washington, D. C.

DIAZ STILL AT VERA CRUZ

Doubt as to Whether He Will Attempt to Reach Mexico City—Requena Makes Statement

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—Whether Gen. Felix Diaz will come at once to the federal capital or remain in Vera Cruz until after the presidential election appeared to be a matter of doubt in the minds of his most prominent adherents here today. Gorgo Lucas Requena, candidate for the vice presidency on the Diaz ticket, expressed the belief that his leader was likely to come here today or tomorrow. Senor Requena admitted the Direct at Vera Cruz of a number of Diaz followers on charges which he regarded as inventions and he declared that the action of the authorities there had been taken for the purpose of intimidating voters. He asserted that he had proof that the word had gone forth to voters to cast their ballots for Victoriano Huerta and Gen. Blauquet and he appeared to fear that this might have the effect of defeating his ticket. On being asked whether he feared that Gen. Diaz would be arrested or prevented from leaving Vera Cruz, Senor Requena said that such a thing was possible.

Notwithstanding the declaration made by Provisional President Huerta yesterday in the presence of the diplomatic corps that he would not accept the election as president, should the ballot show him to have a majority, the impression is general among the public that the elections on Sunday will fail to show any other candidate with sufficient votes to win.

Senor Requena today declared his campaign had cost over $250,000.

It has been the greatest campaign ever fought by a single individual in Mexico, he said. Over 4000 clubs were organized throughout the republic and they were sure of carrying five states, while in 10 others they looked for big majorities.

DETAINED AT VERA CRUZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Officers of the Ward line said today that they had received from Capt. Huff of the steamship Morro Castle a cablegram telling of the detention of his vessel at Vera Cruz.

The Morro Castle, with Mrs. John Lind, wife of President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico, on board, was to have left Vera Cruz when a court order was issued calling for the testimony of Capt. Huff in connection with the flight from Mexico some months ago of Dr. Francisco Vasquez court order was issued calling for Gomez aboard the Morro Castle.

LONDON VIEWS SITUATION

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Rather divergent views on the Mexican situation were expressed in the editorial and news columns of the London newspapers today. While the news, consisting entirely of despatches from Washington and New York, described affairs as serious, the editorial articles based on a statement published in the Times—the first authorized version of British policy given out to an English newspaper and which coincided with that published in despatches to the Associated Press and can be summed up as

MUST PAY DUTY

Treasury Dept. Holds That Mrs. Thompson is Resident of U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Boston custom house was ordered today to assess full duty on all foreign jewelry, lace and other goods brought in by Mrs. May Van Allen Thompson, wife of a New York and Philadelphia banker. The treasury department holds that Mrs. Thompson is a resident of the United States.

VALUABLE NECKLACE

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The merchandise which Mrs. Griswold Thompson, formerly Miss May Van Allen of Newport, attempted to bring into the United States through a claim of being a non-resident and upon which the custom authorities at Washington ruled today that full duties must be assessed, was landed here on Oct. 16. The customs officials claim that they found a valuable pearl necklace concealed in the clothing of Mrs. Thompson's maid.

The luggage consisted of 26 trunks filled with jewelry and wearing apparel. Mrs. Thompson was permitted to take a few articles of clothing and the trunks were sealed and sent to New York in bond.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty marriage took place at the parochial residence of St. Michael's church, when Thomas H. Riley, a popular employee of the city department, was united in wedlock to Miss Katherine C. Crowe. The best man was John J. Riley, a brother of the bridegroom, while the bride was Miss Mary T. Gallagher. The bride was charmingly dressed in white silk with overalls, trimmings, white picture hat, and carried white chrysanthemums. The bride and groom were dressed in pale blue crepe de chine with shadow lace trimmings and hat to match. She carried yellow chrysanthemums. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Shaw. The party returned to the home of the bride's mother, 43 Exeter street, where a wedding dinner was served. An orchestra furnished music for the occasion. The happy couple will spend their honeymoon in New York and after Nov. 1 will be at home at 43 Exeter street.

We Have Opened Our Workshop

$$$$$ FOR THE MEN OF LOWELL

On Friday last we opened our own workshop, right here in this good old city of Lowell. It is not situated on some side street, but directly above the store, where you can come in at any time and see your garment in the course of construction. Come in and ask to be shown just how our clothing is made; don't put up with this slop work you have been getting. Don't take the chance of having your clothing made in the sweat shops of Boston or New York, where they are liable to become saturated with disease.

We are writing this story for our mutual benefit.

Seeing is Believing

Come in, you folks from Missouri and let us show you that Brooks Bros. are not dead ones, but real live wires, who are working for the best interests of the people who can make or break us.

Come in and examine our goods! If you do, you will see the finest line of woollens ever brought through the doors of any tailoring concern in this city.

Entertained Members of Dorchester Council
Last Night

Highland council, Royal Arcanum, royally entertained about 20 members of the Warren council of Dorchester at their regular business meeting held in Highland hall last night. The visitors were met at the Boston & Maine depot by a delegation from Highland council and all marched to the hall, headed by red lights and torches. The evening's program was one of special interest and the men returned to the Hub with a high conception of the hospitality of the local men.

At 7:30 o'clock the regular business meeting of the council was called to order by Regent Carey who welcomed the members of the Warren and local councils, who were present as visitors. During the evening 16 applications for membership were read. The Highland council is anticipating a big class initiation next month and two teams, composed of members are competing to see which will bring in the greater number of new men.

After the meeting the party, 25 in number, marched to the banquet hall, where a supper was served by the D. L. Page company. The order then passed the chairs and some interesting addresses were given by officers of the grand lodge.

Supervising Deputy Grand Regent J. C. Moore was the first introduced and after thanking the members for the fine treatment that he had received from them he spoke of the good work that the Royal Arcanum is doing throughout the country. During the course of his talk he congratulated Highland lodge for having as earnest a worker as Brother Jones among its members and also mentioned the good condition of the council. Among the other speakers were Grand Secretary William L. Kent, Past Regent George W. Taylor and Irvin H. White of Warren council and Vice Regent William J. McArthur of the same council. All spoke on the progress of the Arcanum and thanked the members for the splendid reception given them on this and previous visits to Lowell. Brother Jones of Highland lodge spoke briefly and informed the visitors that they would be welcome at all times.

Accompanied by a number of local men the Dorchester men returned to

White Woman and Her
Baby and 7 Negroes
Perished

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 24.—A white woman and her baby and seven negroes lost their lives and 23 persons were slightly injured in a tornado which swept over southern Louisiana at dawn yesterday. Cane crops were razed, dwellings and fences demolished and other damage done on plantations southwest of this city.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 Saturday evenings.

CONGRATULATE MISS WILSON
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson, future White House belle, returned to the national capital yesterday. When the Wilson family left Corinth, N. H., recently, she accompanied them only part of the journey, stopping off to visit friends during the past ten days. As Miss Wilson's engagement to Francis B. Sayre was announced during her absence at the summer capital, her friends here had their first opportunity yesterday to extend their personal congratulations.

OLD FOLKS FIND CROXONE RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Few Doses Relieve Backache and Bladder Disorders

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

Croxone relieves all such disorders because it reaches the very cause of the trouble. It seeks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings, cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys a new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and spit out the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not how old you are or how long you have suffered. Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. There is nothing else like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate case.

An original package costs but a trifle and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

CINDER IN THE EYE

POSSIBLY INJURING THE SIGHT

"I've got a cinder in my eye!" How frequently we hear this expression in the street, especially when the air is filled with dust and smoke, or anywhere beneath the network of elevated tracks. While this may seem a trivial mishap, and often is if the foreign substance is immediately removed from the eye, yet it is often a most serious thing, and the public at large little realize that a seemingly unimportant accident of this sort may result in serious and permanent impairment of vision. The membrane covering the eyeball is a very delicate structure, and when even a tiny speck of any foreign matter lodges on it it quickly becomes imbedded. The irritation thus set up causes the person to wink the eye frequently, and each time the lid closes, rubbing against the particle, it tends to imbed it still farther into the membrane. The efforts of sympathizing friends to remove the offending speck with a handkerchief or a wooden toothpick, instead of helping the situation, usually results in making a bad matter worse, from the damage thus done to the tissue. Infection is then easily carried deeper into the tissue, and an ulcer results. If the process reaches this stage, even if the cause should be completely removed, it would perhaps be too late to prevent a scar after the ulcer heals. It might be so faint as to be hardly distinguishable, yet if it is situated just in front of the pupil, as very frequently happens, the vision of that eye would be seriously and perhaps permanently impaired.

The public should understand the seriousness of such occurrences, and public spirit should be aroused to the point of insisting on municipal regulation, eliminating smoke and dust as far as possible from city streets. Having the streets washed every night, as is done in many of the European cities, instead of having them swept during the day, and prohibiting the burning of soft coal within the city limits, would go a long way toward remedying this evil.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 Saturday evenings.

Will Have Aviation Service in Connection With Signal Corps—Special Inducements Offered to Officers

If plans now being perfected are carried out, the army of the United States will be provided with an aviation service comparable with that of the other great powers. These plans provide, among other things, for 30 extra officers for aviation duty, and it is recognized that if officers are to be detailed to the signal corps, additional vacancies in the line should be created. The limited experience of the war department in aviation demonstrates that considerable difficulty will be experienced in securing military aviators and that special inducements must be offered to secure eligible officers for aviation duty, and it is a recognized fact that aviators without some knowledge of military tactics would be practically useless in war. In view of these facts it is urged that officers on aviation duty should be given additional rank as well as increased pay, and that they should be promoted again, after they have secured a military aviator's license, at the end of five years. The plans provide not only for an adequate aviation personnel but also for a sufficient number of aeroplanes and modern dirigible balloons.

134 LOST IN VOLTURNO TRAGEDY

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The total death toll in the Voltorno disaster was fixed last night by the Uranium Steamship company at 134. Of these 102 were passengers.

Captain Griffiths of the steamship Star of Ireland, which arrived today from Cardiff, reported to the Uranium company that he had passed the Voltorno last Thursday still burning, about 120 miles west-southwest of the place where she was abandoned.

POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The National Association of Third and Fourth Class Postmasters, in annual session here yesterday, elected officers and adopted resolutions recommending removal of the limit on postal savings deposits, charges in the parcel post regulations and various steps to increase efficiency in the postal service. E. E. Porcup of Rockhill, N. C., was elected president; A. H. Fritz of Quarryville, Pa., vice-president, and Hannibal A. Hopkins of St. Clair, Mich., secretary-treasurer.

POLICE COURT SESSION DISCUSS NEGRO QUESTION LOOT OF $15,000

Two Boys Arraigned for Breaking Into Store—A Lively Rumpus at the Boott Mills

Albert Gossin and Peter Duchaine, the two boys who were arrested yesterday for breaking into the place of Jacques Bosvert and Joseph Pigeon, were arraigned in police court this morning before Judge Enright charged with breaking and entering and larceny. The court held both defendants over for the grand jury as the alleged break occurred at night. Their bail was fixed at $500 each.

Additional details of the exploits of the two boy burglars were forthcoming this morning. It seems that the break at Pigeon's place of business was a matter of spite.

About three months ago the pair got a little boisterous in the pool room operated by Pigeon at the corner of Enright and West Sixth streets and the proprietor had them both put off the premises. Duchaine and Gossin, in a fit of revenge, broke into the store that night and stole all that was in the cash drawer, $2.50.

Grown bold by what they considered to be a success the two next essayed to break into Bosvert's tobacco store and steal away with a quantity of cigars and cigars. They were promptly arrested, however, and both complaints brought against them. It is expected that they will plead guilty to the charges preferred by the police when their case comes up for trial in the superior court.

Worms Sap Children's Health

Mothers often wonder why their children are not rugged and hardy. In a vast number of cases the trouble is—Worms.

Signs of worms are: Indigestion, variable appetite, craving for sweets, nausea, vomiting, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly, eyes heavy and full, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on tongue, starting, during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. True's Elixir, the 60 years time-tried Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, will expel the worms and restore the vim and vigor to your child. Good for adults also. Discovered by my father over 60 years ago. 35c, 50c and $1.00 at all dealers. Advice free. Special treatment for tapeworms. Send for book.

Auburn, Maine. Dr. True

The Boott mills yesterday was straightened out in police court this morning. Major Noyes, the corporation detective, appeared as prosecuting officer in the case of Charles Geanapoulos, who was charged with assault and battery upon Sophie Sereva.

Several witnesses testified, through an interpreter, that the defendant struck the woman and he persisted in keeping up his pugilistic efforts after the others present tried to interfere. The defendant asserted stoutly that the woman accused him of being a criminal in the old country and that he had only defended his honor. He was released upon the payment of $12.

Alleged Embezzlement
Harry D. Shattuck, who keeps an installment store on Middlesex street, had one of his collectors, Ferdinand Francure, arrested for embezzling $2.50. The case was tried in court today.

Shattuck testified that the defendant held out the money when he was supposed to turn it in to him at the end of the week. The cards showed where and when the defendant had collected all the money which he has received since taking employment from the installment house.

The defendant admitted that he took the money but testified that he mislaid the $2 in an upper pocket of his vest. His attorney, Mr. Murphy, showed several recommendations to the court on the character of the defendant, one of which was from the mayor of Manchester, N. H. This, however, did not save his case for he was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $10. He appealed and Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the prosecution.

Cornelius Sullivan and Wilfred Beaudou were both sent to jail for a month for excessive tipping of their elbows. Edmund J. Vaso was ordered committed to the same institution for ten days. Annie Mullen, who is on parole, went to the state farm.

H. P. Douglas Says That Church Should Extend Hand of Brotherhood to Negro and Aid Him

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 24.—From a tumultuous night session, the National Council of Congregational Churches today plunged into a further debate when it took up the report of the committee on temperance, which recommended that the church takes its place in the fore in a fight for an amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the United States.

As soon as the report was brought in from the business committee, to which it had been referred, Gov. Simon Baldwin of Connecticut arose to his feet opposing it. The governor said that such an amendment was in violation of the spirit of the constitution and could not be enforced. Such an amendment is up to the states and not to the federal government, declared the governor.

Separate from the national council, the 6th annual meeting of the American Missionary association convened today.

H. P. Douglas of New York city spoke of prejudice as relating to the negro question. The trend of his address was that while the church should in every way extend the hand of brotherhood to the negro and aid him in every way the time had not come for the church even to consider intermarriage of negroes and whites.

"Why does a certain type of man keep saying 'nigger, nigger'?" said he, "simply because if he did not say 'nigger, nigger' he would be forced to say 'brother, brother.' The function of the epithet is to make men worse than they are."

Speculating on the ideas of the Almighty in the creation of men, Mr. Douglas said:

"God made the world. Has not evolution condemned the races to perpetual inequality? Didn't God intend, then, and are we not to accept the visible symbols of color and speech as the natural marks of superiority and inferiority? This is to base caste and color upon the Divine will. It makes human barriers inevitable and eternal."

BANDIT RAN AMUCK IN DENVER, KILLING ONE MAN AND SERIOUSLY INJURING OTHERS

DENVER, Oct. 24.—A bandit running amuck near the heart of the city early today held up five pedestrians within a few blocks and shot and killed T. J. Chase of Palmer Lake, Colo., and mortally wounded E. A. Clark of this city. An auto filled with police tracked the bandit from the scene of one holdup to another, only to arrive too late.

The shooting began when the bandit held up Antonio Fugaris, a street sweeper, sending a bullet through his hand.

A few minutes later E. A. Clark staggered into a drug store with a bullet through his right lung. Four blocks away Chase met his death. Without a word the bandit shot him through the heart. He held up and robbed two others without shooting them.

FROM DE CLAMECY WHO POSED AS JUDGE WITH BOSTON OFFICIALS IN THAT CITY

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—When a mere slip of a girl with dark, wavy hair and sparkling brown eyes, asked Judge Jenney in the divorce session of superior court yesterday afternoon to sever the ties that bound her to Philip DeClamecy, few in the court room realized that the man she sought to divorce had gained some credence on his claim of being Duke de Nevers, and is now serving a sentence of six to 10 years in state prison for defrauding the Hotel Touraine.

The young woman also asked the court for the custody of her child, Charles Paul de Clamecy, and for alimony to provide for the boy.

Judge Jenney granted her a decree nisi, after speaking of a letter that DeClamecy had written to him from state prison. De Clamecy wrote affectionately of his child, admitted his misdeeds and declared that he would be a better man when he saw the light of freedom again, and would contribute to the support of his son.

The letter did not interest the young wife. She left the court house to go to Neponset where she is living with her son, whom she supports by working as a stenographer.

De Clamecy is 53 years old and she is 24. They were married in New York city on June 14, 1909. She was Anna Birenbach before her marriage and was born in Austria.

Arthur Train, who was an assistant district attorney in New York under William Travers Jerome, gave considerable space, in a book he wrote on crime, to "Duke de Nevers," and seemed to consider the man really a French nobleman, an outcast from his family.

In June, 1911, the man introduced himself to Edwin McGrady, a deputy probation officer, as "Duke de Nevers," and was the guest of Judge Burke at a session of the municipal court, and was received by Mayor Fitzgerald and entertained by Commissioner Gore at Deer Island.

When he attended a dinner aboard a French warship then in the harbor the discovery was made that he was not all that he pretended to be. "The Duke" then deposited a check for $100 at a trust company and drew checks for various amounts. The check he deposited was spurious. He swindled the hotel and several business houses.

Then he went to Providence, where Gov. Pothier and others entertained him. In October of the same year he was arrested in New York city.

REPAINTING ST. PETER'S CHURCH

The work of repainting the woodwork in the front of St. Peter's church, which has been going on under the personal supervision of the pastor, Rev. Dr. D. J. Keicher, has been completed, and now the magnificent church is even more beautiful than ever.

The three great doors of the church which constitute the main entrances from Gorham street, have been finished in bronze with an effect that is remarkably attractive. No little care was taken in this delicate piece of workmanship.

The panels over the door, formerly of wood, are now of glass, and all of the woodwork over the entrances has been painted. Much has been added to the outward appearance of the great edifice, by the work.

JOLLY BIRTHDAY PARTY

At the Home of Miss Mildred Hanneau, on Lexington Avenue—Her 12th Anniversary

In honor of the 12th birthday anniversary of Miss Mildred Hanneau, a pleasant party was held at her home on Lexington Avenue. There were a great many of her young friends present. Refreshments were served, games played and the evening generally enjoyed. There was a varied musical program of merit, including vocal solos by Mrs. F. L. Roberts and Miss Gertrude Johnson, and piano solos by Miss Inez Beals, Master Paul Gallagher and numerous recitation entitled "Johnny's History Lesson." The young hostess received a variety of presents, indicating the esteem of her many friends.

Robbers Blew Open Safe in Attica, O. Postoffice and Escaped

The explosion of the safe, which rocked the town and awakened the entire population, demolished the two story building which sheltered the post office.

The sum the robbers obtained represents not only the money and stamps of the office but large sums of money belonging to the Seneca County Fair association and other organizations of which Postmaster W. F. Uhle was secretary. Uhle was only recently appointed postmaster. There was no trace of the robbers when the town awoke.

SALARY IS ONLY $35,000

PRES. McDONALD, HEAD OF B. & M., GETS THAT AMOUNT—ALSO $15,000 FROM MAINE CENTRAL

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—The salary of Morris McDonald as president of the Boston & Maine railroad, is $35,000, according to a statement made at the road's offices here today. He also receives $15,000 as president of the Maine Central road.

At yesterday's hearing on the proposed rate increase before the interstate commerce commission, Mr. McDonald was erroneously reported as testifying that his salary from the Boston & Maine was $35,000.

AT PORTO RICO

Two Remedies for Conditions Suggested at Lake Mohonk Session

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Two remedies for conditions in Porto Rico were suggested today at the Lake Mohonk conference of Friends of the Indians and Other Dependent Peoples. The speakers agreed that the present situation was untenable, but while some of them thought the island should be admitted to statehood others believed the solution of the problem lay in giving the Porto Ricans independence under the protectorate of the United States.

The most urgent advocate of independence was Jose De Diego, speaker of the Porto Rico house of delegates. He was unable to attend the conference, but his address, read by Major I. L. Hunt, assistant chief of the bureau of insular affairs, outlined in detail a scheme for independence. Porto Rican statehood, he said, was impracticable. In fact, he asserted, the republic of Porto Rico already had been founded by the acts of congress after the close of the Spanish war.

The Rt. Rev. James H. Van Buren, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Porto Rico from 1902 to 1909, declared that the islanders desired citizenship and deserved it. He advocated curbing the sugar and tobacco interests, which, he said, were emptying the wealth of Porto Rico into the coffers of syndicates in New York and Madrid without benefiting the natives.

Part of today's session was devoted to hearing speakers on the Indians and Filipinos, who had not arrived in time to present their views on Wednesday and Thursday when those peoples were under discussion.

The conference will adopt its annual platform at the closing session tonight.

Major Hunt's address will be found in another column.

A GENERAL MORTGAGE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—In answer to inquiries by stockholders, President Rex of the Pennsylvania road today confirmed the report that the company is considering the creation of a general mortgage as a basis for the company's financing for many years to come.

In a statement, Mr. Rex said: "Under this mortgage it is contemplated to issue bonds in such amounts from time to time as may be required to provide necessary additions, betterments and improvements to its railroads, equipment, property and facilities; the funds that may be necessary to meet maturing obligations and for such other corporate purposes as may now or hereafter be duly authorized by law. The aggregate amount of bonds that may be issued shall not at any time exceed the outstanding capital stock."

PRES. WILSON OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Wilson is uncompromisingly opposed to the currency bill submitted by Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank of New York, as a substitute for the administration plan. The president let it be known that he was qualifiedly in favor of the main features of the administration bill.

The Vanderlip plan, which contemplates a central bank under government control, was reported today to have the endorsement of three democratic senators and five republicans, a majority of the senate committee.

The president's position is that the Vanderlip plan is a radical departure from the regional reserve system of banks proposed in the house bill and he expressed his intention to vigorously oppose any such measure.

MILL MAN WAS BURIED

The funeral of the late Thomas Kelley, superintendent of the velvet department of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co., who died suddenly last Tuesday, took place this morning at 9 o'clock from his home, 1141 Bridge street and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, including the following delegation from the local Aerie of Eagles: Thomas F. Garrity, Martin E. Duffy, George W. P. Carey and Thomas Lahti. In accordance with the precepts of the Eagles, relative to their deceased members, services were held at the home of the deceased last night by Worthing President Edward F. Flanagan, assisted by the officers of the ritual of the order being followed, Brother James E. Donnelly, soloist. A mass of requiem was sung at 9 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. John J. Shaw. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Thomas P. Boulker rendered the Gregorian mass, the solos being sustained by Miss Griffin and Mr. Boulker. There were many beautiful floral tributes trailing to the high esteem in which deceased was held and expressing the profound sorrow of his sudden death, among them were: Pillow inscribed "Father," from the family; spray, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wadleigh; combination cross, anchor and heart, emblematic of Faith, Hope and Charity, from the overseers of the velvet and corduroy department, Merrimack Manufacturing Co.; mammoth gates ajar inscribed "Asleep," the Velvet cutters; cross on base, the toolers, fixers and cloth men of the velvet cutting department, Merrimack Mfg. Co.; cross, crown and anchor on base, boys of the velvet finishing department; the cross on base inscribed "At Rest," the ending and packing room; pillow inscribed "Dover Aerie," F. O. E. No. 1554; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lin-burg; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. C. Comerford; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. George Flint, undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons. Friends of Thomas Kelley were especially shocked when they learned of his death Tuesday night. Although Mr. Kelley had been ill for several weeks, he had made no reference to his condition, and the fact that he remained at his work in the Merrimack mills contributed to the impression that he was in the enjoyment of his usual health. Tuesday afternoon he suffered considerable pain while in the performance of his duties as superintendent of the plush department of the Merrimack Manufacturing Co., and he left the mill to seek relief, but death came before medical aid was possible. Mr. Kelley was one of the "old school" mill men. Born in England, he entered the mill when a boy, and the measure of success which later came to him was the product of close and intelligent application. "From one position to another he was promoted, and eventually, he came to America to take charge of the plush manufacturing in a Dover, N. H., mill. From Dover he came to Lowell, and his success in the Merrimack mills of this city is recognized throughout the plush trade. Mr. Kelley was an earnest worker, a considerate employer, and socially, he was of the temperament which wins friends and keeps them. Devoted to his family, and keenly interested in his city's welfare, he was an ideal citizen. His death is indeed a loss to the city.

THE CENTENNIAL WHICH LEFT JAPAN FOR PRISCO REPORTED FAST IN ICE

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 24.—The steamer Centennial, which left Muroran, Japan, six years ago for San Francisco with a cargo of sulphur and was never heard from, is reported fast in the ice off Saghalin island, Okhotsk sea, near Siberia. A Russian expedition, bound through Okhotsk sea, discovered the missing vessel with lifeboats gone, the name partly obliterated and her iron work corroded. There was no sign of a human being on the ship.

The Centennial was first named the Delta, then the Takasaga Maru. Under her last title, the Centennial, she became an Alaskan gold ship, afterward a government transport and at last passed into the hands of Charles Nelson company of San Francisco, her owners at the time she disappeared.

240 ENTOMBED PATROLMAN "BIG JACK" SULLIVAN

Rescuers Take Out 23 Alive—38 Dead Have Been Recovered

DAWSON, N. M., Oct. 24.—Two hundred and twenty men still were entombed today in Stag Canyon mine No. 2 where an explosion occurred on Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-three miners have been taken out of the mine alive and 38 dead have been recovered.

None of the rescued can throw light on the cause of the explosion or the location of the miners yet entombed. With the exception of Jose Fernandez, the miner taken out alive last night from the sixth chamber east, none of the rescued men were working near the section of the mine where the explosion occurred. Fernandez has not recovered sufficiently to talk of the disturbance.

An Expert and Interpreter in the Silent Language

Has Umpired Ball Games and Directed Dances of Deaf Mute

his hands? Yes, Jack Sullivan. Oh, sure, you must know him; everybody of any account 'round this burg knows "Handsome Jack". What? Well that's him.

What do I mean, he can talk with his hands? Just what I say, or perhaps I should have said with his hand, for he employs only one in ordinary conversation. You know Jack has a wonderfully engaging way, a whole lot of information that he enjoys imparting, and that you enjoy listening to. He kissed the Blarney stone a long time ago and at the same time we guess he must have handed that same talk-inspiring pabble a wallop with his big fist. Anyway, he can give you the blarney with that right mitt of his just as well as he can with his voice. You've heard Jack talk, but have you ever seen him talk?

'Course, you understand, you are not to infer that his hand is used merely in sweeping gestures, like the fellows that can't talk if you tie their hands. No, sir! He holds up that big right lunch hook, wiggles his fingers a couple of times, sweeps his fat by your nose, and he has said, "this is a fine evening," or "You know, when I used to pitch for the etc., etc." this latter usually until the fingers get cramped. But you don't know it unless you understand the language of the deaf mutes, or the "dummy talk," as it is more familiarly designated.

Quite a trick to talk one hand, what? Well, Jack went to the West in school at Richmond, Ky., and that is where he learned the silent language, for they teach it there in addition to the regular studies. And the big officer has made good use of the knowledge ever since. In the police court, he is frequently called upon to act as interpreter when there is a deaf and dumb witness in a trial.

Here is how we first got wise to Jack's accomplishment, though of course all the regular fellows know about it long ago. The Sun man was standing in the Square one evening when a man approached and stood unsteadily for a minute looking around. Big Jack spotted him and walked over to him. He held up his right hand, put his fingers through a few movements, and the fellow bowed his head and started to walk as briskly as his condition would allow, in the direction of Centralville.

"For the love of Mike, Jack, what did you do to that fellow?" inquired the newspaperman.

"I told him he had been drinking and had better go home."

"What do you mean, you told him to go home. I didn't hear you speak to him. I thought you were giving him some freak lodge sign."

"No, he is a 'dummy,' so I told him in his own language."

"Do you mean to say you understand that stuff?"

"Sure, I do." And then the great big guardian of the public safety and the humble scribe engaged in conversation, but not like a couple of battlers using "wigwag" signals. Jack found himself being put through a cross examination, a novelty for him, but was evidently not wise to the fact that all he said was going to be used against him like this. After Jack went to ring up a box the reporter hiked around the corner, pulled out his notebook, and scribbled what he had gleaned from the conversation, to later unload it upon the all-enduring readers. You are getting the whole thing right here.

Jack knows every deaf mute in the town and a good many outside. Indeed he is credited with having cured hundred voters in his political career. When in trouble, in need of information, they all flock to Jack and he is always ready to help them.

Honest, he can talk their language even faster and better than they can themselves, so when it comes to an argument, the cop is generally on top, for he gets all his things said before the other fellow. It is a case of speech, not conviction.

One of his many duties has been to act as umpire in their ball games. Here he shines. One time, however, when the game was a pretty hot one, he wiggled the wrong finger in giving a decision, and in about four ticks of his watch, he was in the middle of a crowd of wrathful players and fans, all with their hands held as closely as possible under his nose, putting their fingers through a course of physical culture. Jack had to call both hands in to play to "stay up," and if it had been a case of lung power, you would have heard that dispute a couple of miles. Jack, however, with his usual characteristic smoothness and diplomacy, got over the difficulty and the game went on. During the remaining innings, however, he centered a whole lot of attention on that right paw.

Jack is an announcer at all of the dances of the deaf and dumb people. He says that in spite of the fact that the music is lost upon them as far as hearing is concerned, nevertheless, they can feel the rhythm, and they dance quite well. Once in a while a couple get out of step and generally disarrange the entire floor. But these incidents are either not common or not noticed. He goes to all their parties, addresses their meetings, and is generally regarded by them as their leader and adviser.

Officer Sullivan is real modest about his accomplishment. If he could consent, however, that he enjoys it to the fullest extent, perhaps because it enables him to converse with more people than if he could talk only with his vocal organs. If he would but join the ranks of those who are candidates for mayor, he would have a decided advantage over his opponents and this new kind of oratory would be much preferred to what is heard from the soap box spellbinder.

There you are, now you have the whole story. Next time you see Jack in the Square go up and give him the high sign, if you know anything about the silent language.

DRINK TO KING GEORGE

Lord Bransford of Cambridge, England, Gave Sparkling Talk on Fine Roads and Automobiles

Drinking a toast to King George of England in honor of their distinguished guest from across the water, the Dallas Automobile club of Texas, was surprised and delighted when Lord Charles Albert Bransford of Cambridge, Eng., responded in behalf of royalty with a sparkling talk on automobiles and automobile problems in England at a recent banquet held at the Adolphus hotel, Dallas, at which W. O. L. Weetgard of the American Automobile association was the guest of honor.

Lord Bransford is traveling across the continent with Mr. Westgard in the same old Pathfinder "40" touring car that has already been four times from coast to coast in the service of the A. A. A. He is a barrister and civil engineer and is in America to make a study of automobile roads. He was also a member of the party of the Dallas Automobile club that blazed the trail for the proposed Lincoln highway from the Indiana capital to the coast.

Just as the last course of the Dallas Automobile club dinner was being served, the orchestra began to play "God Save the King." Lord Bransford, at once arose at his place at the table as is the custom of his countrymen and the other members of the party followed his example. President Keene proposed a toast to the king as a compliment to the visitor.

The Englishman, in his response, said that automobile road progress in the older country had been slower than over here because of an act of parliament which regulated travel by mechanical equipment to three and one-half miles an hour. This law remained in effect until 1905.

Coal tar is used extensively to cover the highways in England as it makes them waterproof as well, he said. The speaker referred to the good mountain roads which the federal government of Switzerland had constructed. He advocated the necessity of roads being made as straight as possible. Up until 1904, he said, motorists were considered a nuisance on the highways of his mother country and were always blamed for accident to occur.

Lord Bransford wound up his talk by proposing a toast to the president of the United States, a proposal which was met with characteristic southern enthusiasm.

The Englishman will continue to New York with the Pathfinder "40" of the A. A. A. which will then have completed its fifth transcontinental trip, and after a conference with the good roads department of the A. A. A. will return to his home in England.

He has many times expressed his amazement at the enduring qualities of American built automobiles as shown by his trip across the great American continent in the Pathfinder. He says that in spite of its previous cross-country trips, the old car mastered the road difficulties of the southwest like a true "Pathfinder," carrying its ton of baggage and moving picture equipment with ease.

The veteran car will again be a feature of the New York, Chicago and other automobile shows this winter. It is surprising that to date no enterprising press agent for an equally enterprising automobile concern has not claimed the "glory" of whirling Harry K. Thaw away from Matinean asylum, New York, on his mad dash for freedom to the Canadian side of the border.

Apparently far-sighted sales managers do not care to run the risk of creating popular prejudice against their product among those who persistently believe in the insanity of the escaped millionaire murderer.

Consternation reigned, therefore, in the factory offices of the Pathfinder company at Indianapolis when a letter was received from an enthusiastic Pathfinder owner in the east who had been following carefully the details of the Thaw case and the subsequent attempts of Thaw to obtain his liberty through the courts. It read:

"Maybe you folks at Indianapolis do not know that it was a Pathfinder car that Harry Thaw used to make good his escape from Matinean. He jumped into a big six-cylinder touring car, said to be a Packard, stationed at the gate of the asylum and instructed the driver of one of your Pathfinder Cruisers to follow closely behind so that in case anything happened to the big Six he would be able to transfer to the Pathfinder and get away in safety.

"As you know, the runaways were pursued closely when news of the hold escape became known, but the carefully laid plans of the Thaw party were carried out without a hitch.

"The two cars were said by the newspapers to have attained a speed of from 60 to 70 miles an hour, but apparently the little Pathfinder Cruiser was equal to the task, for it eluded the exhaust of its leader. Neither of them was found afterwards, and as none of the Pathfinder cars in New York was reported missing the ownership of the Thaw car is still a mystery.

"These facts were given to me by a New Yorker who had first hand knowledge of the affair, having been right on the spot when the hold dash for liberty was made by Thaw."

44 PERSONS DROWNED

SWEDISH STEAMER SUNK ON REEF IN GALE—A SINGLE SURVIVOR WAS PICKED UP

HERNOSAND, Sweden, Oct. 24.—The steamer Westkusten, which left Vasa, in the Gulf of Bothnia, Wednesday afternoon in a gale, ran on a reef a few hours later and 44 persons were drowned. A single survivor was picked up by the steamer Carl von Linné and landed here last night.

The crew succeeded in launching a boat, but the steamer sank in a few minutes. The boat was swamped. Several of the crew clung to the rigging, but with one exception all succumbed to the cold and exposure during the night.

CLEANSSES YOUR HAIR MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL

It Becomes Thick, Wavy, Lustrous and All Dandruff Disappears

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanser" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

SHERIFF IS SUED

District Attorney Holds

Fairbairn for $35,151 Clerk's Shortage

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—District Attorney John J. Higgins has brought suit against Sheriff John H. Fairbairn on behalf of Middlesex county for $50,000 as the result of shortages in the accounts of the East Cambridge house of correction, discovered earlier in the year and shortly after the death of a bookkeeper, who had them in his charge.

The defalcation amounts, according to the report of the American Audit company, which made a report early in September, to $35,151.

The writ was served on Sheriff Fairbairn on Sept. 8, and is returnable the first Monday in November. The suit is based on an action of contract or tort, and is merely a formality on the part of the county and the district attorney, if a decision is given adversely to the sheriff, it is probable that another will be brought against his bondsmen.

Mr. Higgins said yesterday that he was led to make his action public because he has recently been charged by the progressive candidate for district attorney with neglecting to take action in the case through allegiance to the Middlesex county ring.

RURAL WATER SUPPLY

MANY DISEASES ARE DUE TO THE CONTAMINATION OF WELLS AND STREAMS

The responsibility for diseases due to polluted water is so often put on the water supplies of our large cities that the conditions in American rural districts are usually thought of, if not actually pictured in the public mind, as almost ideal. Naturally enough, farms which are remote from areas of congested population seem to be ideally situated for obtaining wholesome water. In reality, however, deplorably unsanitary conditions as regards the farm water supplies prevail widely, if we may believe state and national government reports.

A large proportion of farm water supply in the less hilly portions of the country where springs are not abundant comes from shallow wells, which are particularly subject to contamination. Deep wells are safer, but are not entirely free from danger of pollution. The chemist of the Canada experimental farms, Dr. Frank T. Shutt, concludes from an examination of several thousand samples of water used on farmsteads in Canada that "probably not more than one-third of them are pure and wholesome." Investigations made by the bureau of plant industry, in cooperation with the Minnesota state board of health, showed that of 79 carefully selected and typical farm water samples in Minnesota, mainly well waters, 20 were good and 59 were polluted, usually because of careless or ignorant management, and generally as a result of poor location or lack of protection against surface wash or infiltration. The rivers, surface reservoirs and cisterns investigated were found to be polluted to such an extent that it is doubtful whether satisfactory supplies could be secured for household use from such sources. In an examination of the rural water supplies in Indiana it has been found that of the private rural water supplies examined, 177 were deep wells, 411 shallow wells, five ponds, 40 springs and 27 cisterns. One hundred and sixteen of the deep well waters were of a good quality, 45 were bad and 15 doubtful. But 150 of the 411 shallow well waters could be used, 269 were unequivocally bad, and 43 were of doubtful quality. A large percentage of the waters used by the families in which typhoid fever had occurred was unequivocally bad.

With the development of the country, the growth of the population and the greater concentration in living centers, the danger of pollution of natural water supplies is vastly increased. Even wells can be improved and rendered less subject to pollution if proper methods of driving them deeper are employed. The best safeguard, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association, is the education of the public to the underlying facts of contamination so that by the application of common sense the sources of danger can be avoided by property holders and others.

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Joseph J. Ettor, the I. W. W. organizer, who was one of the leaders of the Lawrence strike, was in Boston yesterday and stated that he is here for the purpose of "visiting various locals of the I. W. W. and giving them the real facts of the Lawrence fund." He says he believes the money was all properly spent.

Ettor went into the early history of the fund and stated that something like $72,000 was raised and that the committee had sent acknowledgments for the whole amount. He said that when it is considered that this big sum of money was raised by men who probably had not distributed more than $10 at any one time, before, he thinks it was handled remarkably well. Ettor said that either receipts or checks will account for all other accounts of the fund. He stated that only $50 was spent for the printing of the Lawrence fund, and that the balance of $71,500 was in the hands of the Lawrence fund.

"When the strike committee removed the balance of $71,500 from the banks there was a balance of only 40 cents left," said Ettor. "The court appointed auditors and the first set of books were gotten hold of by them, but another set of books was started immediately, and the courts did not get hold of these books, which might account for the fact that the master could only find $62,000 accounted for. But the receipts sent to the contributors show the actual amount received, and at the final balancing of books it was found that $2000 more had been spent than was taken in, which had to be made good by the organization, after the strike. There were no outstanding bills.

"The court found that various sums amounting to $500 had been sent for other purposes than the strike. The contention was made that all money collected was for food, and that any money spent for rent of halls, circulars, sending children away and bringing them back, food for prisoners in jail awaiting trial, and the like, were the lawyers' fees was spent illegally. The court claims that those people contributing money intended that it should be used only to buy bread for the strikers.

"I would like to know how the auditor, the master in chancery, and the supreme court have been able to find the money of the donors of the fund were. It is a problem to the I. W. W.

"The court holds that the fees paid to lawyers were misappropriated on the grounds that donations for the I. W. W. were intended for food only. This, I believe, is a most preposterous contention, for in future strikes it may be used against all labor organizations and will virtually give the employers the rights, through the courts, to dictate to the strikers how money shall be spent by strikers.

"The proceedings for an accounting of the strike fund were brought in the last 10 days of the strike by a Boston minister, the Rev. Herbert Johnson and Pendergast and Woods, two men who are stockholders in the Pacific Mills in Lawrence. I believe that they want to keep their own game. The money was all properly spent. I believe. We are not frauds and we cannot be convicted as such without due process of law."

"The New England Civic Federation, in its latest bulletin discusses the matter of the Lawrence strike fund at length and quotes from the testimony in court on the case. The deposition of William E. Trautman, filed in the courts in June last, is given in part. Trautman declared that regard for his good name prompted him to make his statement. He asserts, among other things, that from March 24 to May 3, 1912, during his absence from Lawrence, not less than $3000 and not more than $3500 of the funds contributed for strike relief was misused in the payment of salaries and high expenses to persons, 'scavenger organiza-

ers" of the I. W. W., ordered from the far west to Massachusetts by Vincent St. John after the strike was ended. Trautman avers that during his absence Edward Keetgen of Paterson, N. J., a member of the general executive committee of the I. W. W., was ordered to transfer items and funds, and endeavor to cover up the misuse of these thousands of dollars. He declares that figures on vouchers and in books were tampered with, erased, and changed; items for these illegitimate expenses were transferred to another book, and a general juggling with the funds started.

FOOD FOR CHILDREN

Interesting Experiment Showed That Their Health and Studies Improved With More Nourishing Food

At the congress on school hygiene, held in Buffalo in August, Dr. Walter M. Roach, district supervisor of school medical inspectors in Philadelphia, reported the results obtained among schoolchildren of ages from 6 to 14 years after the establishment of a food clinic in certain schools in his district. Many of the children were found to be coming to school with insufficient or no breakfasts. The children were fed for a period of four weeks in the spring of 1913 at the morning recess period with some form of cereal and milk, the form of cereal being changed daily. In all, 113 children were fed in this manner. In a group of fifty, who were carefully weighed, measured and physically examined before the beginning of the feeding and afterward, it was found that there was an aggregate gain of over 350 pounds. But the increase in weight from a given amount of food in the time mentioned was not the chief advantage gained. Some of the children gained little or nothing in weight, but it was found that they all improved in color, increased in hemoglobin percentage, gained in spirits and activity, and were less nervous and irritable. They were able to study better and their work progressively increased in effectiveness, which was demonstrated by their grades. The average grades for the whole school, 350 pupils, including the 113 who were given the feedings, increased in spelling from 76.4 to 82.3, and in arithmetic from 85 to 92. For the same period the averages of the pupils of the second grade attending the clinics increased from 71 to 87 in spelling, and from 85.6 to 91.3 in arithmetic. In the third and fourth grades, as also in the special classes for retarded pupils, the improvements were equally notable. Aside from the demonstration in figures of the effect of adequate nourishment on the work of the pupils, another interesting deduction is made in the report. The per capita cost of education in the public schools in Philadelphia excluding of payment improvements is $39.59 per child per year. If the child fails to make its grades, it is a fair deduction that the $39.59 has been an economic loss, and whatever may be thought of the proposition of the school authorities going into the business of feeding the children in the schools, the author of the report feels, says The Journal of the American Medical Association, that if an expenditure for food of $10 per pupil for two hundred school-days would make the $39.59 productive, it could be considered as an economic gain; the outcome, he feels, "removes the problem from the sphere of paternalism."

THE WEATHER FORECASTS

May Be Made Six Months in Advance by Study of the Sun, Says Professor Frost

That it will soon be possible to determine general weather conditions six months or longer in advance by careful observation of solar conditions is the belief expressed by Professor Frost, of the Harvard observatory, who has just completed an extensive series of studies relating to variations in the amount of heat sent out by the sun. Such advance forecasts would revolutionize agriculture all over the world. The amount of heat sent out by the sun varies slightly from day to day, but the big variations, which are the ones that affect weather conditions, occur in cycles of months or years.

The presence or absence of sun spots is the most important indication of future weather conditions, and these have been found to come in cycles of 11 years. The radiation of heat is high when the sun spots are numerous, and low when the sun spots are few or absent.

FOREST NOTES

Siam exports about nine million dollars worth of teak a year.

The Automobile Club of America through its bureau of tours is urging automobilists to use care with fire in timbered regions.

Oils distilled from the needles of spruce and fir trees are being used to scent petroleum floor oils which are sometimes objectionable on account of their odor.

The governor of Iowa has set aside a fire-prevention day, urging that the citizens discuss conditions and create a sentiment against forest fires and other conflagrations.

The average acre administered by a ranger on the federal forests of the United States is about 100,000 acres. In Germany the area administered by a man of equivalent rank is about 700 acres.

The republic of Colombia is said to have excellent regulations for its national forests. Lumbermen who take cedar and mahogany are required to plant young trees of the same species in the cut-over spaces.

ALTITUDES IN OHIO

During the course of its topographic mapping in the state of Ohio the United States Geological survey has established nearly 6000 exact elevations above mean sea level. The work from 1901 to 1911 has been done in co-operation with the state. To engineers and surveyors this work is of prime importance, as the elevations which have been accurately determined afford a starting point for a survey of any kind that may be contemplated. These datum points have been marked by means of tablets, caps on iron posts embedded in the ground, or small metal disks driven into trees, posts, etc. The number stamped with steel dies on the bench marks representing the elevations to the nearest

DELIGHTFUL SOCIETY SPORT THAT WILL BE ENJOYED IN DRAWING ROOM

Society this winter will have the delightful experience of shooting wild animals in the drawing room. No longer is it necessary to go to the heart of Africa, the fastnesses of the Ural mountains or the crags of the Rockies to shoot big game. This can now be done between office hours and dinner in a business suit or after dinner in evening clothes, with no danger to the sportsman, by means of the motion picture shooting gallery.

From the point of view of sport, the "life" target exceeds anything ever seen on any rifle range. The excitement of shooting at birds on the wing, at horses leaping fences, airmen soaring and dipping, polar bears, Indians in ambush, lions and other beasts in the jungle, motorcycles racing automobiles, speeding, wild ducks taking to the water—almost anything in motion—cannot be appreciated without actual experience.

A New York theatrical manager, hunting for plays on the continent last spring, fell upon the trail of the life-target shooting pictures. He took his first shot at them in Berlin, and from that day he has not been able to leave a rifle alone. He brought back with him the American rights in this latest "movie" craze.

FATAL TO GOOD LOOKS

Pale people are generally nervous. Thin blood not only affects the complexion by robbing cheeks and lips of color but it also weakens the nerves by robbing them of nourishment.

When you have so far lost control of your nerves that you "fly to pieces" over the least little noise or excitement, it is high time to give your nerves a rest and to build up your blood. The drawn look, the sunken eyes, the deepening lines about the mouth and forehead, the less in weight, are plain signs that the nerves and the body are being poorly nourished.

A New York theatrical manager, hunting for plays on the continent last spring, fell upon the trail of the life-target shooting pictures. He took his first shot at them in Berlin, and from that day he has not been able to leave a rifle alone. He brought back with him the American rights in this latest "movie" craze.

The novelty of the device is that the instant the rifle cracks the moving film halts for a fraction of a second, just long enough for one to see where his shot has hit. Whether it is a seal slipping into the water from a rock, a springing lion or a leaping antelope, the instant the rifle cracks the moving object stops. Then, where the bullet pierced the white paper screen, a little hole appears, showing a red light. This glows for an instant; then the film resumes its motion.

Electrically and mechanically the cinematograph target is ingenious. The target coordinates four separate patents, each of which was developed originally for quite other purposes. The heart of the mechanism is a relay, originated for use in automatic signaling on railway trains. A telephone receiver is placed well above the firing line. When the shot is fired, the sound acts upon the telephone receiver, which operates the relay, which in turn control the cinematograph machine by means of a band brake and a magnetic clutch. At the instant the shot is fired, the clutch is released and the brake is applied, bringing the picture to a standstill. To prevent the film from catching fire while stationary, a small direct-driven air compressor maintains a constant blast of cold air on the film.

The switchboard which carries the relay also carries a dashpot which controls the spot-extinguishing movement of the screen and the restarting of the machine. The screen itself is formed by two sheets of stout paper, on horizontal rollers, and a third sheet, forming a stay, on vertical rollers. These screens are arranged to move a fraction of an inch—roughly the diameter of a shot hole—after each shot, thus obliterating the hole. This is done by a ratchet actuated by a solenoid. When the relay is brought into action by the sound of a shot, it closes the circuit of a timing dashpot, which rises slowly until the upper contacts close the circuit of the screen solenoid. During this interval the shot hole remains visible; but when the solenoid circuit is closed the hole disappears and the cinematograph machine is started again. The screen is illuminated from behind by several flaming-arc lamps hung clear of the firing line.

The life target provides the marksman with objects to shoot at under conditions as realistic as the modern cinematograph can make them. The pictures at any desired range and at any rate of movement, and the mechanism can be so adjusted as to take account of all the conditions of actual shooting; so that, in firing at a moving object 1000 feet away, the marksman must take into consideration the motion of the object between the moment of pulling the trigger and the moment the bullet would reach the mark.

For the training of military marksmen the cinematograph target has been approved by the British war office.

WATER MADE FINE
TASTE OFTEN LEFT IN WATER THAT HAS BEEN TREATED WITH CHLORINATED LIME

It is surprising, as pointed out by Lederer, that so little attention has been paid to the question of removing the taste from water-supplies treated with chlorinated lime. In this country especially, where the treatment of many large public supplies has been carried out with brilliant sanitary success, there has been frequent and often bitter complaint about the taste of the treated water. As well known, antagonism has developed in many places between water boards and health departments as a result of these conditions. On one side is the recognition that the danger from water-borne diseases is greatly reduced by the hypochlorite treatment; on the other is the necessity of having to bear the burden of daily complaint and to meet the indignant protests of thousands of aggrieved water-drinkers. As Lederer shows, a simple method of removing the taste from hypochlorite-treated water is the use of sodium thiosulphate. He has obtained good results in the elimination of taste in Lake Michigan water treated in this way. It must be remembered that thiosulphate stops the germicidal action of the chlorine so that it is necessary to allow the chlorine to act for ten to fifteen minutes before the thiosulphate is added.

40,000 R.R. Men to Demand Wage Increase of $50,000,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Forty thousand locomotive engineers and firemen employed by ninety railroads running west of Chicago have notified officials of the lines that they will terminate their present labor agreements November 10th and demand a wage increase aggregating $50,000,000 a year, according to statements in railroad offices here yesterday. The railroads in turn notified Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, chief of the firemen, that they would welcome a readjustment of wage schedules. The advance sought ranges between 25 cents and one dollar a hundred miles, according to the nature of the service.

LONG-TAILED JAP. ROOSTERS
The breeding of roosters with long tail feathers has long been the pastime of the natives of Shikoku, on the island of Shikoku, Japan. By patient selection of a breed of fowls, continued through 100 years, the tail feathers of the ordinary barnyard cock have been lengthened until some of the roosters on the island now have tail feathers measuring 15 feet. The hens of the same breed have tail feathers only 3 inches long. In breeding the roosters it is necessary to confine them in close quarters so that the feathers cannot wear out or be melted. Through a careful routine, the fowl lives his eight or nine years of life in a cage so narrow that he cannot turn around in it. When he is taken out for exercise every day or so, he is carefully watched by an attendant, and from time to time his plumage is carefully washed and dried.

NATIONAL AND SAVINGS BANKS

It may be true that the insolvency of the Traders bank is not due to the faults of its management or the evasion of any law framed for the protection of the people, but this conviction is not liable to bring much consolation to the thousands whose deposits are held up, especially to those who had deposited all their earnings in the savings department of the closed institution. They are liable to feel that had they selected a savings bank proper, limited by stringent laws in the sphere of its investment of the people's money, and under the watchful supervision of the Massachusetts savings bank commission, they would not be now waiting for the decision of the federal receiver to know whether they are to get their hard earned money back wholly or in part. They have also learned that it is poor policy to be lured by the larger interest when it implies the larger risk.

The state laws governing banking institutions wisely provide that the money invested in savings banks be kept from the more precarious avenues of speculation which too often bring ruin to national banks. Yet through a technicality, national banks may maintain savings departments such as that of the Traders bank which are not savings banks strictly speaking in the same sense as those under the Massachusetts savings banks commission, but which carry on the functions of a savings bank, without being hampered by state supervision. These banks are under federal authority and are responsible only to the federal government. Their financial activities, therefore, are not necessarily nearly so restricted as those savings banks under state supervision.

The present difficulty of the Traders bank is an illustration of the abuse of this federal permit for national banks to maintain a savings department and it gives us reason to ask if the conducting of the functions of a national and a savings bank under one head and one management is wise or safe. Now that the currency bill is under discussion in congress, it were well if this phase of the country's banking laws were considered. Under the present arrangement there will always be the danger that the money deposited in the savings department of a national bank will be invested in the more precarious forms of speculation which are forbidden in savings banks under the Massachusetts savings banks commission.

As was to be expected, the announcement has been made in some quarters that the failure of the Traders bank has been brought about because of policies of the democratic administration. There is absolutely no foundation for this statement. It is not the intention of the president or any of the supporters of the currency bill to endanger the stability of the financial affairs of the country in the least. Their object is to render business a great service by putting the currency on a firm foundation, taking away from its management the personal intervention which gave to bankers, individual and collective, almost absolute power over the financial affairs of the country and therefore made business subject to their whims. Even should there be anything in the bill which might bring temporary confusion its effects would not yet be felt as the final form of the bill is yet unsettled. Instead of causing financial reverses such as that of the Traders bank it is far more probable that the currency bill will prevent the repetition of the local calamity. The failure of the Traders bank should be brought to the attention of the leaders of the administration at Washington, so as to serve as a guide to what is needed in the pending currency bill. The depositors in this case claim they were imposed upon by a sign that led them to believe that the savings department of the Traders National bank was a regular savings bank fully as reliable as any of the others. The present banking laws of the nation are responsible for that imposition and the evil should be remedied in the new currency bill.

TEST FLAG LAW

The flag law which was recently enacted by the last legislature has been questioned by many as unconstitutional and those who were not in sympathy with its provisions will be glad to learn that it is soon to be tested before the higher courts of the state. Recently two Boston socialists were arrested for carrying red flags in a parade in that city and when the case was tried in the police court they were fined $25.00. They appealed with the intention of testing the constitutionality of the law. The case involved has all the vital points necessary for creating a precedent so that the coming decision of the higher court will settle the fate of the law for the future.

It must be evident to all who ponder on the matter that the red flag of the socialists was barred from public parade in this state, not because it is a red flag or the flag of any party but because it became identified publicly with declarations and manifestations of rebellion against all authority. In no country in the world is the law more liberal concerning the carrying of flags and emblems than in America, and any tendency, therefore, to abuse the privilege here is especially regrettable. Were the socialistic flag a representation of the skull and cross bones it could have been carried if its exhibition were not connected with insults to the American flag and such ambitious declarations as "No God, no master," or something to that effect. The socialists of this state did much recently to put before the people their distinct individuality and distinguishing characteristics as compared with the propaganda of the I. W. W. and similar organizations, but they did not do so in time to prevent many from associating the red flag with the most extreme declarations of social and industrial agitators.

The strongest foe of socialism would not deny that that organization its right to carry a red flag or a black flag or any other color flag, provided it complied with the same regulations that all who carry other flags than the Stars and Stripes respect. If it forfeited its right to do so, the blame lies on those who coupled the carrying of the red flag with disorder rather than on the state of Massachusetts. Even should the Boston case make the law negative, the socialist party has learned a lesson that is of value to all parties and all peoples.

DEMOCRATS WITH WALSH

Mr. Bird seems to be laboring under the decision that he will gain quite a few democratic votes from now on in his campaign by ignoring Mr. Gardner and bending his energies towards capturing the good will of those whose party banner is borne by David I. Walsh. In this he is deluding himself. Democrats will be faithful to their candidate, not that they love Mr. Bird less but because they love Mr. Walsh more. The democratic candidate throughout his campaign has refrained from the spectacular and vote-baiting methods of his opponents, but something more than strenuous campaigning is needed today in state politics. Mr. Walsh was discussing state issues when his opponents were delighting the curious by an exchange of "wallops," and there are still many in Massachusetts who desire a statesman in the governor's chair rather than a muscular wallflower.

Apologies of Mr. Bird's futile hope, the Salem News has the following: "Candidate Bird avers that the campaign has so shaped itself that Candidate Walsh is now his real opponent, and that voters must choose between them for the next governor. Listen to this: 'The men I wish to reach now are men who have been in the rank and file of the democratic party.' Have been? Where are they at present? As for the rank and file of the democratic party, Mr. Bird will make about as much impression upon them, in capturing votes, as a bean blower would make upon the armor of a modern dreadnaught."

Were there any sign of dissatisfaction in democratic ranks, Mr. Bird might well hope to succeed, but never in the history of recent state campaigns were the democrats more united. In Mr. Walsh they have an honorable and efficient gentleman of proven worth and high purpose, and not all the wiles of Mr. Bird or anybody else will turn their allegiance from him. The democrats stand solidly behind Walsh.

DRIVING THEM OUT

The Rev. Madison C. Peters, a clergyman who has a cure for every ill under the sun and over it has the prettiest scheme ever heard of for getting loafers out of the cities and reducing the high cost of living. He would take those who would rather "stay, starve and sink" in the city than do farm work and proceed as follows: "Placing good healthy work on one side and a rawhide on the other," he would give them 15 minutes to take their choice. Simply itself! If Rev. Mr. Peters is as vigorous as his language, he could probably drive out a weak loafer or two, but to make them work he'd probably have to follow and do a continuous Simon Legree act. Probably this would keep him so busy that he would not have time to make foolish statements. If so, the sooner he starts out with his rawhide, the better.

Seen and Heard

You cannot always tell what a man is by what he says he is going to do.

Recently, Attorney-General McFie, told a story of his participation as co-prosecutor in a case where a physician was called by the defense to testify. The physician's testimony ran through most of one day and when he was recalled on the following morning for cross-examination he announced that he first wished to make some preliminary remarks. "What do you wish to say?" inquired the other prosecutor, raspingly. "I wish to correct some mistakes in my testimony of yesterday," said the doctor. "It is a fact, isn't it, doctor, that many of your mistakes are buried underground?" said the prosecutor, ironically. "Possibly," retorted the physician. "But while we're on the subject, I wish to state that I have often suspected, sir, that many of your mistakes were hanging 10 feet above!"—Washington Star.

A LIFE LESSON

The turkey gobbles in pride and joy. As he struts on a Vermont farm. He's plump and well, and he never thinks. That's he's going to come to harm. But in a month from now his glory and pride. Will all have passed away. And he'll lie on his back with his legs crossed up. On the table Thanksgiving day.

There's a lesson in this for every one. Who lives in a careless way. But the lesson is not that we should scorn. The pleasures we have today. We should not ignore the horoscope. The knowledge of nature casts. But still we should live to the best of life. And enjoy it while it lasts.

Be wary of the man who tells you there is a fortune in some speculation. He may want to get your fortune in there also.—New Orleans Picayune. "Why didn't old Gotrox fling that drowning man that life preserver he had in his hand?" "You know he made his money manufacturing rubber and it looked too much like throwing away an automobile tire."—Florida Times-Union.

At the dental congress at Asbury Park, Dr. J. P. Carmichael of Milwaukee, apropos of a disappointment in dental legislation, said philosophically: "Well, let us not despair. Let us remember the old maid. 'An old maid, you know, went into a decline. 'What's the matter with you?' a doctor asked. 'Oh, doctor,' she sobbed, 'I've been disappointed in love!'" "Naturally!" said the doctor. "It never does come up to expectations."—Philadelphia North American.

QUITTING CONSISTENT

Worcester Post: The fitness of things is not absent from the bull moose nomination of William Sulzer for assemblyman from the sixth New York district. The carrying of humbug out of good causes and the weakening of them by mad and inconsistent conduct has high example in that quarter. It was in that district that Sulzer first entered politics and he has always had a strong hold there.

ONE TARIFF EFFECT

Boston Post: While the tariff bill was in congress there was considerable talk from the republican stand-patters to the effect that the new schedules would do little or nothing to reduce the cost of living. The answer to that comes in a prompt and practical way from a long-established and well-considered firm, the S. S. Pierce company of this city, which announced a few days ago that, as a result of lower rates of duty, prices have been reduced on olive oil, imported biscuits and wafers, jams and marmalades, vegetables, spaghetti and other food products.

THE WRONG WAY

Fall River Herald: Once more it would be well to consider that one of the best ways to encourage the spread of socialistic teachings is to resort to authority to suppress such teachings rather than to reason to convince men that they are wrong. The history of social movements throughout the world has proved this.

DEATH OF ROSE

Lynn News: The death of Ralph Rose, champion shot-putter, "the perfect man" at the age of 19 years, shows that strength is not the same thing as endurance. Some of the little fellows who have envied him his development will probably live to be 90, and do good work most of the time.

LADIES DEPUNED

Lynn Item: Several ladies who came over on the steamer and landed in Boston on Sunday evening had an unpleasant experience. The inspectors of customs, acting under instructions from the treasury department, were alert to discover leather, which is prohibited by the new tariff, and great sorrow was caused when the hats of some of the ladies were depuned. Law is law, and leather is leather, and the two must harmonize if they can. The ladies whose hats were made, however, by reason of the action of the administrators of the law, had their opinions on the subject of the recent enactment, and got what satisfaction they could by expressing them in terms emphatic, if not exactly polite.

ADDRESS CRITICISM

Salem News: You may say that this is anything but complimentary to the intellect or the fairness of it people who decide that what Mr. Aldrich opposes in this quarter may be a good thing for the people to demand. Admitted. At the same time the fact cannot be gainsaid that Mr. Aldrich is put in an equivocal light. In short, he is distressed by the elements referred to. Its members virtually take the ground that he would put private interests above the general welfare. That is the long and short of the matter. The same distrust was also consistent when the bankers, "in convention assembled," proceeded to make their opposition manifest.

NEW LONG-FLIGHT RECORD

The world's record for long airplane flights with a passenger was broken on August 23 by a German airman, Victor Stieffler, who flew 776.3 miles in one day, including two stops made on the way. The flight took 13 hours and 45 minutes. The airman, with one passenger, left Mulhouse at 5.45 a. m. in competition for the national aviation prize, and landed near Interberg at 7.30 in the evening.

NOTED THIEF IS WANTED

Who Escaped From New York
—Has Committed Slick Jobs

The local police have just received information which has set them on the track of a noted New York pickpocket. Samuel Gold, of Russian parentage and well known in New York criminal circles, is thought to have been here this week and may be here at the present time.

From all the information that can be gathered on the subject it seems that the noted thief was driven out of New York late this summer and his whereabouts were for a time unknown. Through the medium of a New Yorker, who happened to be at Salem, N. H., during fair week it was learned that Gold was plying his nefarious trade in the Little New Hampshire town while the crowds thronged around the race track or were occu-pled with the midway.

Detectives were immediately set upon his track but he was too slippery for them and slid through the clutches of the "big city" officers. It was thought at the time that he had gone to the middle west but from several sources it is believed that the man had only recently, if at all, left this city. He has a cousin living here, it is said, and although the relatives of the criminal has refused to speak thus far, he may later reveal the whereabouts of Gold. Gold is wanted on several counts and will probably spend at least five years in the state penitentiary if the authorities once lay hands upon him.

INTERESTING MEETING

Local Machinists Met in Hibernian Hall Last Night—Over Six Hundred Present

The members of local 1829, Machinists union, held an interesting meeting in Hibernian hall last evening. There were over 600 members present and the meeting was presided over by President Walter Phelps.

It was reported in the course of the meeting that the organization now counted over 700 members in its ranks, and this announcement was received with cheers. Among those who addressed the gathering were Organizer Young of this city, S. M. Thompson of Hyde Park, who spoke on the recent troubles at the machine shop of Gov. Foss; Michael O'Neill, inside organizer for the Railroad Machinists union in Nashua, N. H.; John J. Brown of Nashua, member of the Merrimack Valley organizing committee, and others.

It was voted to send delegates to the meeting of the executive board of the 19th district which will be held in Lynn Sunday, and there protest against the removal to the state of Maine of Organizer Young of this city, for the members of the local organization feel that the present organizer in Maine is capable of handling the work, while they say Organizer Young's services are badly needed in Lowell.

with his address in the Plymouth county court, the defence in the murder trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton opened its case.

Nor did the young assistant to William A. Morse halt at that point. He declared the late naval officer to be a drunkard, a drug-user and a man of immoral nature. He said that during the week of the last illness and death of the first Mrs. Eaton, the admiral was intoxicated at his home, and that because of his condition he was unable to attend the funeral services. The attorney further declared that the admiral's drug habits while in the service of the country had been the means of endangering hundreds of lives. He asserted that witnesses for the defence would show that the late naval officer while under the influence of drugs was a bad type of man, and that letters written by him would show him to be a degenerate of the lowest type. It would be shown also, said Mr. Geagan, that the admiral flirted with and winked at women and often made advances to them.

Attorney Geagan told the jury that the defence would present a witness who would testify to having prescribed a medicine for the admiral which contained arsenic, and that through this witness it would be shown that 45 grains of arsenic had been purchased in tablet form, each tablet containing one one-hundredth of a grain.

He said that the accused had the strongest possible motive for keeping her late husband alive; that the latter's pension was her only means of support, and that she herself would take the stand and tell fully and freely her life with the admiral and the circumstances that she knew regarding his death. He said his client would not attempt to hide behind a cloak of insanity; that she asked no favors and desired nothing but that the jury pass upon the case on its merits.

The opening address of the young attorney was effectively presented. Its delivery consumed over an hour, and at its conclusion the first witness for the defence took the stand. There were three of them to be heard before the adjournment of the court. One, a Washington physician, who had attended the first Mrs. Eaton during her fatal illness; the second, a retired admiral of the United States navy; and the third, a naval lieutenant, who, as a midshipman, had served under Admiral Eaton.

Watchdog Crew in Peril

It was the testimony of the last witness that held the interest of the audience that packed the court room, and it was here that the defence introduced testimony to support its contention that the admiral was a drug user, and that his use of drugs had been the means of endangering the lives of hundreds of his subordinates while he was the commanding officer of the battleship Massachusetts.

This witness was Lieutenant Holden Chester Richardson, a graduate of Annapolis and the U. S. V., and now in charge of the work pertaining to naval aeroplanes at Washington. He had served on the battleship Massachusetts under the late Captain Joseph G. Eaton, and told of singular happenings aboard the boat.

One of these occurred, according to the witness, when Eaton appeared on the ship's bridge, clad only in his pajamas, and gave orders which if carried out would have endangered the vessel and its entire crew.

The witness told also of occasions when Eaton appeared to have been under the influence of drugs. He said the face of his commander on these occasions held a set expression, his eyes were glassy and his voice thick. He said he never had detected the odor of liquor.

Through the testimony of the physician, Dr. Frank Freeman Smith of Washington, the jury learned of the alleged habits of intoxication of the admiral, and prior to this testimony, Attorney William A. Morse, counsel for the accused woman, introduced a surgeon general's report which showed that in 1875-1876 Eaton had been treated for a disease.

NEWSPAPER SUED

LAWRENCE, Oct. 24.—Because of alleged libellous articles published in the Sunday Leader, purporting that Mayor Scanlon made the statement that a man and his family could live on $3 a week, a suit for libel has been brought by the mayor against Publisher Valentine T. Sellers, Carrie L. Sellers, Hugh Roy and Duncan Wood. The ad damnum is for $1000. The action is one of tort for libel and conspiracy to injure. It has been instituted through the office of Attorney William F. Moyes, counsel for the mayor. The writ was issued by Clerk Daniel W. Mahoney of police court, Thursday, and is returnable in court a week from next Saturday when the case is scheduled to come up for a hearing.

In a recent issue of the Sunday Leader was an alleged story purporting that, at the public meeting in Library hall on the evening of September 30, conducted by the legislative committee on the child labor law, the mayor made the statement as above in reference to the $3.

An affidavit appeared in the paper, signed by Duncan Wood, tending to substantiate the alleged libellous statements.

Mayor Scanlon denies that he made any such statement as the defendants claimed he did. He has received assurance from the members of the legislative committee that no such statement was made by him.

On the contrary, the mayor contends and is supported in his contention by the records of the clerk of the legislative committee, that he claimed that $3 was not enough for a working man. "I went to that hearing," commented the mayor Thursday morning, "to secure a repeal of the present child labor law so that a family could get more revenue."

The mayor maintains that the alleged libellous statements were made to injure him politically, with the working people.

How It is Coming Into Use in Germany—More Convenient Than the Liquid

Cubes of "solid alcohol" are coming into use in Germany and to some extent in America for cooking, heating, curling irons or small amounts of water, and for any purpose which requires a small amount of heat for a short time. Put up in pills or small metal containers, solid alcohol is much more convenient than liquid alcohol, because it can be used on a sheet of metal or asbestos without a burner and the user knows just how much heat to expect. Some of the cubes are made of 50-per-cent alcohol worked up in a solid mass which looks like transparent soap, but the flame is not clean. Mixed with collodion, the solid alcohol is transparent and more cleanly, but rather expensive. The cheapest and most useful cube is made of sawdust soaked in alcohol and mixed with tar.

Athletes and Athletics

Dartmouth and Princeton meet tomorrow in the first of the big games. The Light Green team is looked upon as the favorite with the Tigers on the short end of a 10-9 proposition. There will be nobody left in Hanover tomorrow. Even the fanatics of the dormitories take to the game in Princeton, the boys in their particular halls always taking them along. This game will be the biggest contest for the undergraduates as Dartmouth does not play Harvard this year.

The coming Knockout Brown-Matty Baldwin fight in Boston does not look very good from the street. Neither boxer is up to the brand of performer the club should give its patrons. We understand that they are going to close this month and perhaps that may have a bearing upon the choice of principals.

Gus Lenney fought a draw with Charlie Sheppard last night in the Gloucester city hall, where the club holds its shows. Lenney showed very strong and outboxed his opponent but the decision was not forthcoming to the protest of "Red" Molinski. Lenney is now boxing better than he performed while in New York.

Harvard's line has improved with leaps and bounds in the last two weeks. It was a ragged proposition until the first of this week, but is now showing great aggressiveness and power. The first string backs, Brickley, Mahan and Hardwick, failed to puncture it yesterday when they were shifted to the second team.

If the crowds fail to materialize at the games of the White Sox and Giants, the two clubs will probably have to forego games before their schedule calls for them to leave American territory. The poor attendance at the games thus far has caused the management many hours of distress. The Giants won yesterday, 6 to 3.

The memorial to be erected to the memory of the greatest trainer the world has ever seen, Mike Murphy, will probably be started before long. The subscription lists have been sent out and the athletes who have worked under Mike's instruction are now straining every nerve to raise the price of the proposed statue, $50,000. It is a big pile of money, but there is little doubt but what it will readily be subscribed among the men whom the veteran trainer befriended during his eventful career.

The boat race between Yale and Princeton, Saturday, which will take place at Lake Carnegie, N. J., will not attract nearly the crowd that the spring races draw. Football is in the air now and will not be denied for aquatics nor any other branch of sport.

No one of the All-America baseball selections has included either Wagner or Jaisle. Cobb and Speaker are the two outfielders most generally chosen with either Joe Jackson or Sherwood Magee coming in for the third outer garden. "Father" Mathewson, also is a member in good standing of the greatest team of ball players.

Joe Finnegan has been retained by Phillie for next season. Manager Dooin's retention by the owners of the club means that the former Lowell pitcher will be given all the opportunity possible to a youngster to succeed for Dooin was greatly pleased with Finnegan's showing the latter part of the season after he joined the Philadelphia club.

The boys at the armory are very fortunate in having a man of Captain Jeyes calibre in charge of the gym. This officer is a mighty good athlete himself today and is always willing to aid any branch of sport.

The high school team is up against a tough proposition in Malden high whom they meet Saturday on the latter's home territory. Malden has a heavy, fast aggregation this season and the local team seems to be on the short end of predictions.

In Tom Mahoney the high school football team has a coach who has made good here for the past eight years. There is no man coaching prep school football today who knows the rules better than the Lowell strategist and his trick formations have drawn many people to the high school games who would not otherwise take in the schoolboy contests.

The trade of George Tyler for Rube Marquand is still in the air and is expected to take effect with the return of McGraw. George refuses to say anything about the deal, however, although he does state that the Boston club has shown him the greatest consideration. Well, why wouldn't they?

SOME GREAT EVENTS ARRANGED FOR THE WINTER—THE OFFICERS

The annual athletic tournament of the members of the Lowell Armory Athletic association will open on Monday, Nov. 3, as all arrangements for the 1912-1913 tournament have been completed. The same rules and regulations that governed the tournament last year will prevail and it is predicted that the match between teams from the various local companies will be a close one.

The tournament will consist of basketball, shooting and bowling and will be conducted in the armory, which is in the best of condition. Last year the pennant was won by the members of Co. C, but this year the other teams are going to give them a great run for their money, as they term it. The first match will be between teams of Companies C and G.

The officers of the association who look after the arrangements of the tournament are as follows: Capt. Walter J. Jeyes, Co. G, president; Lieut. J. Powers, Co. C, vice-president; Lieut. T. W. Doyle, Co. G, treasurer; Lieut. Sergt. Major Crowell, secretary; Lieut. Melvin Master, Sergt. Mountain, Co. Quartermaster Sergt. Mountain, Co. K; Sergt. Arthur Kelley, Sergt. Christopher Collins and Sergt. John Conner, Co. M; Sergt. C. J. Barnes, Cook Frank St. Peter and Private Timothy Lynch, Co. G; Sergt. William Boyle and Corp. Hurley, Co. C, directors.

A board of supervisors of athletics has been chosen and the following men elected to the governing board: Capt. James N. Greig of Co. K, bowling; Lieut. James Powers, of Co. C, basketball; and Lieut. Harry Sheldon and Color Sergeant Sanford P. Lang, shooting.

The following rules will prevail for this season's contests in the three events:

All contestants must be mustered into service at least 30 days and must be members of the Armory Athletic association.

No man will be allowed to compete on more than one team of an evening. Contestants must compete in at least 15 per cent scheduled matches to be eligible for the individual prizes. Basketball games will count as four points; bowling four, one point for each string and one for the total, and shooting four.

All teams will consist of five members.

Bowling—Duck pins to be rolled.

Shooting—10 shots for record.

Individual prizes: First and second for shooting and first and second for bowling.

The schedule for the season is as follows:

of League Teams

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Statements were made here today that Major League baseball players who are members of the Players' Protective Fraternity have signed an agreement not to close contracts for the season of 1914 until after the annual meetings of the club owners at which certain reforms, drawn by the players, will be submitted.

What purports to be a list of 20 demands to be presented by the players to the American league owners in Chicago on November 6th and the National league club owners in New York in December was received in Chicago today.

The more important demands in the list are:

When a player receives ten days' notice of an unconditional release he shall be free to sign with any team immediately.

National Association players shall receive ten days' notice before they can be released unconditionally.

Players shall be subject to all the terms of their contracts.

If a regular contract is not tendered a probationary player before the expiration of the 45 day probationary period he shall be a free agent.

No player shall be discriminated against because of his connection with the fraternity.

Before a player shall be released outright or under an optional agreement to a team of lower classification he shall first be secured from all teams in his classification and the one to which he goes, according to their priority in grade.

When a player signs a contract for a certain salary he shall receive that salary until the end of his contract, whether or not he is relegated to the minors.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 o'clock Saturday evenings.

ON THE ALLEYS

Sullivan and Whitelock bested their opponents, Marshall and Hogan, last night in their bowling contest. The summary of the match is as follows:

	1	2	3	Total
Marshall	65	77	61	203
Hogan	77	74	67	218
Sullivan	79	77	64	220
Whitelock	94	91	92	277

GEO. ALGER INJURED

Cambridge Boxer Sprained His Ankle

While Training—Kid McDonald Will Meet Fred Velle

Geo. Alger, who was to meet Fred Velle in the main bout at the Lowell A. C. tonight, met with an injury Wednesday and will be unable to appear, consequently the club was obliged to dig up a substitute. Kid McDonald of Rosindale has been secured and will go on with Velle. McDonald appeared here a short time ago, boxing Ray Wood of Fall River. The bout went the distance, with Wood getting the decision. In the semi final Fannie Boyle of Lowell will meet Billy Edwards of Lawrence. This number is scheduled to go eight rounds and should be a lively one. Boyle has trained carefully, under the direction of his brother and he is in fine condition. In the preliminaries, Billy Brooks will meet Kid Silva and Nick Cristos will tackle Young Canale.

The Old Lowell National Bank, 25 Central street, is open from 7 till 9 o'clock Saturday evenings.

TOOK THE PIANO WALSH RALLIES

Several Held Last Night—Mayor Fitzgerald Speaks for Candidate

BOSTON, Oct. 24.—Herbert B. Budding, a local money lender, is being sued in the sixth session of the superior court by Mrs. Mary A. Sanders and her daughter, Marion. Mrs. Sanders claims that Budding took a piano from her home in Washington street, Brookline, and her daughter alleges that he assaulted her when he went to her home for the instrument.

It appears that Mrs. Sanders borrowed the sum of $20 and gave a mortgage on her piano as security.

She declared that she had believed she had paid him all that she owed him.

Budding claimed that she was still in his debt and when he learned that the piano had been moved from Lexington to Brookline he made a search for their new home and when he found it, removed the piano.

Ruth Sanders, the 11-year-old daughter, testified that on the day Mr. Budding appeared at their home, she and her sister Marion were dressing. It was about 7:30 o'clock in the morning.

She heard the knock, she said, and Mr. Budding was at the door. He informed them that he had come to take the piano away. She blocked the door, she said, as best she could and told him that, as her mother was away, she could do nothing about it. Budding then brushed by her and her sister Marion who was standing behind her, and went into the room where the piano was.

YOU'RE BILIOUS AND COSTIVE!—CASCARETS

Sick Headache or Sour Stomach Means Sluggish Liver and Bowels

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

VALUE OF THE X-RAY

In Diagnoses and Treatment of Diseases—Especially Useful in Surgery Cases

From time to time, articles have appeared in the lay press that have given to the public exaggerated and erroneous ideas of the true value of this wonderful discovery of Roentgen's. It is true that Roentgen gave to the world that which has proved to be a wonderful aid in diagnosis, and to a much more limited degree, a useful therapeutic agent, but like everything else, it has its limitations, and this fact is appreciated by the medical profession and should be by the laity.

It may be well to say a few words in regard to how the X-ray is produced. An electrical current of high voltage from 30,000 to 120,000 volts is used. The quantity of current used, however, is very small. A specially constructed glass bulb is used which is exhausted to a very high vacuum. When a current of high voltage is applied across such a tube the phenomenon known as the X-ray or Roentgen ray is produced.

The X-ray has the property of penetrating substances that are opaque to ordinary light. This fact is taken advantage of in making X-ray plates; other names given to X-ray pictures are radiographs, roentgenographs, skiagraphs. The term X-ray will be used when speaking of such a record in this article. Roentgen made public his discovery in November, 1895.

It was but a short time—only a few months later—when hospitals and private laboratories were equipped with apparatus for taking plates of fractures and locating foreign bodies, such as needles, pieces of steel and bullets. In this way the X-ray will be used until today its field of usefulness has extended far beyond its original application.

Great Advances Made

Great advances have been made also in the development of the apparatus and its accessories. In the early days it was necessary to expose the plates from two minutes to half an hour in order to get a record. Today the plates can be taken in from a fraction of a second up to possibly 10 seconds, and this fact has been taken advantage of in its broader application. The short exposure necessary to take plates today, of course, is a great advantage over the long exposure necessary in the old days.

The picture can be taken now while the patient is holding his breath, if necessary, and in the case of children it can be done so rapidly that oftentimes it is not even necessary to take the short exposure is important from more than one point of view; better results are obtained, the patient is not kept in a strained or uncomfortable position and the whole procedure is as free from discomfort as if an ordinary photograph was being taken.

There is no sense of heat, pain or discomfort whatever accompanying this method of examination and absolutely no danger in any sense, either immediate or remote, in spite of the popular opinion to the contrary.

There has been in the past just cause for this opinion, but today there is no risk whatever. The exposures are short and protective devices so perfect that even the expert working in this field all day sustains no injuries.

There is an absurd idea abroad that cancer may be caused as a result of an X-ray examination; this is ridiculous and untrue. It must be remembered that those who took up this work 15 to 17 years ago knew nothing of its effects and some of the earliest investigators did sustain more or less severe injuries, but what of the hundreds of thousands of patients who have been and are today being benefited by this method of examination? It can be stated honestly and emphatically that today there is no danger to the patient either immediate or remote.

Not a Photograph

It is necessary to appreciate the fact that the X-ray picture is in no sense a photograph, it is simply a projection picture, and as such, is subject to much distortion. If one should take a pencil or a piece of wood and project its shadow on the wall by means of a candle, it will be seen at a glance that the shadow can be enlarged and distorted as the candle is made to approach the pencil, or the pencil brought nearer to the candle. The pencil represents the bone or foreign body, and the candle the X-ray tube.

Now, as the X-ray picture is a projection picture, it is subject to just the same distortion. Consider for a moment the great importance of this fact. It will be seen that it is possible to get an X-ray picture of a fractured bone that will give the physician either a correct or an erroneous idea of the position of the fragments.

For this reason great care has to be used to get the fractured member a definite distance from the tube and in a correct position. It is to be regretted that X-ray plates are admitted as evidence in court as to the amount of disability or disturbance or function that a patient may sustain from a fracture.

It is a fact well known to the medical profession that one may have a fractured ankle, for instance, and when the bone is united experience no disability, and yet the X-ray plate may show considerable displacement. It is fair to admit the X-ray plate as evidence of a fracture, but in the vast majority of cases it conveys no evidence as to the amount of disability. The location of a foreign body is comparatively easy by this method, but its removal by the surgeon is sometimes exceedingly difficult, as it may be displaced when the patient is being prepared for its extraction.

The use of the X-ray as an aid in the diagnosis of fractures and to determine the presence of a foreign body, being one of the common and earliest applications of the X-ray in surgery, the laity has become well informed on this branch of the X-ray work.

From questions that are constantly being asked, however, it is fair to assume that such is not the case as regards its use in other branches of its medical and surgical application.

BUSINESSWOMEN'S CLUB

WITH 470 WOMEN REPRESENTING 35 DIFFERENT OCCUPATIONS ORGANIZED IN BOSTON

Boston used to be known as cold and unsocial. Whether that was ever true a good many will doubt. The fact that it has become a favorite place for different conventions, large and small, goes to prove it is a city of warm hospitality and of several enterprising organizations that make it attractive not only to strangers but to people all over the country who make frequent visits to the "Athens of America."

One of the most interesting examples of Boston's capacity for sociability is the Business Women's club. It is an organization made up of 470 women, representing more than 35 different occupations in the business field.

Less than two years ago the members were practically unknown to one another but scarcely had they come together when a splendid spirit of good fellowship became a dominant attraction which thoroughly demonstrates that business women have much in common. Every woman connected with the business world has much to give and much to take in connection with her sisters in the field.

There is no better way of sharing with one another than to join a group of women who are on the ground every business day in the year, hence the club is supplying a long felt need and that is the bringing together of many excellent types of women who form such an important part of the business communities of your great country.

The club house is located right alongside of the State house and overlooks the attractive grounds known as the State house park. While almost in the heart of the city, convenient to the shopping district, both retail and wholesale, also very near the theatres, museums and other places of interest, yet paradoxical as it may seem, it is a beautiful, cool and restful place where members and their friends enjoy luncheon, dinner or pass the night in the pleasant rooms which are comfortably fitted up with things conducive to the rest and entertainment of busy women.

An a la carte luncheon is served from 11.30 to 3 o'clock every week day and dinner from 5.30 to 7.30. Those who finish the day's work at 5 o'clock can have a cup of tea and spend a pleasant half hour on their way home if they so desire.

There are three bedrooms for members when working late, going to the theatre and live too far away to get home at a reasonable hour. Bath and dressing rooms, reading and writing materials are always available, making it a house comfortable for its many members who thoughtfully enjoy its restful hospitality. In addition to luncheon, dinner and over night accommodations the club has much to offer in the way of education and recreation as these busy women realize that to be able to give their very best to the business world it is necessary to keep well not only mentally but physically. It has been fittingly said that "we work well together we must play well together."

A very interesting program is being arranged for the coming fall, winter and spring which not only includes lectures, talks on current events, classes in various languages, design, dramatics, singing, but many plans for physical development such as gymnastics, walking, bowling and other beautiful exercises to be enjoyed evenings and half holidays.

The club extends a cordial welcome to business women outside of Boston so that when they visit the city they will not only have a comfortable, cheerful place in which to stay but will be able to meet many other women, and the meeting would no doubt prove to be of mutual advantage.

GREENHEART TIMBER

Clayton D. Mell of the U. S. forest service sailed Thursday from New York for British Guiana to inspect greenheart timber to be used in the construction of docks and other marine works for the Panama canal. He goes at the request of the Isthmian canal commission, in order that the engineers may be sure that they are getting genuine greenheart timber, for which a number of inferior substitutes are offered.

Genuine greenheart has the reputation of being the most resistant wood to the attack of marine borers and to decay. Borers are especially bad in tropical waters. The wood is, in addition, hard, heavy and durable, and not subject to damage from impact and wear. Indisputable records show that the best grades of this wood surpass iron and steel as to lasting qualities in contact with salt water. It has been known and used since 1789. Logs have remained intact under water for 100 years. Lock gates in English canals have been made of it for years, and the only limit of their durability so far has been the length of service of the iron bolts and fastenings, which usually can be renewed without much trouble. Greenheart in Liverpool lock gates built in 1856, removed to allow a deepening and widening of the ship channel in 1924, was used over again when the gates were reconstructed. The sills and fenders of the 1-1/2 gates at Panama will be made of greenheart, and much of the docks will be constructed of the same material.

Nansen's ship, the Fram, and the antarctic vessel, Discovery, used by one of the Scott expeditions, and the Gauss, used by Drygalski, were all planked with greenheart.

The exceedingly great durability of the wood is said to be due, at least in part, to the presence of an alkaloid,

A number of other woods which grow with greenheart in the tropical forests of the Guianas resemble it so closely that they are likely to deceive even an expert. They have many of the qualities of the genuine timber, but in a lesser degree. Some are quite inferior, and it is essential that they should be avoided. In order that the canal commission may be sure of the of the right wood, it asked the forest service to assist it in an investigation of the greenheart situation in British Guiana, and Mr. Mell's present trip is a result of that request.

From the Isthmus of Panama, Mr. Mell will go directly to Demerara, British Guiana, the principal port of export for greenheart. He will be accompanied by a number of the commission, and will see all the operations of lumbering in order that the true greenheart may be selected and identified without possibility of error. He will ascertain where the genuine can be obtained in sufficient quantities, and right size, and find out what substitutes are to be avoided, and prepare specifications which, incorporated in purchase contracts, will eliminate everything but genuine greenheart.

A number of other woods which grow with greenheart in the tropical forests of the Guianas resemble it so closely that they are likely to deceive even an expert. They have many of the qualities of the genuine timber, but in a lesser degree. Some are quite inferior, and it is essential that they should be avoided. In order that the canal commission may be sure of the of the right wood, it asked the forest service to assist it in an investigation of the greenheart situation in British Guiana, and Mr. Mell's present trip is a result of that request.

From the Isthmus of Panama, Mr. Mell will go directly to Demerara, British Guiana, the principal port of export for greenheart. He will be accompanied by a number of the commission, and will see all the operations of lumbering in order that the true greenheart may be selected and identified without possibility of error. He will ascertain where the genuine can be obtained in sufficient quantities, and right size, and find out what substitutes are to be avoided, and prepare specifications which, incorporated in purchase contracts, will eliminate everything but genuine greenheart.

The exceedingly great durability of the wood is said to be due, at least in part, to the presence of an alkaloid,

STOP CATARRH!

Unless Properly Treated With Hyomel This Disease May Become Serious

If you have catarrh, usually indicated by sniffing, stopped up head, droppings in throat, watery eyes, and morning choking, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane which affords an ideal condition for the growth of disease germs.

Do not allow the dangerous germs which may be breathed into the nose, throat and lungs to begin the destruction of your health.

The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to check catarrh is by breathing Hyomel—all druggists sell it. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not upset the stomach, but is breathed in through the Hyomel inhaler, directly following and surely destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled—the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs are quickly healed and vitalized.

The unusual way in which Hyomel is sold by Carter & Sherburne dispels all doubts as to its curative properties. Money refunded to anyone whom Hyomel fails to benefit. A complete outfit, including inhaler and bottle of liquid, costs but $1.00.

MEXICAN SITUATION

various foreign governments would be proclaimed.

It is understood also that Mr. Bryan by that same statement will jeopardize the American policy that only governments founded on constitutional law and order will be recognized on the western hemisphere.

May Cancel Trip

The situation had assumed such an aspect that it was considered possible that President Wilson might cancel at the last moment his trip to Mexico, Ala. He had planned to leave early tomorrow and he came until Tuesday night. There was doubt in the president's mind today whether he could afford to leave Washington at this time.

Senator Bacon of the senate foreign relations committee conferred at the state department and White House. He declared that while the United States would always like to have the approval of foreign governments in its policy toward Mexico and would always listen to suggestions, nevertheless this government would never yield its views because it had broader and more important moral considerations at hand in dealing with the Mexican problem than merely material interests. The gravity of the situation, it was apparent, would be increased by Felix Diaz taking refuge in the American consulate at Vera Cruz. The possibility that the Huerta authorities might demand his release and provoke another emergency was fully realized.

May Take In Diaz

At the state department it was said that while no instructions had been given to American Consul Canada at Vera Cruz to afford an asylum to Diaz Canada's general instructions were such that he could take in the threatened leader if it seemed necessary. Although in international law the consulate has no extra territorial rights it was pointed out here that generally the Mexican authorities would have no right to invade the American precincts to arrest Diaz.

Re-establish Order

Opinions as to the course the United States would pursue varied greatly in administration circles. Suggestions that the United States might propose to re-establish order and conduct affairs as was done in Cuba were advanced in many quarters with some degree of authority.

That the United States may be required to back up measures and policies is being taken into consideration by administration officials and while there is no comment to indicate the trend of affairs, there is unmistakable evidence that high officials are prepared for any eventuality.

A Secretary Bryan went to conference with President Wilson just after noon he was met by a number of newspaper correspondents but only smiled in reply to the many questions put to him.

DIED WHEN FOOD GAVE OUT

WACO, Texas, Oct. 24.—Experiences of three hundred Americans who made their way out of the besieged city of Torreon, Mexico, was told today by Mrs. T. J. Davis, wife of a mining engineer, upon her arrival here.

The trip from Torreon to Monterrey, ordinarily a journey of eight hours, required two weeks. During the trip Mrs. Davis said several little children died when food gave out and a number of women gave birth to babies. From Monterrey the party tried to reach Laredo, Texas, but was turned back by destroyed railroad tracks. The return trip was made with an American official of the railroad walking in front of the engine. Once he found a charge of dynamite on the track.

MAYOR RUINE SPOKE TO DELEGATES OF WORLD'S WOMEN CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Mayor Rudolph W. Kilgus was not applauded when, in an address welcoming the delegates of the world's women's Christian temperance union to New York city today, he suggested that the solution of the liquor problem lay not in absolute prohibition but in a gradual process of education.

Prolonged handclapping greeted his remark that "I understand some of you believe in total abstinence." "I see that all of you do," he continued, "but I cannot help thinking that temperance is the better word to emphasize. It is well to recognize and not to antagonize the element in human nature that rebels in sudden drastic reform."

When the convention was called to order the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, was filled to overflowing. Flags of all nations and banners representing branch organizations in remote parts of the world decorated the auditorium. Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens of Portland, Me., vice president of the organization, presided in the place of the Countess of Carlisle, who was unable to be present but who sent a letter of regret.

Mrs. Stevens, who was presented with a loving cup by Lady Aurea Howard, daughter of the countess, in behalf of the foreign delegates, announced that the countess had contributed $5000 for white ribbon missionary work.
